WHITE SUGGESTS MUNY GOLF COURSE

Proposal For Poor Farm Use Given Council

CIVIC SOCIETIES ALSO INTERESTED

Believe Project Would Be Self-Sustaining Under Plan Suggested

City Solicitor Robert White today presented a plan before city council and representatives of various civic organizations whereby the New Castle poor farm property would be converted into a site for recreational facilities for adults.

The city poor farm will be abandoned as a place to maintain poor when the new city-county institution is opened. Council, according to White's plan, does not intend to sell the farm or buildings, but to retain them.

Muny Golf Course

White told the representatives from the Chamber of Commerce, Rotary, Kiwanis, Lions and Quota club at the council meeting that it is his belief that the farm would make an excellent municipal golf course, site for tennis courts for grown ups.

After the representatives had departed, he prepared a resolution, broader in scope than had been considered, which names the various clubs to select two members of each organization to:

"Make a study and a recommendation for the development of recreational resources of the city."

The resolution was presented by Councilman D. O. Davies.

It was passed after Burns questioned whether the "municipal farm" the only place to be studied.

White told him that the city did not have to accept the plan and that the committee would not limit its study to the poor farm.

Park System Plan

"What we want to do is to get the citizenry interested in our park system. Unless we do we will not 'get anywhere'," he said.

"We want them to be so inter-

REUNION EVENT NOVEMBER 8, 9 AND 10

In the formal announcement made to the members of the New Castle Consistory this week, some interesting facts concerning the coming fall reunion of that body in its beautiful new cathedral on Lincoln avenue, are given, which will be of interest not only to the members but the people of this city in general.

The reunion is to be held Nevember 8, 9 and 10. It will be the first complete reunion held in the new cathedral. In addition to the degrees to be conferred, there will be a number of interesting social features presented for the entertainment of the members and their ladies.

In view of the fact that this will be the first reunion in the completed structure, it has been deemed fitting to have it preceded by a special religious service on Sunday afternoon, November 7. The Ill. Joseph F. Berry, 33, presiding bishop of the Methodist Episcopal church of the United States, will have charge and preach the dedicatory sermon.

On November 10, the closing day of the reunion, the consistory expects to have as its guest Ill. Leon M. Formally Open Lawrence Club

New Home Is Officially Turned Over To Members On Thursday Evening

LADIES' NIGHT IS PLANNED NEXT WEEK

The new home of the Lawrence club, New Castle's oldest social organization, was formally opened on Thursday evening with an elaborate dinner served at 6:30 o'clock.

Practically a hundred per cent attendance of the membership was had and the affair was an unqualified success.

Although the club has been open for a number of weeks it was not formally turned over to the members by the executive committee until last night. It is located in the Shields property, formerly the Knox home on North Mercer street. The large house has been remodeled for club purposes and admirably fits the uses to which it will be put.

Next Wednesday evening will be "Ladies' Night" when the wives and lady friends of the Lawrence club members will be given an opportunity of inspecting the new home.

FLOWER SHOW FINE SUCCESS

Large Attendance At Exhibition—Best Show As Yet Held

Flower lovers of the county thronged the Carnegie Auditorium Thursday evening to see the Fall Show of the New Castle Garden Club. From the many expressions heard, the concensus of opinion seems to be that this is the best show yet attempted by the club.

The show will close this evening and another crowd is expected. It is well worth the time necessary to attend it, for here are found fall flowers that surprise one with their size and coloring.

Thursday evening Raymond Must, the young man who won the Carnegie Steel trophy this year for being the most faithful boy at the playgrounds, entertained at the piano.

They escaped in a stolen car, authorities added.

Air Mail Pilot Drops 4,000 Feet From His Plane

Parachute Saves Carl A. Lindberg During Storm Over Illinois

LEAPS INTO DARK HIGH UP IN AIR

Plane Is Wrecked When It Comes Down—Mail Is Rescued

(International News Service)
OTTAWA, Ill., Sept. 17.—

Carl A. Lindberg, air mail pilot, who saved his life during a storm last night by stepping off his plane in a parachute 4,000 feet in the air, left for Chicago today to make his report.

Flying from St. Louis to Chicago with a cargo of mail, Lindberg was nearing the Maywood landing field in Chicago when he became lost in a heavy blanket of fog. Soaring about in an effort to get his bearings, Lindberg ran out of gasoline. Disaster was imminent.

With only a few minutes to spare Lindberg opened his parachute and leaped into the dark, 4,000 feet below. His abandoned plane cut spirals around him as he descended.

Lindberg landed in a cornfield near Wedron, Ill., ten miles from Ottawa. He was uninjured. Locating his wrecked plane, Lindberg loaded the mail pouches on his back and proceeded to the postoffice at Ottawa, whence the mail was sent by train to Chicago.

TAGGED CAR IS NO JOKE

To Issue Warrants For Those Who Fail To Answer Notices

There are quite a large number of motorists in this city, according to Chief of Police Henry Dysart, who appear to have come to the point of looking upon the tags placed in their cars for parking violations as jokes.

They have failed to appear in the police station with their tags, even, after letters have been written them. This is making the enforcement of the parking regulations hard and would indicate that many of the motorists would like to make them null and void, at least as far as they are concerned.

On the advice of City Solicitor R. M. White, forms of warrants and informations to cover this violation are now being made up and it is proposed that parking violators, who fail to report and pay their fines, shall realize that it is a serious proposition and not a joke.

This means, the chief states, that violators, who fail to report in the future, will face regular charges and be brought into the police station under arrest. When they get through they will have paid not only the regular dollar fine, but also costs, which will amount to considerable more than the fine and add very materially to the expense of those violating the parking regulations of the city.

Mexican Troops In Battle With Bandits When Captive Is Shot

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Sept. 17. —Strong representations to the Mexican government to protect the lives of Americans in that country have been directed by the State Department as a result of the slaying of Jacob Rosenthal, it was learned today.

Secretary Kellogg, however, will await a complete official report before deciding whether to demand indemnity and other redress, it was indicated.

Mexico Regrets Occurrence

Expressions of regret have already been informally given to the American charge d'affaires in Mexico City and assurances were conveyed that every effort had been made by the federal authorities to rescue the kidnaped man.

The brief official reports received by the State Department told of a sharp battle waged with the bandits by the federal troops after a three-day pursuit. Two bandits were killed and vengeance was taken on Rosenthal before the remainder fled.

Belief was expressed here that the American's life might have been saved had the commander of the federal troops negotiated for his re-

WEINGARTNER HEADS BOARD

Named As President Of Shenango Valley Board Of Directors Last Night

At a meeting of the directors of the Shenango Valley Hospital last night, Hon. George T. Weingartner was elected as president for the ensuing year. He will succeed Attorney John P. Lockhart, who has been president during the past five years, and who, as head of this institution has accomplished a fine service to the community, and has proven a most capable president. It is with regret that the directors see him retire from the presidency.

In the forty years that the Shenango Valley hospital has been serving the local community, there have been but few presidents of the board of directors, who have shared the heavy responsibilities of the office. William Patterson was the first president, then came Rufus Patterson, J. P. H. Cunningham, Fred L. Rentz, John P. Lockhart, and now Mr. Weingartner.

Alleged Slayer Of James Cucia Gets Re-Hearing

Favorable Action Is Taken In Case Of Pete Christean By Pardon Board

Board of pardons meeting at Harrisburg yesterday afternoon granted a petition for a re-hearing of Pete Christean, sentenced from Lawrence county for the murder of Policeman James Cucia, Christean was convicted here of first degree murder, and on December 5, 1921, was sentenced to be electrocuted Nov. 22, 1922. Later his sentence was commuted to life imprisonment.

Last October he made application to the board of pardons, for a pardon, but after hearing the case, the application was refused. It was again taken, and as a result the board has decided to hear it. It is likely that his new application will be taken up next month.

Christean is charged with shooting Policeman James Cucia during a holdup on Preston avenue. One of the bandits who was with Christean was shot, but Christean escaped. Later he was arrested at Cincinnati, O., and brought back here for trial. At the trial of the case an attempt was made to establish an alibi, but the jury brought in a verdict of guilty.

"KampusKars" Are Banned At Westminster College With Start Of Term

(Special To The News)
NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., Sept 17.—Students of Westminster college in residence will not be permitted to operate motor cars about the campus during the new school year which officially opened with registration Wednesday. Announcement to this effect was made at the first chapel service Thursday by Dr. W. Charles Wallace, president of the institution.

The ruling which was made by action of the faculty at a recent meeting came as no surprise to the majority of the students as it had been rumored for some time that such action was to be taken.

It will be possible, however for students who travel from home to school to operate machines by special request from the dean of men. Special permission may also be granted by the dean for occasions in which the use of cars is a necessity.

The edict marks the passing of the "Kampus Kar" which was popular among the students last year. These cars were usually Fords that had seen many years service and could be purchased for small sums.

The action on the part of the faculty was deemed necessary in order to safeguard the lives of pedestrian students and may also be conducive to more study on the part of would-be car owners.

Similar action has been taken in practically all colleges and universities throughout the country. The rule becomes effective Friday September 24.

Important Checks Under Probe In Daugherty Trial

Trial Is Now Termed "Trail Of Checks" As Case Nears Climax

MERTON DENIES DIRECT CHARGES

By DAVID P. SENTNER
International News Service Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, Sept. 17. — The "trail of the checks", the legal melodrama being staged by U. S. Attorney Emory R. Buckner, moved toward a possible climax or anticlimax today at the continuation of the trial of Harry M. Daugherty, former attorney general, and Thomas W. Miller, former alien property custodian, charged with conspiracy in connection with the return of $7,000,000 in German-owned assets of the American Metals Company seized during the war.

Checks Figure

Checks made out to Daugherty by John T. King, late Connecticut politician, are being stressed in the government's case. Another important financial document, according to the prosecution, is a "mystery check" made out to cash by John T. King to the amount of $25,000. There are also a bevy of other checks slipping in and out of the involved testimony.

The government alleges that Daugherty and Miller received part of $441,000 paid to John T. King by Richard Merton, German financier, for aiding in the recovery of the claim. Merton has denied from the witness stand knowledge of government officials receiving any part of this sum.

Rain Falling Over Much Of Stricken Area

Loss Is Estimated At $20,000,000 Or More—Thousands Reported Homeless

CITIZENS BATTLE TO SAVE LEVEES

Illinois, Indiana And Iowa Are Hardest Hit By Flood Ravages

(International News Service)
CHICAGO, Sept. 17.—The most damaging flood in half a century was sweeping over vast areas of ten mid-western states today. Property loss thus far has been placed at upwards of $20,000,000, although any accurate estimate at this time is impossible. At least 20 persons are known to have lost their lives.

Rain continued falling today over much of the stricken area. Thousands of families have been driven from their homes and are seeking temporary refuge on higher ground. Whole counties of rich farm land are under water in some states, the crops laid waste.

Three-Eye States Hit

The "three eye" states of Illinois, Indiana and Iowa are the hardest hit. Missouri, Michigan, Wisconsin and Ohio are also suffering heavy damage.

Skunk river, flowing through the extreme southeastern corner of Iowa, presents the real drama of the flood. There hundreds of citizens of Lee county are working day and night on the levees in a frantic effort to keep pace with the rising river.

The levee has gone out in one or two places, flooding hundreds of rich farm land and driving farmers and livestock to the hills. Several towns and villages in the Skunk valley are threatened with complete inundation. Similar conditions prevail along the Illinois river, which has reached a flood stage of 24 feet. Beardstown, Ill., is threatened and hundreds of workers are fighting to save the weakened levees.

Highways have been washed out and train service badly impaired over the stricken area. Motor traffic in the flooded sections of Illinois, Iowa and Indiana has been practically abandoned.

Fear of disease as an aftermath of the flood was the chief concern of health authorities today. The natural water supply of thousands has been practically cut off. In some sections there is no water to drink save that of the swollen, muddy streams. Waterworks and power houses in many towns have been put out of commission.

Council Adopts Three Ordinances

Council today adopted three ordinances calling for the construction of three sanitary sewers in Taylor and Beatty streets and also McCleary avenue.

Let's hope that Old Sol is a football fan, and the field is dry for the boys, and let's get out with a lot of pep and stir up a little noise. Take the afternoon off and be out, old top, and see them roll up the score. It's the day for football, the game of games; the weather is seventy-four.

SPECIAL PLANS WILL BE MADE

Increase In Number Of Hours Required Is Announced At Opening

(Special To The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., Sept. 17.—Dr. W. Charles Wallace, president of Westminster College, presided at the opening chapel service held at the college Thursday. It was the first time that the incoming freshmen were assembled and President Wallace took the opportunity to make numerous important announcements.

With the opening of the new term Westminster's authorities find themselves with an enrollment of more than 100 than can be seated in the college chapel at one time, and with a chapel service being on the daily program special arrangements must be made. The plan has not been definitely completed, but it is very probable that freshmen and sophomores will attend each day, with juniors and seniors reporting on alternate days.

Increase in Hours

Announcement was also made concerning the increased number of school hours that must be passed to make one eligible to enroll the following semester. All freshmen must pass nine hours, whereas only seven were formerly required. All upper classmen must pass in 10 hours and not more than five hours can be of a "D" grade.

Freshman hats and arm bands were distributed following the chapel service and the newcomers immediately started wearing the insignia, which marks them as freshmen. The dinks are worn by the men and the arm bands by the girl students. The dinks are of a pale green hue with white stripes and peaks of dark blue. They are distinctive, to say the least.

Dr. Wallace also announced the various faculty committees for the year. They are: courses of study: Dr. Charles Freemen, Dr. E. B. Russell, Dr. J. A. Swindler, Prof. J. A. Shott, Dr. C. A. Dawson, Dr. Rachel Hibbard, Dr. G. H. Taylor and Dr. B. E. Quick.

Town Talk

In the current issue of the publication of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce, in which records of many cities with reward to automobile fatalities are shown, New Castle is one of the twenty-eight reporting cities on the roll of honor for the month of July, because of the fact that no motor fatalities occurred in these cities during that month. There was one motor fatality reported from this city during the month, but owing to the fact that it occurred outside the city, this city was accorded the honor of being mentioned among the cities free from such fatalities.

Now that the tomato question is out of the way, temporarily at least, we can turn our attention to some of the exceptionally fine cucumbers which are being raised by local gardners. When the "vegetable editor" arrived at the News office this morning he found a couple of entries thereon from the garden of Mrs. Emil Krueger who lives at 238 Smithfield street.

These overgreen pickles are a pair which Mrs. Krueger raised in her own garden. One is 12 inches long, ten and a quarter inches in circumference and weighs an even two pounds. The other is thirteen inches long, eleven and a half inches in circumference and weighs two pounds and six ounces.

Mrs. Krueger rightfully believes that they are "champion" cucumbers and if anybody can beat them she, and the News, would like to hear about them.

Persons on North Mill, near where the street car terminal is located, just north of Washington street, shortly after four o'clock Thursday afternoon, witnessed one of the narrowest escapes from severe injury that has been seen on the streets here in a long time. A youth of about 16 was riding the front fender of a truck when the truck suddenly slowed up in speed. The boy was hurled off and alighted on his head, was rolled over, and appeared to have been badly hurt. Officer Steiner, who was waiting for the street car, rushed to the side of the lad, as did several others. Steiner was first to him. He picked up the lad, stood him on his feet, and was amazed to see the youth walk to the truck, resume his place on the fender and tell the driver to proceed. Most every spectator to the accident believed that the boy had been badly hurt.

While collection of garbage on the North Hill has been exceptionally well taken care of for a long time, the collectors appear to have lagged behind in their schedules recently. Many of the householders report that collections seem to be considerably delayed. Due to the unusually large amount of garbage to be collected at this season of the year, the garbage department has been facing a huge task recently, the department heads relate.

Oysters are here for the season, according to signs noted here and there about the city.

This is an unusual year, not only for rainfall, but for grasshoppers, according to local gardeners. William Gustafson, who resides on the Pulaski road and raises considerable garden stuff, says that he has never seen so many grasshoppers in any season. They are attacking tomatoes and other vegetables in a way that is serious, he reports.

According to Frank M. Hay, well known mail carrier, who resides in the Gardner district, he has seen some fireworks, but none like that he witnessed Wednesday night during the heavy electrical storm which swept over this district. This display, which he states he does not care to witness again very soon, occurred when lightning struck a high tension wire in the vicinity of his home and a ball of fire ran from the place it struck to the next supporting pole.

Kills Self With Dynamite Charge

(International News Service)

DIXON CITY, Pa., Sept. 17.—The body of John Husband, 58, missing from his home here since yesterday, was found in the woods today.

Authorities said they were informed that Husband had been acting strangely for the past several months.

New Castle Fair Cattle Entries Are Larger Than Ever

A criterion of the extent of the exhibits which will be on display at the New Castle Fair this year is found in the fact the Fair officials found it necessary this week to close the cattle entries due to the fact that all possible accommodations for this branch have been spoken for.

An insight into the class of the animals which have been entered is given in a perusal of the list of entries which shows such herds as that of R. J. Cunningham of Greensburg, nationally known Hereford breeder and the herd of Holsteins which have brought fame to the Firestone Farms at Lisbon, O.

Entries in all classes are heavier and greater than ever before in the history of the Fair it was stated at the temporary headquarters in the Farm Bureau this morning and it may be found necessary to close other classes within a few days due to the rapid rate at which entries are being received and accepted.

The lighter side of the Fair is not being neglected either and special attention is being given to the arrangements for the Night Fair. Five big time sensational acts especially adapted for outdoor performances have been booked for the Fair and they will be staged gratis every evening. Ample lighting arrangements have been made and the people who attend the night Fair will find the grounds as easy to travel as in daylight.

lease instead of precipitately charging the bandits.

Veiled Statements

It is believed here that the Mexican government will take immediate steps to expiate the crime. Veiled statements have been made in Mexico City charging the kidnaping of Rosenthal to enemies of the Calles government who are seeking to foment trouble with the United States.

Opponents of the Mexican policy of the administration are expected to cite the brutal slaying of Rosenthal in renewing demands for interference in Mexican affairs.

To Apprehend Slayers

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 17.—Urgent representations were made to the Mexican government today by the American charge, Schoenfeld, insisting that the Mexican government take all steps to apprehend and punish the slayers of Jacob Rosenthal of Woodmere, N. Y.

Troops and police are reported to be pursuing the bandits who held Rosenthal for ransom and then killed him rather than have him captured by the troops, who had resorted to a ruse to lure the bandits and their captive into a trap.

Rosenthal's body was brought to Mexico City today and will be prepared for shipment to the United States for burial.

In some quarters there is a disposition to believe that if the authorities had permitted Lucien Ruff, son-in-law of Rosenthal, to approach the bandits with the ransom demanded that the New York man's life might have been saved.

PROPOSAL FOR POOR FARM USE GIVEN COUNCIL

ested," said Councilman Genkinger "that when we raise the millage we will want them to 'go along.'

Among the gentlemen who met with councilmen were William Nunn and William Offutt.

The latter showed on a blueprint what a fine golf course could be laid out.

He also said a stream might produce water in such a quantity for a swimming pool.

Mr. Nunn said that he believed the farm should be converted into a place where every member of the family could find amusement.

He did not believe that the farm, neither did any of the gentlemen from the clubs believe it should be used for any particular recreation.

After the gentlemen departed the resolution was presented.

Previously the farm had been considered by Director of the poor William Williams, now confined to his residence, as an ideal spot for an orphans' home.

Today E. S. Stevenson, acting director of the poor, said: "The town is over-run by orphans."

Councilman Davies was asked if he had "abandoned ideas of the department of poor for an orphans' home at the poor farm."

"When the county takes over the local poor district we will have nothing to do with them. The county must assume the control," he said.

Later Solicitor White said that the committee, when formed, would make a comprehensive study of all recreational facilities not only at the municipal farm but throughout the city.

He believes that if the plan for the farm was accepted, it might prove self-sustaining. Other cities have municipal links and he said he is figuring for the future in sponsoring the plan.

SMARTEST

IT SEEMS that every generation has to learn all the old lessons for itself. Well, it certainly is more convincing that way than another. The Junior College of Detroit has just made some tests, and learned what is would seem almost everybody ought to have known already—that girls are smarter than boys.

Those students will learn many things between Now and Then, but if the boys of the Detroit Junior College have firmly annexed the idea that girls are smarter than boys, they are already equipped with a strong weapon. No man who ever amounted to anything did it without some woman's help, and not many of those same men ever gave the woman credit for it, either.

There is one good old hearty pastime in which boys and girls engage, and in former days it was known as courting. An occasional sheik might arise—they were poetically called Young Lochinvars in those times—who could turn the hearts of all the maidfolk. But whichever girl really and truly set her heart upon him, brought him to his knees, sure as fiddlin'. And as for the majority of the young fellows who shined up in store shirts on Sundays and wore tight shoes to the dances, they were just putty on the hands of every girl they met.

The weaker sex? Huh, the brainier sex!!!! Ask the boys of the Detroit Junior College! Ask the boys of any high school, for that matter.

HALF-FORGOTTEN MR. COX

MR. JAMES MIDDLETON COX, who gets his mail at Dayton, O., has been touring in Europe during the summer. He learned that Americans are not so popular there as they were in 1917 and 1918, when both American manpower and American money were highly regarded. He goes so far, in fact, as to say that the Americans are now the most-hated people of the world.

This, he has discovered, is because of what he calls the Republican debt policy, which so many Democrats denounce as being far too soft and much too generous. If the votes of congress mean anything, this has been a policy supported by all parties and without partisanship. It will be news to many Democrats as well as Republican congressmen when they hear it belongs to the Republicans. However, Mr. Cox of Dayton, who has spent the summer in Great Britain and France, where cancelationists are thick as leaves in a forest, has discovered that it is a Republican policy.

And he is much wrought up about it. Just who is Mr. Cox? Well, he may be remembered by those who have long memories as the presidential candidate who thought America should enter the League of Nations and who led his party into one of the most abysmal of the many defeats in its history back in 1920.—Public Ledger.

THE SUCKER CROP

BARNUM said it, and the swelling list of victims of stock swindlers proves it. The executive committee of the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World estimates that profits taken by fake stock venders during the past year aggregated $600,000,000. There may be uncertainty as to whether the large number of suckers, thus evidenced is due to the prevalence of fraud or whether the prevalence of fraud is due to the inviting number of suckers, but there is certainty that the supply of fraud and the demand for it are too great.

When the sucker goes after easy money, the fraudulent go after him and get it. It is the desire to reap large profits on small investment that makes the average easy mark so gullible when the glib salesman of fake stock is hawking his wares. As long as such desire and gullibility combine to make the game of the fraudulent easy, the promoters of fake stock schemes will continue to take their toll. The case is one in which the victim helps in his own undoing, and the protection that can be given him depends, at least partially, on his willingness to heed the warning against biting tempting bait.

Every man is convinced that he has enough moral stamina to stand prosperity.

MEN AND GRASS

Some blades of grass are tall,
  Some rich with green,
Some seem so very small,
  Some harsh and mean.

Stand close and you may see
  The patches of despair;
The difference in degree
  Of wealth that's there.

Stand off at dusk or dawn
  And every single blade
Blends to a velvet lawn
  That life has made.

The cutter comes and mows
  The rich blade and the tall,
No favorite he knows,
  He levels one and all.

So with the world of men,
  Stand close and shame we see,
Plainly we notice then
  The difference in degree.

But from the distance viewed,
  Even as lawns grow fair.
The great, the low, the rude
  A lovely grace may wear.

And death, the cutter, mows
  Alike the great and small.
No favorite he knows.
  He levels one and all.

Dear Hints: This poem "Old Gates," is fitted to your column:

Oh, I think they muse and mourn,
  And tremble at my touch—.
The old gates are solemn things.
  For they remember much:

The little hands that opened them—
  And little feet at play—
The sad hearts that went through them.
  Forever, far away:

The hot tears that fell on them,
  The handclasp through the bars,
The love words and promises
  Beneath the wistful stars.

Silent loves of other days—
  Oh, speak to them as such,
For old gates are mournful things
  And they remember much.

Gary Resign? Why?
Do You Want a Bison?
Kipling Feels Badly.
Sweeping the Heavens.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

Judge Gary, head of the big steel company, will be 80 years old next month, and Wall Street asks, "Will he retire?"

A great business needs a thinking mind, not a hurdle jumper. Why should he retire?

Gladstone ran the British parliament when he was past 80, Von Moltke ran the German army when past 80. Pope Leo ran the worldwide Catholic church at 90.

Why should Judge Gary retire in the prime of life? Many of his friends can testify to his perfect health and great energy.

His organization holds its competitors in the hollow of its hand, and has $400,000,000 cash in bank.

If that be the result of old age, many corporations would like some of that old age.

What man wants to do, he can do. A little while ago the noble bison was dying out, everybody had said, farewell to him. Now the government, with herds of bison on its hands, offers you a vigorous live bison for $85, that you couldn't have bought for $5,000 a little while ago.

Rudyard Kipling does not like us, and tells us about it in poetry, beginning:

"At the eleventh hour he came."

Kipling goes on to describe this nation as "deaf to mirth and blind to scorn."

However, Kipling is old, past his selling period, and his British ego "complex" would make it the duty of Uncle Sam to finance England in her troubles.

England has arranged to pay part of her debt. If she wants to cry about it in verse, nobody here will object.

However, would Mr. Kipling answer these questions in another poem?

If the United States had been engaged in a war in 1914, "with its back to the wall," as Kitchener put it, how many billions of dollars would England have sent us, and how many millions of men? One man, one dollar?

No. What did Great Britain do in our Civil War, and in 1776 and 1812. What great claim on American gratitude and generosity, has Great Britain established, beyond the fact that on two occasions she took a beating quickly and gracefully?

Philosophers from many countries gathered in Cambridge, Massachusetts, tell the world("Materialistic theories cannot explain the marvels of the living world."

Materialism cannot explain anything for the reason, among others that there is no such thing as matter. Reduce solid steel or floating feather to the so-called ultimate atom. Examine the atom and you find a small solar system like our own, the nucleus for sun, little electrons flying around it, for planets. Matter is only particles of electric energy. And no one knows what that is.

A scientist said, "I have swept the heavens with my telescope, and find no trace of God." A dissector of the human body said, "I have gone all through the human brain, and find no trace of thought, soul or mind."

Nevertheless, thought, soul and mind do exist in that little universe we call the brain. A greater mind exists somewhere in that greater brain, the universe.

DO GENTLEMEN REALLY PREFER BLONDES?

Anita Loos' book has brought the preference of gentlemen for blondes into discussion all over the country.

Someone turned the matter around when he described a large butter-and-egg man going into a New York hotel and saying to the manicure girl, "Hello, Cutie, you look pretty good to me. May I take you out to lunch?" "Well," she said, "you see, blondes prefer gentlemen."

A writer in The London Daily Mail seriously challenges the statement about gentlemen and blondes. He says that as a matter of fact brunettes have the advantage.

An English doctor some time ago collected statistics to the effect that from among nearly one thousand women 78 per cent of the dark-haired ones were married and only 68 per cent of the fair were wives.

The old English word "fair" meant beautiful, and it is interesting to observe that of a number of celebrated "fair" women many were actually dark.

Byron liked dark women, and so did Thomas Moore.

Although the Greeks and Romans admired fair-haired women, most of the notable belles of modern times have been brunettes.

The writer in The Mail declares that Lady Venetia Stanley, who married Sir Kenelm Digby, had brown hair and eyebrows, that the Gunnings of the eighteenth century were dark blondes and that Lady Hamilton was a brunette; also that Mrs. Overall, known as the greatest beauty of England in her time, was dark.

Baudelaire so admired dark women that he fell in love with a mulatto.

All of Thackeray's heroines were brunettes.

Brunettes have greater vitality than blondes. And the number of fair people in Europe is stated to be rapidly diminishing.

Altogether, history does not seem to bear out the statement that "gentlemen prefer blondes".

POEMS I LOVE

BY CHARLES HANSON TOWNE

"The Garden of Prosperine," by A. C. Swinburne.

The late Alice Meynell referred to Swinburne as "that tinkling rhymster." She failed, somehow, to see the magic and beautiful imagery behind the faultless lines of the great lyrical poet. I think myself that too much of Swinburne at a time reacts on one as a drug. Sometimes all one can think of while reading him is the heavy perfume of funeral roses; but if his poems are only tunes, I am grateful even for that. This is a great favorite of mine.

Here, where the world is quiet;
  Here, where all trouble seems
Dead winds' and spent waves' riot
  In doubtful dreams of dreams;
I watch the green field growing
For reaping folk and sowing,
For harvest-time and mowing,
  A sleepy world of streams.

I am tired of tears and laughter,
  And men that laugh and weep;
Of what may come hereafter
  For men that sow to reap;
I am weary of days and hours,
Blown buds of barren flowers,
Desires and dreams and powers
  And everything but sleep.

Pale, beyond porch and portal,
  Crowned with calm leaves, she stands
Who gathers all things mortal
  With cold immortal hands;
Her languid lips are sweeter
Than love's who fears to greet her
  From many times and lands .

She waits for each and other,
  She waits for all men born;
Forgets the earth her mother,
  The life of fruits and corn;
And spring and seed and swallow
Take wing for her and follow
Where summer song rings hollow
  And flowers are put to scorn.

From too much love of living,
  From hope and fear set free,
We thank with brief thanksgiving
  Whatever gods may be
That no life lives forever;
That dead men rise up never;
That even the weariest river
  Winds somewhere safe to sea.

Then star nor sun shall waken,
  Nor any change of light:
Nor sounds of waters shaken,
  Nor any sound or sight:
Nor wintry leaves nor vernal,
  Nor days nor things diurnal;
Only the sleep eternal
  In an eternal night.

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

MORE CONCERNING LUMBER

There appeared in this column, on September 4th, certain observations made by the writer, concerning the nation's timber supply. About simultaneously with that publication, there appeared in the "Nation's Business", for September, a story by Henry Schott, the Director of the West Coast Lumber Trade Extension Bureau, concerning this matter.

I am not an expert in the lumber business by any means. I only recorded what I had seen in passing through the great timber belts of this nation. Henry Schott, on the contrary, has made a study of the situation at close hand, and he bears me out in every particular. Read what he says:

"The propagandists are honest in their statements—enthusiasts who so often put the dramatic above the fact. As an example—and this is from Gifford Pinchot when he was government forester—I quote an Associated Press dispatch, dated Washington, D. C., November 4, 1907, nineteen years ago. In this Mr. Pinchot says:"

> " 'In twenty years the timber supply in the United States, on government reserves and private holdings, at the present rate of cutting, will be exhausted, although it is possible that the growth of that period might extend the arrival of the famine another five years.' "

"Nineteen years have passed, but where is Mr. Pinchot's famine?"

"To-day there is a greater stand of merchantable timber in the territory west of the Rocky Mountains than there ever was in all of the great original forests of New England, of New York, Pennsylvania and New Jersey, and of the lake states, Michigan, Wisconsin and Minnesota."

"The authority for this statement is the report of the United States Forest Service, entitled "Timber Depletion and Lumber Prices", known as the "Capper Report". The report says that it finds a total of 1,100 billion board feet as the original stand of the three sections. This is less than the estimated present stand of the Pacific Coast States, which the United States Department of Agriculture estimates 1,141 billion board feet. For the sake of comparability, all these figures are estimates of sawtimber stands; the same general comparisons would, of course, hold true for total stands, including fuel wood and the like."

"No one can question the great good done by the conservationist movement. To-day, it is safe to say, every lumberman on this coast is an advocate of conservation—practical conservation. His ideas on that subject may best be described in these words."

> " 'Wise forest protection does not mean the withdrawal of forest resources,, whether of wood, water, or grass, from contributing their full share to the welfare of the people, but, on the contrary, gives the assurance of larger and more certain supplies. The fundamental idea of forestry is the perpetuation of forests by use.'
> " 'Forest protection is not an end in itself, it is a means to increase and sustain the resources of our country and the industries which depend upon them.' "

"That statement was made by a great conservationist—and a practical conservationist — Theodore Roosevelt. The lumberman of the West Coast subscribes to every word of it."

"Many a misguided and well-intentioned idealist firmly believes that not a tree in the forest should be cut."

"No one has ever explained to them that growing timber is a crop, just as wheat or alfalfa or corn. A tree grows, reaches its prime—that is, becomes ripe—and then comes decline and decay. It would be quite as sensible to permit those overripe trees to remain uncut and rot away as it would be to let a field of ripe wheat or corn go back into the soil."

Mr. Schott recounts a story of a dinner where the speaker presented a picture of clouds of smoke hanging over the mountain side where the great natural resources were feeding the insatiate firey Moloch. No one disputed the speaker, although it was a Lumbermen's Dinner. The speaker, in telling about the smoke covered mountain sides and burning trees, was almost overcome, but the lumbermen guests remained quiet. They believed that the Speaker was not moved by malice, but they knew that he had wrong information, always speaking from a lack of correct information, for it is a fact that over a period of ten years, the fire losses in merchantable timber, in the State of Washington—where the dinner was held—have averaged 1-60—not 1-6, but 1-60—of 1 per cent of the standing forests.

It is always hard to learn the truth and there are some people who will not believe the truth when it is told.

Overflow Convention Of Blackbirds Held Along Milton Street

The blackbirds convention which is in session in the Maple trees on Park avenue had an overflow meeting in one of the trees on Milton street yesterday.

The hundreds that were gathered on the East Side street might have been a committee appointed by the president of the convention to discuss ways and means of taking the best route to the southland before the frost comes, or perhaps they were deciding on the next place of conducting the annual meeting.

From the loud discussion that they were having it was thought that the older and wiser heads wanted the next convention in the East Side where the cats are trained not to molest their little ones.

Any way after a great deal of loud chattering that wakened some of the late sleepers on the street they finally flew away to the convention headquarters to give their report.

Some of the lay delegates have lived in the Milton street vicinity all summer and have caused some of the folks who don't like this particular feathered tribe much annoyance by their early morning concerts.

DRY AGENTS TO MEET MONDAY

Administrators Are Summoned To Washington For Conference

Andrews Seeks To Learn Prohibition Situation throughout Nation

By ROBERT THORNBURGH
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—A real picture of prohibition conditions throughout the United States will come out of the national conference of dry administrators, to open in Washington Monday, treasury officials asserted today.

Balked in his advocacy of a scientific dry survey, Gen. L. C. Andrews, prohibition chief, expects to obtain the facts from his administrators, who are striving to enforce the law in all states.

Conference Plans Completed

Arrangements for the conference were completed today, a number of administrators already having arrived. They will report individually to Andrews on conditions in their districts.

Out of the conference Andrews expects to obtain information that may lead to a radical change in enforcement methods, although no personnel shake-up is anticipated.

"I want to sit down with the administrators and find out exactly what is going on in the various districts", Andrews said. "The conference should result in more scientific plans for meeting the difficulties."

Anticipate Appointments

A number of important prohibition appointments are anticipated within a short time, with all the political primaries out of the way and the possibility of naming executives without political complications lessened. Vacancies at Buffalo and the dismissal of Ned M. Green, chief at San Francisco, will be filled soon.

Following the administrators' conference Andrews is expected to head an American delegation which will seek negotiation of a new anti-smuggling agreement with the Canadian authorities, similar to that completed in London.

Negotiate With Mexico

While no official announcement has been made, it was understood that this government hopes to open negotiations with Mexico, Cuba and possibly several European and South American countries to clear up misunderstandings which are resulting in liquor smuggling.

With some check on registration of foreign liquor vessels under British, Canadian, Mexican and Cuban flags, as the result of treaties, officials said that the smugglers are turning to the protection of other countries in the effort to keep rum ships moving in the American trade.

Many rum runners are said to be seeking sailing papers from Central and South American countries, as well as France and Germany.

Harrisburg Credit Man To Speak Here

James D. Hays To Address Dinner Meeting At Fountain Inn Monday Evening

James D. Hays, manager of the Harrisburg Credit Exchange, has been secured to deliver an address on "Credit and its Relation to the Community", at a dinner sponsored by the local better business bureau at the Fountain Inn Monday, September 20, at 6:30 o'clock.

Hays is Pennsylvania state chairman of the National Retail Credit Men's Association and has had years of experience in this line. He is a very forceful speaker who handles his subject in a very interesting manner, and the message he brings is one that cannot fail to be of great benefit to all of the business interests of this city. Under his management, the Harrisburg Credit Exchange has become one of the most widely and favorably known ones in the United States, and in addition to building up very stable credit conditions in the Harrisburg territory and in saving its members many thousands of dollars annually. Under Mr. Hays' management, it has grown from practically nothing until it now has between 130,000 and 150,000 credit listings.

Boy Accidentally Drinks Some Acid

Long Avenue Boy Will Recover From Effects Of Swallowing Acid

Little George Speers, aged 3 years, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lee S. Speers of the Marlin apartments, East Long avenue, until recently residents of Carson street, is now recovering from the effects of swallowing a small quantity of carbolic acid.

While his mouth was severely burned by the acid, it is now thought that but a very small quantity of the acid reached his throat and stomach, as he is able to drink water and eat a little food.

The incident occurred on Wednesday, when the Speers family moved from their former location on Carson street to an apartment in the Marlin building on Long avenue.

The little boy found the bottle of carbolic acid after his arrival at the new apartment. It had been left there by a previous tenant in the apartment. The acid burned him and for that reason the little fellow stopped drinking the stuff and attracted the members of the family to him in a short time. This is believed to have saved him from more serious injury and possible death.

His speedy recovery is now expected.

GROCERS AT CORN ROAST

Event Is Enjoyed At Liberty Grange Hall On Harlansburg Road

The corn and weiner roast held last night by the Retail Grocers Association of this city at the Liberty grange hall on the Harlansburg road was very largely attended, there being 65 retail and wholesale grocers of the city in attendance at the event.

The feed served by the committee in charge was enjoyed by all. The feature of the evening was the addresses given by guests of the occasion on the value of cooperative advertising.

The principal address of the evening was given by John D. Millar of Altoona, Pa., who spoke at some length on the value of cooperative advertising and cooperation in all lines.

Other speakers of the evening were Messrs. Harris and Kale of Youngstown, O., and Sergeant, sales manager of Cruickshank Brothers of Pittsburgh.

Another interesting feature of the evening was the music furnished by a group of musicians. This is but the forerunner of other meetings and social sessions planned by the Retail Grocers Association.

Man Is Detained For Shooting Of Pair In Scranton

International News Service)

SCRANTON, Pa., Sept. 17.—Edward Vecchi, 23, of Scranton today was held by police following the fatal shooting of Lawrence Mangiola of West Scranton, and the wounding of Quedo Vecchi, brother of Edward.

Mangialo was shot, police said, after he had wounded Quedo Vecchi as the latter lay asleep in a hammock at his home here. Mangiola was believed to have been crazed by brooding over the death of his 11-year-old son Lawrence, who was killed when struck by Vecchi's automobile several weeks ago.

Police arrested Edward after, they said, he admitted firing at Mangiola to avenge Quedo's wounding.

Quedo, in a serious condition in a local hospital, is said to have denied that his brother fired the shots at Mangiola.

HIGH JUMPER MEETS DEATH

Leaps From Delaware River Bridge And Fails To Survive.

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 17.—A man supposed to be Vincent Vitale about 21, was killed when he tried to make a successful jump from the Delaware river bridge to the river nearly 135 feet below Thursday according to police and bridge officials.

Searching his coat the man left behind when he jumped from the big span connecting Philadelphia, and Camden, N. J., police found a card on which was printed: "Delaware river bridge jump performed by Vincent Vitale known as 'high jumper' 230 South Eighth street, Philadelphia. Other jumps, Galveston, Texas, grain elevator and Berkley bridge, Norfolk, Va."

At the address named, it was stated that a man by that name came there a month ago and rented a room.

The body has not been recovered.

Cavanaugh's wife and daughter had gone out last evening with Norman W. Taylor, another Chicago actor, to celebrate the child's sixth birthday with a little dinner. Cavanaugh declined to go, saying he wanted to retire early. When the party returned they found the man dead. Around his neck was a valise strap one end of which was tied to the bed post.

226th Year Opens At Yale This Fall

New Dean Is In Charge At Famous University For Current Year

(International News Service)

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Sept. 17.—Yale University is starting her 226th year this autumn, her two hundred and twelfth year in New Haven after being dragged bodily from the shore town of Saybrook where her possessions were spattered with blue paint by the indignant residents of that town who hated to see Yale go—whereby the Yale blue came into existence.

Ancient Yale College is to have a new guide this year in the person of Clarence W. Mendell, professor of Latin Language and Literature, who has been named dean to succeed Frederick S. Jones, who had been dean of the college since 1910. Dean Jones is now on a year's leave of absence with retirement at the end. Professor Mendell will work as acting dean until then and become full-fledged dean a year hence.

Professor Mendell graduated here in 1904 and two years later went for study in Rome, Athens, and Germany, returning to Yale, as an instructor in 1907. He received a degree of Ph. D. in 1910, and the next year became an assistant professor at Yale.

During the war Professor Mendell was a member of the Intelligence department, U. S. A. secret service having previously served as head of the Yale Bureau of the American University Union in Paris. When the war ended Professor Mendell with Professor Charles Seymour, also of Yale, were attached to the Boundary Commission of the Versailles conference. Their particular duty was to define the boundaries of Austria and Hungary.

Long Dresses For Girls, Overalls For Boys Start Rumpus

(International News Service)

ARCADIA, Kan., Sept. 17.—No more will dimpled knees peep from beneath the skirts of young teachers and younger feminine pupils and lip stick and rouge will be strictly taboo as well in educational circles here as a result of the rule which was put into effect here this year by the board of education. "Skirts six inches below the knees" it reads.

Boys must wear overalls, unionalls, or knee pants suspended from the shoulders the regulations continue.

The result of the announcement of the rules has been that teachers pupils and parents are up in arms alike. Even possession of cosmetics is prohibited and infraction of the order is punishable by dismissal for teachers or by expulsion for pupils.

"The rules are an insult against the morals of our children and against the morals and decency of our teachers" is the opinion which has been announced by a number of mothers of girls in the public schools.

"These regulations are no joke and they will be enforced to the letter" is the dictum.

Kansas Parties In New Precedents

(International News Service)

TOPEKA, Kan., Sept. 17.—The Republican and Democratic parties in Kansas are on record as establishing precedents.

For the first time the Democrats have thrown by the wayside their former pronounced aversion to high protective tariffs and have enthusiastisally endorsed the McNary-Haugen bill, under the leadership of former Governor Jonathan M. Davis, their nominee. The Republicans through Kansas have been honored for the first time in recent years in the selection of W. M. Jardine of Manhattan as a cabinet member—secretary of agriculture—have made no mention of the cabinet officer, his policies or extended him an invitation to participate in the bi-annual pow-wows of his party.

The Democratic and Republican state conventions just recently were held concurrently here at the capital.

Political observers claim there is much significance in the action of both parties. Some foresee dropping of the present doctrine by the Democrats all over the nation and a clamor for tariff protection.

Jardine's opposition to the McNary-Haugen bill was ascribed by many Republicans, privately, as the reason for obscuring the name of the former agricultural college president.

Daylight Saving Time Urged For California

(International News Service)

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept 17.—Advocates of daylight saving time for California have launched an aggressive campaign to secure the earliest possible legislation to make the plan effective.

At present, it is pointed out, practically every California city which operates in a business way with eastern cities is under a serious handicap. Daylight saving will place the state on a parity with all large eastern communities now operating under its schedule.

The San Francisco Chamber of Commerce is particularly active in the campaign and has marshalled numerous facts to be placed before the voters of the state.

Daylight saving. Chamber of Commerce representatives claim, is practically in California because of the size of the state which exceeds the entire area of New England, and is conducive to efficiency and health as well as economy.

Lawrence County Sportsmen Asked To Attend Meeting

Ten Assistant Game Wardens To Be Appointed September 27

OTHER NEWS NOTES OF MERCER COUNTY

(Special To The News)

MERCER, Pa., Sept. 17. — The Lawrence County Sportsmen's Association have been invited by the six co-operative wild life clubs in Mercer County to meet with them here on the evening of September 27, when appointment will be made of 10 assistant game wardens in Mercer County.

The Lawrence County sportsmen are desired to attend because of the releasing this summer of 250 Hungarian quail in the Neshannock Creek valley.

These birds are protected by a closed season over the state. That they may be properly conserved until the sport is worth while the Lawrence men due to the close proximity of that county from the location in Mercer County where these quail were released will be asked to make selection of deputy game wardens from their organization that will co-operate in this game conservation. As the next year will see a number of the quail released in Lawrence County the organization built up this time may be kept operative for some time.

The meeting is called by C. S. Hinkley of Mercer who is chairman of the Mercer County organizations.

On the date of September 27, will be celebrated at North East the preaching of the first sermon in the Erie Presbytery of the Presbyterian church 125 years ago in a log church near this town. Dr. Lewis Seymour Smudge of Philadelphia stated clerk of church assembly will preach the sermon at this time.

There will be ministers and laymen present at this historic event from all parts of the Presbytery.

The first Monday of October a date of October 4th has been named as a return day on the pleadings now before the court in the intervening petition filed by Mercer citizens to the granting of the prayer of a petition filed asking judicial sanction of the so-called Troy plan for the erection of a High School building here.

The matter is certain to be wound up in a fusilade of legal fireworks. It is possible that if the facts at issue can be agreed upon by the attorneys represented that no testimony will be taken at all. The chief issue is the legality of the action which is held sound by the holding company and school board and contrary to legal precedent by the intervening citizens who constitute the parties to the action.

The holding company under a plan first tried out at Troy, Pa., will erect a school building from sale of bonds that the school board pay back in rentals over a 35 years period. There are court precedents to the legality of the action, it is said.

Bob Barton of Mercer High school is the selection of the school athletic association for manager of the basketball team. Donald Miller was elected assistant manager. The arranging for a schedule will take place at once with Coach Stanley Patterson proposing the carding of his important games at a time in the year when his squad will be ready for them.

Training will start in November, the season in December.

What is stated was one of the largest crowds in the history of the fair association placed at 25,000 passed through the gates of the Mercer Fair Association here Wednesday to view the largest entry of exhibits and see the largest field of horses race in the 44 years of the association history.

There is perhaps not a fair association in the country that has had the misfortune in wet weather at fair time as this.

A bumper corn crop in Mercer County if the frosts are held off for another two weeks is the prediction of agriculturists. County farmers have just enjoyed the harvesting of a bumper oats crop.

The late potato crop will be a big one is also predicted.

The drawing of juries for the October term of criminal court which opens on the date of October 18th took place at the court house on Wednesday.

The jury was drawn by commissioners Jerry Welk of Greenville and James Stillings of Sharon. A list of 24 grand jurors were selected and 80 petit jurors. There are 82 cases listed now on the transcript docket for the term out of which may be deducted a number of pleas.

The term is the largest of the year in criminal court sessions due to the long period of time between this and the June term.

Phillip Alexander, 19, a resident of the Mercer community was injured when in a fog that followed the rain of Wednesday evening he drove into a Bessemer train at the Franklin road crossing.

He was taken to the Mercer hospital. He suffered a compound fracture of the right leg and was cut on the arm. It is said at the hospital that he will recover.

No arrests are reported this morning at the county jail.. With the prisoners in the county jail all removed to that of Venango County during the period of time that the jail is under repairs a continuance of this condition will relieve the stringency under which Sheriff W. A. Bone and his deputies are working. Prisoners held in the Franklin jail for trial at October sessions here will be brought down and housed in temporary quarters during their trial period is announced today.

Valentino's Screen Successor Causes Much Speculation

By THOMAS R. CURRAN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 17.—Hollywood was speculating today on what John W. Considine, Jr., president of the company producing Rudolph Valentino's pictures, will do with the motion picture story of the life of Benvenuto Cellini written for Valentino's next production. Cellini was a swashbuckling goldsmith and sculptor, a Sixteenth Century Florentine, who prided himself as much upon his delicious amours as he did upon his artistic triumphs. Considine, it was estimated, spent $100,000 in preparing for the screen the story of Cellini's life.

It was a role that would have suited Valentino to perfection. Cellini was an Italian, and Valentino could have interpreted with Latin ardour and sympthy Benvenuto's paradoxical character.

The film colony was also curious as to what Considine will do with Estelle Taylor, in private life Mrs. Jack Dempsey, who was to have played Valentino's leading woman in the Cellini picture. Miss Taylor is on the Considine payroll at a salary running into four figures, and with Valentino dead it may be several months before United Artists can find a picture for her.

Weekly Garden Gossip

From

The Pennsylvania State College

Mulching Is Cultivation

It has been noted that recent experiments in Ohio relative to cultivation, removal of weeds by scraping and mulching with straw mulch favored in two out of three seasons mulching and scraping over the two to three-inch cultivation that is the usual practice in the farm garden. The one season when the deep cultivation proved most profitable was a wet one. Here undoubtedly the cultivation permitted better aeration and drainage of the soil, whereas the mulch, holding the moisture around the plants almost continually, tended to induce yellowing of the plants, rotting and lower yields. The main object of any of these measures is the prevention of growth competition from weeds. It looks as though, in the final analysis, the method used will be the one best adapted to the soil and the season and the one most economical. Certainly these and other similar experiments have shown that shallow cultivation is preferable generally to deep working with most vegetable crops.

Uniformity Aid To Marketing

What proves most attractive to the eye when you visit your local market? Is it a basket of tree-run apples, varying in size and all other characteristics, or a basket that has been well selected and packed by a careful grower? Is it a bunch of beets containing some just the right size, others much oversize, or the bunch containing five or six roots of very nearly the same size, shape and color? I believe nearly anyone will vote in favor of the uniform product every time—that is the basket or bunch containing specimens that are very nearly alike in appearance. There is good reason for this, aside from the greater attractiveness of the product. The specimens of the same size are more easily prepared for cooking and in cooking will all become tender at the same time.

So you see there is a real demand basis or market basis for the emphasis placed upon the factor of uniformity. Of course, for exhibit the products should be selected even more carefully than for market. In getting ready your vegetables for the fair, keep uniformity uppermost in your mind.

Use Frames for Radish Growing

Radishes, one of the easiest crops to grow, are just the thing for filling a cold frame in the fall, to have ready for use from the middle of October until perhaps December 1. The seedings should be made from the middle of September to October 1.

Use varieties requiring different lengths of season so they do not all reach edible size at one time. Scarlet Button or Grand Rapids for the earliest, White Icicle to follow, or if you prefer the red color, use the long Cincinnati Market.

Make the furrows with the edge of a board, with the rows four inches apart, and seed the radishes so you will have a stand of a radish to the inch. Have the soil well limed and fertilized. Apply moisture frequently, and be careful with ventilating that the plants do not become spindly through lack of fresh air.

Mammoth Vault To House New York's Numerous Millions

(International News Service)

ALBANY, N. Y., Sept. 17. — One of the largest and most modern vaults in New York State will be constructed under the proposed new state office building, Sullivan W. Jones, of Yonkers, state architeci has announced.

The vault will be used to store the State's $200,000,000 in cash and securities.

A complete system of alarms and a squad of guards are to constitute the state's first line of defense for its new treasury.

The state architect's department now are working out a plan for the vault. Its exact location under the office building is being kept a secret as are the intimate details of construction.

The inside dimensions of the vault will be 50 by 50 feet. The walls, floors and roof are to be of flint concrete, 48 inches thick, reinforced by an armor mat of high grade cold drawn steel fabric.

The huge door will be of circular type, two feet thick, of drill proof steel, equipped with a time lock and opened and shut by a concealed electric engine.

There will be one carefully guarded entrance to the vault and only credited representatives of the various state departments will have access. To make sure, there will be a triple check on identities by means of photographs, signatures and finger prints.

Police said a board fence had concealed the view of both as they approached from different alleys.

State Capital Given Picture

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Pa., Sept. 17.—A work of art in their possession and no place to put it today was a problem confronting Pennsylvania state house officials.

The work is a portrait by Vilinski, painted some years ago in Paris, showing George Gray Barnard, sculptor of the marble groups at the capitol entrance here, at work on "The Two Natures," a massive group that has been at the Metropolitan Museum, New York City, for thirty years. Accompanying the portrait which shows the sculptor life size are several marble benches for those who desire to gaze at the painting in ease.

Pennsylvania fell heir to the work through provisions of the will of the Rev. Joseph H. Barnard, father of the sculptor, who died last April. The will states that the portrait must be put in a prominent place at the capitol. But as the bequest complete weighs more than a thousand pounds and the portrait is eight by ten feet in size capitol officials have a locating problem on their hands.

British Swimmer Also Swims Across Channel Mystery Woman Quits

(International News Service)

DOVER, Eng., Sept. 17.—Leslie Dereham, a British swimmer, dealt the English channel another buffet today when he plowed his way across the turbulent waterway in the fine time of 13 hours and 7 minutes.

A few months ago, before the advant of the Ederles and the Michels, this would have been hailed as a record for all time.

A less lucky compatriot, Jane Darwin, described as the "mystery swimmer," was forced to give up this morning after being in the water 13 hours and coming within 4 ½ miles of the Dover coast.

Dereham now becomes the channel-swimming champion of Great Britain. He is the first Englishman to succeed since William Burgess swam it in 1911.

Dereham finished strongly with a powerful breast stroke. He walked ashore easily and after dressing went to the Green Man, an inn, for a bath and breakfast.

Pennington Rules Against Granting Of Alcohol Permit

Application Of Allegheny Chemical Company Denied By Dry Chief

SCORES UNNAMED COMPANY OFFICIAL

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Sept. 17. — Application of the Allegheny Chemical Company of Pittsburgh for renewal of industrial alcohol and denaturing plants permits today stood denied in a ruling by John D. Pennington, district prohibition administrator, in which the dry chief scored the company as being of substantially the same personnel as that of the Logansport Distilling Company, of New York, Chicago and Pittsburgh.

The Logansport concern, and its alleged subsidiaries, the Ford Drug Sundries Company and the W. W. Smith company, had previously had their distilling and denaturing licenses revoked by prohibition administrators of all three districts.

In a five-page decision made public today Pennington scored the officers of the Allegheny Company for alleged attempts "to conceal and cover up transactions which it is the right of the government to inquire into."

Scores Unknown

There was not sufficient evidence, Pennington ruled, to substantiate charges of conspiracy. The administrator bitterly scored an unnamed person "holding himself out as a representative of the Allegheny Company," with the charge that "shortly before the trial of these cases sought to bribe an official of the government to betray his trust and violate his oath of office by binding himself in advance to a favorable decision for the respondent."

In so doing, and in consideration of subsequent evidence, Pennington ruled, the company "forfeited the confidence of the prohibition administrator," and therefore, the licenses were denied.

The case, which comes to a close after months of legal sparring, attracted widespread attention because of its alleged relations with cases pending before prohibition officials in New York and Chicago, and was closely watched in Pittsburgh after witnesses brought out that Henry Townsend, City Property Custodian and prominent politician, was one of the stockholders in the company.

Educational Art Society Bringing Great Course To New Castle

Sousa's Band is more than just a musical organization in America, it is an institution. And any time John Phillip Sousa and his hundred musicians are booked for a city, one can expect a capacity crowd.

He was here two years ago, and perhaps you remember the throng that filled the Benjamin Franklin auditorium. This year the Educational Art Society has booked him again, the date being Wednesday, October 6.

It will be the first concert of the Educational Art Society's program for this season and the first taste of what promises to be a musical feast.

Following Sousa will be Kathryn Meisle, the Chicago Opera contralto who comes on November 12, and Miss Meisle's appearance here will be her introduction to New Castle, in a personal appearance.

Friday, January 21, Albert Spalding, the American violinist comes here, and in Spalding the committee has picked the outstanding American master of the violin.

Thursday, February 3, Percy Grainger the pianist comes here.

There is but one Percy Grainger and his appearance here is an opportunity.

Friday, March 18, the Russian Symphonic Choir is scheduled and these musicians from the snowy steppes of Russia have a musical message they bring.

The final concert upon the course will be the Eight Popular Victor Artists, who appear in April, the date to be decided later. Who hasn't heard of Billy Murray, or Henry Burr or the Peerless Quartet. Who didn't enjoy "Cohen On The Telephone?" Monroe Silver, the man who is "Cohen" is among the eight.

Stadium Classrooms Aid In Relieving Acute Congestion Of Last Year

Up on Cunningham avenue there is a city within a city. In this inner city are 1,743 citizens, governed by 58 more citizens, some times known as teachers. And in addition a corps of janitors.

The city might well be termed "The City of Ben Franklin" for here is the Benjamin Franklin Junior high school, one of the finest institutions of its kind in the entire United States.

Last term the school was over crowded, so much so that any room at all, whether it were a stock room, a teachers rest room or what not, was used as a class room.

This year, thanks to the five class rooms under the stadium, the school is not so crowded, in fact is just comfortably full, but the time is not far hence when more room will be needed.

The 1,743 students are being well taken care of from a class room standpoint this year, but on February 1st, there will be 200 more added to it.

If a like number is promoted to the Senior high school, then the condition will remain unchanged. If the Senior high school is unable to take care of them, Franklin will be crowded again.

Manslaughter Charge In Booze Case

WESTON, W. Va., Sept. 17.—A warrant charging G. T. Kincaid with manslaughter was obtained by Sheriff Roy V. Chidester here Kincaid is alleged to have sold poison liquor to W. P. Shock, lumberman, who died within an hour after taking the first drink.

An analysis of the liquor revealed a large amount of poisonous copper. The chemist making the analysis stated that the amount of copper was more than could be expected to come from a still. Kincaid is in the Lewis county jail, having been arrested a few hours after the death of Shock. A. E. Lewis, who took one drink of the liquor, recovered after a brief illness.

Missing Hunter Is Found Dead; Woman Is Shot

CLEVELAND, O., Sept. 17.—One Ohio hunter died as the result largely of exposure after he had become lost and a woman was shot on the second day of the squirrel hunting season yesterday.

John C. Young, 71, of Batavia, was found dead by Sheriff John McCollum of Brown county after a posse of some 400 men had spent a night and a day looking for the hunter.

The woman who was shot was Mrs. Laura White, 35, of Canton. She was seriously wounded by her husband, who mistook the movement of her arm behind a tree for a squirrel.

The accident occurred on a farm of Mrs. White's brother near Bernice, south of Newcomerstown. She was taken to City hospital at Coschocton.

Young, a stone contractor and township trustee, was found dead near Fayetteville. He was said to have been a victim of a paralytic stroke, brought on by overexertion and exposure.

His body was taken to Batavia for burial.

Hake Trial Starts Before McLaughry At Court House

Herbert Hake, charged with attacking Thelma Taylor, aged 14, was placed on trial before Judge James A. McLaughry at court this morning. Former Judge S. P. Emery represented the defendant and Charles R. Davis, appointed special district attorney, the commonwealth.

It is claimed that Hake met the girl at Cascade Park and took her for an auto ride out into Slippery Rock township, where they drove down a lane. Last 'Confederate Mother' Not Dead Says North Carolina Woman at 103

(International News Service)

DUNN, N. C., Sept. 17.—The last "Confederate Mother" is not dead. Writers of dispatches from Virginia recently giving accounts of the death of the "last Confederate Mother" perhaps did not know Mrs. Jilia Anne Pridgen, who is now nearing her hundred and third birthday.

Mrs. Pridgen, whose long gray locks of hair and wrinkled forehead are unmistakable marks of her many years, lives down in Pender county and wants to tell the world that her son, M. B. Pridgen, was a member of General Lee's ranks.

Despite her 103 years, Mrs. Pridgen still enjoys good health, can walk about the house and yards unassisted. She is the mother of twelve children, six of whom are still living, the youngest being sixty years of age.

Mrs. Pridgen has outlived her soldier-son who has been dead over twenty years. He was her oldest son and her second oldest was preparing to enlist and march away to battle when the Civil War ended.

Mrs. Pridgen was born the third day of November, 1823 and has been a contemporary of all the [illegible] States ex- [illegible] She was the age of three when John Adams and Thomas Jefferson died in 1826.

"I have always eaten what I wanted and as much of it as I wanted," replied the elderly woman when asked about dieting for a long life.

Mrs. Pridgen is as old as the Monroe Doctrine and was born during of the "era of good feeling."

"Andrew Jackson was governor of Florida when I was just a baby. Monroe was president of the United States. Abraham Lincoln was an untutored youth at the age of fourteen and harly old enough to split rails about then, I guess," said Mrs. Pridgen smilingly.

Andrew Johnson was fifteen years old and lived in Raleigh, N. C., and Mrs. Pridgen knew him, or at least, knew his people, or her people knew his people, she says.

"I remember the first buggy that ever came to these parts," she says. "When I was a little girl we all rode on horseback. I also remember the first two steamboats that sailed Cape Fear river."

"Naw, you don't want my picture," she told a newspaperman, "better take one of some of these up to date flappers with pretty legs."

Mrs. Pridgen remembers all the events of the Civil War and remembers things of long ago better than up to date happenings.

Quick action by Dr. Guy Clapper of McKean, revived the youth after his heart stopped beating.

FALSE PRETENSE CASE

Lawrence Barto, charged with obtaining goods by false pretense, was placed on trial this morning before Judge Hildebrand. The prosecutor is Ralph G. Gaspere, a tailor. The charge was brought in connection with a suit of clothes which was taken out of the Gaspere shop.

Is a nation's currency inflated? Rest assured an inflated ego deserves the blame.

Mr. Insull likes one party as well as another, but you can say that about some senators.

Alas, depriving Italians of spaghetti may destroy the peculiar dexterity of the race.

Some day, perhaps nations will learn that the path of glory leads but to the pawn shop.

Sir Henry Thornton In Marriage Ceremony At Philadelphia Also

(Special To The News)

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Sept. 17.—Sir Henry Worth Thornton, president of the Canadian National Railways and former University of Pennsylvania gird star, said here today that he considered his second marriage in Philadelphia Monday "a somewhat unnecessary precaution but one which was thought advisable."

Sir Henry is spending part of his honeymoon in this resort with Lady Thornton, who was Miss Martha Watriss, of Westbury, L. I., daughter of Mrs. Charles Delavan Wetmore, New York.

The couple were married last Saturday at the summer home of the bride, near Jamestown, N. Y. Sir Henry is somewhat older than his bride, who is 27.

Going to Philadelphia, Monday, the couple were again married by Judge J. Willis Martin of Common Pleas Court. They then came to the shore in Sir Henry's private railroad car, and will remain for several days before leaving for Montreal, where they will live.

Sir Henry denied a report that the second marriage was necessary because under the New York state laws regarding divorce, the ceremony there was invalid.

"The marriage in New York," said Sir Henry, "was perfectly valid and there was really no reason for the second ceremony, but legal advisers said the second marriage would not do any harm and might do some good."

Council Orders Danger Signal

Japanese Army Officer Refuses To Marry Heiress

Named Queen of Working Girls

Aha, the Poor Working Girl scores! Wichita, Kansas, has decided on a new kind of Beauty Queen—the loveliest of working girls. Miss Ruth Hess, cashier in the Western Union office of Wichita, wins the title.

TOKIO, Sept. 17.—Tokio society is greatly interested in a report that Lieutenant Masayuki Kozawa, a young army officer, has refused to wed Yacko, the beautiful daughter of General Baron Giichi Tanaka, one of the wealthiest and most influential men in Japan.

Lieutenant Kozawa, it is reported, has refused because he is of too humble origin to aspire to the hand of the high-born Yacko. The lieutenant was the son of very poor parents and early in life he became a servant in the home of General Tanaka. He attracted the attention of his employer, who educated him and fitted him for a military career. As a boy he was the playmate of Yacko.

Recently General Tanaka, it is said, sought to bring about a wedding, the intimation being that Yacko, herself, had something to do with instituting the marital negotiations. Lieutenant Kozawa's humility, however, spoiled the plan.

General Tanaka is retired from the army and is now the head of the Seiyuki, a powerful political party. It is not improbable that he may be the next premier of Japan. Had Lieutenant Kozawa accepted the marriage proposal he would have been General Tanaka's heir.

TO ARGUE ON SUNDAY BALL

Attorney General Files Demurrer In Philadelphia Sunday Ball Suit

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Pa., Sept. 17.—A demurrer was filed by Attorney General Woodruff in the Dauphin county court today in the state's action to prevent the Philadelphia baseball club of the American League from playing Sunday baseball in its home city.

The demurrer admitted the facts cited in the American League club's answer to the state suit, but disputed the matters of law. The action of Woodruff will make unnecessary the taking of testimony. The case will be submitted to the court on points of law only. A date of argument will be set by the court.

Somewhat similar to the Sesqui-Centennial suit decided here yesterday, the suit hinges on the right of the Athletics, under their state charter, to play Sunday baseball in Pennsylvania.

Resume Excavating On The Castleton

Work Held Up Some On Thursday Due To Muddy Condition Of Ground

Following a short lay-off Thursday when the mucky condition of the ground due to the rain storm Wednesday evening made it impossible for the trucks to drive in and out, excavation on "The Castleton" on North Mercer street was resumed today.

The steam shovel being used in the work by the contractors will have all of the surface debris cleaned away by this evening and "finishing" cuts will be started at once.

Bricklayers are making good progress on the construction of the reinforcing wall under the foundation of the adjoining property which it was found necessary to brace as the digging progressed.

Uncover New Clue In Murder Mystery

Blood-Covered Man Seen Near Scene Of Rebuck Crime, Autoist Reveals

TO QUESTION AUTO DRIVER

(International News Service)

SUNBURY, Pa., Sept. 17.—The weird story of a blood covered man who was alleged to have hailed an autoist along a lonely road near Rebuck, Pa., on the night of Sept. 4, when Daniel J. Ferster, 27-year-old farm hand, met his death, was being investigated by county and state officials today.

The story, which County Detective Charles Densevich today admitted had been given him by a resident of the vicinity, has thrown Rebuck section into a new state of excitement after 12 days of fruitless investigation.

State police, however, adhere to the story that Ferster, whose body, with the head almost severed, was found in a lonely spot near his home, was a suicide. County Coroner J. K. Fisher is insistent that Ferster could not have inflicted the wounds which caused his death. A small rusty pocket knife found near the body, the coroner said, could not have been used in the deed.

The man alleged to have driven the car in which the "blood covered" man left the scene of the tragedy, was to be questioned today by authorities.

Suit Is Entered To Tie Up Purse In Dempsey Bout

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Sept. 17.—Suit has been filed here which has its purpose the tieing up of the purse of the Jack Dempsey-Gene Tunney heavyweight championship bout next week. The suit was brought by Sol Wittenberg, an employe in the law office of John R. K. Scott.

Scott, who will appear as counsel for Wittenberg at the hearing of the case tomorrow, said today that an "inside" story containing hints of a "fake" will be revealed at the hearing.

Wittenberg brought the suit as a taxpayer and ticket holder.

Although Wittenberg is named in the action as plaintiff and Tex Rickard, promoter of the fight, as defendant it is reported that an enemy of Dempsey's is really behind the suit and that it is aimed at the champion.

See No Change In Mexican Policy

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Sept 17.—While strong representations have been made to the Mexican government over the wanton slaying by bandits of Jacob Rosenthal, there was nothing to indicate here today that any appreciable change in the administration's Mexican policy is forthcoming.

On the contrary, the meagre advices which the state department has received from the American embassy in Mexico City indicated to officials, it was admitted, that the Mexican government apparently did everything in its power to avert the tragedy and is now taking energetic measures to avenge it.

The American case is also somewhat weakened, it was learned, by the fact there is now in the state department a strong protest from the Mexican government over the slaying of three Mexicans in Raymondville, Texas, some days ago.

SOPHS WIN CLASS RUSH

New Wilmington High School Under Classmen In Annual Flag Battle

(Special To The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., Sept. 17.—Annual flag rush of the freshman and sophomore classes of New Wilmington high school was an event of 8:30 o'clock this morning in front of the school and in the presence of most of the residents of this community. It ended in a victory for the older classmen.

There had been unusual excitement in the community since the close of school on Thursday evening. Freshmen and sophomores could be seen going about in a mysterious manner.

About three o'clock this morning the sophomores placed in position on the school property a pole about 40 feet in height, at the top of which were the class colors, blue and white. The pole was greased for a distance of ten feet from the bottom and the bark peeled off for the balance of the height of the pole. The boys went to the trouble of cutting down a tree for the purpose.

The rush was staged at 8:30 a. m., under the supervision of the upper classes of the school. The contestants, about 20 in all, 10 sophomores and 10 freshmen, lined up, the sophomores about their pole and the freshmen at one side. At a given signal the freshmen rushed the sophomores, seeking to get a member up the pole to tear down the flag.

The contest lasted 20 minutes, there being two 10-minute periods with a five-minute intermission for rest.

At the close of the contest the sophomore flag was still flying in the breeze. No one was injured.

"HOLD THAT LION"

It's Douglas MacLean, the inimitable Douglas, in a comedy that starts in America and ends in the African jungles. Doug wasn't a lion hunter, he was a lyin' son-of-a-gun. The lion may be the king of the jungle, but MacLean is the King of Comedy in this picture.

Chief Clerk Is Witness Today In Daugherty Case

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Sept. 17. — Charles E. Stewart, chief clerk in the Department of Justice during the administration of Harry M. Daugherty, was called to the witness stand today in the Daugherty-Miller conspiracy trial in Federal Court.

Daugherty, formerly attorney general, and former alien property custodian Thomas W. Miller are accused of not having given their best services in connection with the return of $7,000,000 of property of the German-controlled American Metals Company seized as alien property during the war.

Stewart, questioned by United States Attorney Buckner, told of the relationship that existed between Daugherty and the late Jesse Smith. Richard Merton, German financier who came to this country to effect the return of the seized alien property, had testified that the late John T. King of Connecticut introduced him to Smith when he was trying hard to have the property returned to the foreign owners.

KIWANIANS COME HOME

New Castle Delegation Back From Convention At Conneaut Lake

Attorney Thomas W. Dickey, president of the New Castle Kiwanis club and the members of the club who attended the state convention of the organization at Conneaut Lake are home, and according to them, the convention this year was the biggest affair of its kind Kiwanis has ever held.

In all, there were some 800 delegates in attendance. New Castle had about twenty-five present, in addition to the delegates. During the progress of the convention, President Dickey was appointed as a member of the transportation committee governing the international convention to be held in Memphis, Tenn., in 1927.

President J. Hayden Oliver of Scranton, Pa., was re-elected. Several outstanding addresses were heard in the convention, among them being those of Rev. John L. Davis of New York city, Judge Reidder of Beaver county and Charles Brandon Booth, national field secretary of the Big Brother and Sister movement.

Greenville and Meadville clubs acted as hosts to the convention delegates and on two days served lunch in the Temple of Music.

Good Year For Bessemer Company

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Sept. 17.—The current 12 months is expected to prove another good year for the Bessemer Limestone & Cement Co., in an earning way, according to reports on developments to date.

While the results may not be so good as in 1925, when net for common after all charges and preferred dividend was in excess of $31 a share, they will likely be well above the expectations earlier in the year when the outlook was uncertain and to warrant payment of an aggregate of $10 a share again on the common stock.

The stock is on a $6 an annual basis, meaning that a $10 payment for the year will involve a heavy end-of-the-year extra. There are reports, too, that Bessemer common may be placed on an $8 basis next year.

That the company is amply able to do this is indicated by the fact that aggregate earnings the past five years, including 1926, available for common, have been in excess of $125 a share.

Bessemer is in a strong position in the industry as regards production costs, quality of product, raw material reserves and management. These considerations make the outlook for the company highly favorable.

Bessemer will shortly retire or convert the last of its $750,000 note issues made five years ago, placing outstanding common at something in excess of $1,600,000. In addition there is $1,000,000 of preferred stock. The current position is exceptionally strong.

BALTUSROL GOLF CLUB, Short Hills, N. J., Sept. 17.—Bobby Jones, the Atlanta wizard, finished the first 18 holes of his semi-final round match in the national amateur golf championship this morning with a lead of 3 up on Francis Ouimet, his ancient enemy and former champion. Jones was defending the title he won in 1924 and 1925, and seemed to realize that he must play his best golf against a man of Ouimet's calibre.

All square going to the 14th Bobby won that hole and also the 17th and 18th, leaving the tenacious Ouimet in the rear for the first time. Previously they had halved every hole from the third to the 13th inclusive, 11 in all.

John Burns Passes Away At Home Of Parents In Portersville, Pa.

John Burns, aged 24 years, principal of the Hillsville public schools, died late Wednesday night at his home in Portersville, Pa., following a brief illness.

President Not Worried Over Demand For Additional Reduction In Tax

Rank And File Of Voters Are No Longer Paying Any Income Tax

Next Congress Will Be Conservative And Will Accomplish Little

By GEORGE H. MANNING,
(Washington Correspondent of The News)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—Neither of the two great parties will control the next Senate, it is indicated. The balance of power will nominally be in the hands of the Insurgents, all of whom, however, will probably pay enough attention to the party label to help the Republicans to organize the Senate. That is the way to get good committee assignments and to hold them.

Off-years produce off-Congresses. Men get elected on local or personal grounds and only in presidential years is there anything resembling a referendum on national issues. The old saying is: "Good Congresses are elected in leap years." The Babel Congresses intervene every two years.

Playing Politics

Again, a president seldom expects very much from the second Congress in his term. Most of the patronage has been distributed by that time and, unless a president is a candidate to succeed himself, those who like to get on the band-wagon—their number is legion—are looking ahead and jumping to new chariots. Off-Congresses are too busy playing politics and manufacturing issues to formulate and enact constructive legislation of importance.

Besides, some of the most astute republican leaders have been arguing for months that a break in the unprecendented prosperity is bound to come within the next two years. They do not give any economic reasons except the platitude that whatever goes up must come down. They think that a period of hard times and slack business could readily be blamed on a congress that declined to follow the Coolidge leadership, in which case Mr. Coolidge could be renominated and elected on a platform calling for a return of the Coolidge prosperity. The argument seems a little far-fetched, particularly to those who remember how the late Senator Penrose made much the same argument in 1920.

Conservative Or Radical

The fact is that there are no party lines, except for election purposes. A Senator of the United States today is either a conservative or a radical. By some tests Bruce of Maryland is one of the best Coolidge Republicans in the Senate, while by other tests there is no better Jeffersonian democrat than Borah. In the House the great protagonist of the Hull amendment, in the National Bank bill, is the Democrat Wingo, while the sturiest exponent of the Administration opposition to the Hull amendment in the Senate is Mr. Glass.

It is doubtful if there is a single major national issue on which there is unanimity in either party. A large bloc of republicans have become lukewarm on the tariff, but another large bloc of democrats have become enthusiastic protectionists, for products of their own states. The South is booming along industrially and the industrialists have something to say about how Southern representatives shall vote, whatever their party traditions.

The only way to get the complexion of the Senate, therefore, is to test its membership for radicalism or conservatism. It is that test which makes Mr. Coolidge and his advisers smile. Laughter, of course, would not be in keeping with the dignity of the presidential office. Has the Administration actually needed a few democratic votes in recent years and not got them? Not so that it could be noticed. If there were but forty "regular" republican Senators, still the Administration could muster another eight votes on almost any vital natioal economic program.

The Senate will be conservative. It may give a pretense of radicalism now and then, on unimportant matters that loom large in the public eye, such as a proposal for a smelling committee or something of that sort, but on essentials it will be against experimentation.

Coolidge's Vote Worth 15 Senators

Moreover, Mr. Coolidge's vote is worth that of 15 Senators, at a minimum. For instance, if 49 voted to pass a bill it would require 15 more, or 64 votes, to pass it over the presidential veto. There is no possibility, even were there an anti-republican landslide, of the opposition having a two-thirds majority in both Houses. So there will be no law passed between now and March, 1929, of which the president does not approve. He has the next Congress in the hollow of his hand, even before it is elected. If it wants to follow his leadership he will use it; if it wants to go in the other direction he will fence it in with vetoes.

It is probable, too, that the president is not much worried over Senator Simmons' militant demand for additional tax reduction. That was the sweetest sort of political molasses in the last campaign, but now hardly one in four of those who vote pay any income taxes. The last two revisions separated the sheep from the goats. Additional reductions would relieve the well-to-do and there is not much political capital in that. Besides, a campaign, organized from one end of the nation to the other, is already under way to allocate a large part of any reduction to the corporations, by lowering their profits taxes. A cut in automobile taxes might win popular approval. But the truth is that most of the sap has been sucked from the tax tree, politically speaking.

Coolidge For Thrift

When, however, the democrats charge the Administration with being morally bankrupt it causes some palpitation of the heart. Woodrow Wilson led the peoples of all nations up to the very mountain tops of idealism. Then they went down into the deep valleys and they are there yet. Mr. Coolidge is the exponent of thrift, not of soul-stirring ideals. He and those about him speak the language of economics. Any one of them could compose a sonnet in Greek or a hymn in ancient Syrian more readily than he could voice such thoughts as Lincoln spoke at Gettysburg. But this sheer matter-of-factness which characterizes the Administration is not alone a republican prerogative. There is no great spokesman for liberalism in any high place in Washington and the banners of the cult have drooped since the restless body of one man was interred at Oyster Bay and the emaciated form of another made of the Cathedral at Washington a national shrine.

Yet one man, not long ago, dared in a mixed meeting of important men to quote these words from Roosevelt:

> We, here is America, hold in our hands the hope of the world, the fate of the coming years; and shame and disgrace will be ours if in our eyes the light of high resolve is dimmed, if we trail in the dust the golden hopes of men. If on this new continent we merely build another country of great but unjustly divided material prosperity, we shall have done nothing; and we shall do as little if we merely set the greed of envy against the greed of arrogance, and thereby destroy the material well-being of all of us.

It is not much a question of moral bankrupty with either party, but leaders in both recognize that when a champion arises who can voice in deep-throated notes the spiritual aspirations of America he may well be a Pied Piper to the voters of all classes, few of whom are so bound as they used to be by party ties.

The present election campaign is thoroughly commonplace and may be expected to have commonplace results.

San Pasqual Battle Will Be Re-Enacted

(International News Service)

SAN DIEGO, Sept. 17.—The battle of San Pasqual, the famous engagement which resulted in the transfer of California from Mexico to the United States, will be re-enacted by 1,500 Marines under the command of Brig. Gen. Smedley D. Butler, it was learned at the Marine Base here today.

The mock battle will be staged three times, on Navy Day, October 27; the birthday of the Marine Corp, November 10; Armistice Day, November 11.

"The brigade needs training afield," Butler declared. We will bivouac at San Pasqual valley for three weeks. War conditions will be copied, and every effort made to reproduce the battle along historical lines. We may be forced to substitute automobiles for horses; but the cavalry didn't figure prominently in the original conflict."

San Pasqual valley is 45 miles inland from San Diego. It was made a state park two years ago and a monument was erected on the site of the battlefield.

Move Started For Burbank Monument

CUERO, Tex., Sept. 17—A movement among farmers and residents of the rural sections of the United States to erect a suitable monument to the late Luther Burbank, famous plant wizard, has been started by the DeWitt County Farmers' Luncheon Club here, the only similar organization of farmers in the country.

A resolution of respect to the memory of Burbank was passed by the club, and the secretary, J. C. Carrington, was instructed to take the matter up with the proper authorities. Communications have been sent to the secretary of agriculture at Washington and ground has been laid for an appropriation to aid in establishing the memorial.

Plans for the memorial, location to be desided, also were placed before William McAdoo of Los Angeles, Calif., who has been supporting a move to transfer the Burbank nurseries, etc., at Leland Stanford University, at Palo Alto, Calif. In a letter to the club here, McAdoo indicated he was in favor of the suggested memorial.

"—it can be done"

—said Christopher Columbus, dreamer who dared the threat of the unknown to make a dream come true.

"It can be done," has echoed down the years, the watchword of the land he found.

Of this land, Hendrik Willem Van Loon tells us in his "America, An Episode in the History of the World," beginning in the October Companion.

The brilliant author of "The Story of Mankind" and "Tolerance" makes plain to us by word and picture that history is no stirring of the dull dust of ages, but a re-creation of living men and women; of the hopes and fears; of the vision and sacrifice; of the bitter failure and glorious achievement that have all gone into the building of this land we proudly call our own.

More absorbing than fiction, more dramatic than the theater are the tragedy and comedy of a nation in the making—America!

Three outstanding serials by Margaret Deland, Mark Lee Luther and Grace S. Richmond. Brilliant short stories by Sherwood Anderson, Zona Gale, Elsie Singmaster, Victor McClure and Grace Torrey.

Feature articles, gravure pages, and all the fashion, beauty, service and home departments which have made the Companion the most distinguished and authoritative publication in its field.

Woman Fails To Win Back Child

Cleveland Mother Gave Up Girl Seven Years Ago

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Sept. 17.—A mother's demand for her daughter, adopted seven years ago by a family, have placed City Judge L. B. McKelvey in the traditional role of Solomon. Judge McKelvey let the child decide. She favored the foster parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bishop.

While the Bishops had made no formal adoption, Judge McKelvey ruled that as Mrs. Georgianna Albright of Cleveland, the mother, had once been satisfied to give up the child, there was no reason why the Bishops should return her.

Mrs. Albright seized the girl, but court officials gave her to her foster mother.

Name Head Of Sunday School

Methodists At Grove City Elect Officers For Coming Year

OTHER NEWS OF COLLEGE COMMUNITY

(Special To The News)

GROVE CITY, Pa., Sept. 17.—W. M. Lockard was the selection as superintendent of the Sunday school of the Grace Methodist church of this city. His election took place this week. C. M. Slater and E. C. Hoyt were elected as assistant superintendents. As head of the adult department was selected George Marquand; department A., A. M. Winder; department B., Miss Rebecca Washabaugh; intermediate department, Miss Gertrude Bowden; junior department, Mrs. Mayme Burrowes; primary department, Mrs. J. A. B. Albin; beginners' department, Mrs. Oren Carner; cradle roll, Mrs. C. M. Slater. Miss Josephine Coulter, the popular secretary of the school, was again selected for this position. L. G. Blythe was the treasurer selection. Eugene Taggart was elected librarian. Mr. Lockard will represent the school at the state gathering of Sunday school organizations, held in October at Reading. The Grace church school totals 1,500 and is one of the largest in Mercer county.

Advice from Jerry Fay, with the Frankfort Yellow Jackets, is to the effect that he is working hard and likes the location. Fay is working with the eastern squad for a week now in preparation for a season that opens this week. Fay, a three letter man here, completed his course this spring. For four years he played the left tackle position on the varsity football team of Grove City College. He has a host of friends and admirers among the undergraduates and alumni body who will wish him success in this new venture.

Of the budget for benevolences in the Butler Presbytery of the Presbyterian church in 1925 one-fourth the sum of $19,000 was paid by the local Presbyterian church is announced. When it is considered that this sum was paid along with a current church expense and also the payments of large sums promised for the church building fund, it is an unusual contribution and concrete of the spirit that prevails in this exceptional denomination of 1,400 persons.

A warning of the crisis in the mission work of the United Presbyterian church that is impending was broadcasted from his pulpit by Dr. Homer Henderson, pastor of the First United Presbyterian church of Grove City in an appeal made at the prayer meeting service of the church last evening to rally to the cause of foreign missions.

Dr. Henderson told his audience that unless something was done at once that 50 missionaries of the denomination in foreign fields would have to be withdrawn. There exists, says the churchman, a deficit of $400,000, both of the year 1925 and for 1926. In each instance the amount of money raised has been short of the year's expenditures in this work. Clergy and laymen who attended the closing session of the assembly of the church at Sharon in May will remember the very earnest discussion given this matter by the assembly leaders.

The date of September 15 was set aside in the denomination for the sounding of a warning of the danger ahead. The mission work, as it is now carried on in foreign fields, is a division of the territory among the churches. The failure of one denomination to function would affect the whole plan. In particular the mission work of the United Presbyterian church in the Nile valley of Egypt has been very successful.

Memorial windows to Dr. J. C. Ketler, founder of Grove City College, and Dr. W. J. McConkey, for many years pastor of the First Presbyterian church, are being put in at the First Prersbyterian church The Worthwhile Bible class also is erecting a memorial window at the church. It is said that other windows are being considered by relatives of deceased prominent members of the denomination.

Prof. and Mrs. George Fundenberg have arrived home from a summer spent in European travel.

Laborer Inherits $9,000,000 Estate

(International News Service)

GALESBURG, Ill., Sept. 17.—From an iron worker to owner of a $9,000,000 estate, of coal lands in the Shenandoah valley is the good fortune which has befallen John Cooper, Kewanne, who formerly worked here at day labor for his sustenance.

Cooper is leaving for Virginia, but he is not stingy with his good fortune. For with him will go several Kewanee families, all in moderate circumstances, to share in his wealth. They are selling out their property and will join Cooper in his auto caravan to the valley of wealth and affluence in 'Ole Virginny'.

Cooper has approved plans of architects for a mansion of thirty rooms, to be built of the finest marble, about 30 miles from Roanoke, Va. Less pretentious homes will be built for the families making the trip with him. Mrs. Lorette McReady Nelson, Cooper's mother-in-law, an aged woman, will have a home in the new palatial residence.

Cooper will be 33 years old September 18 and on that day will come into possession of the vast fortune. Due to a break with his family over religion, the legacy came unexpectedly to him as he believed he would be disinherited.

When younger, Cooper rejected the girl his parents wanted him to marry, and then following this renounced the religious faith of his father. That act, he believed wiped away his chances of inheriting the fortune of his grandmother, Mrs. Mary Bradford. He went to Kewanee in 1911 and later married Opal McReady, joining another church, in which he became a pillar.

Frank Cooper, his father, married Francis Bradford, daughter of Mary. John was the seventh son. Cutting the father from the will the rich old lady made John the chief beneficiary when he was 7, but as he left home when he was 21 over religious trouble he believed that he had lost all chance of inheriting the estate. The old lady's will will be read September 18 in the offices of Cooper and Bradford, Wilmington attorneys, and will disclose the reasons for her leaving the fortune to John.

Cooper has promised the Christian church at Kewanne a new building to cost $250,000.

Europe Armies Have Been Cut 1,500,000 Men

Statistics For Three Years Show Only Few Nations Have More Soldiers

Russia Is Only Country Where Reliable Figures Are Missing

By CHARLES A. SMITH
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, Sept. 17.—Europe's military forces have been reduced by one and a half million men in the past three years, statistics published here reveal. It is shown that only in the Eastern part of the European Continent are armies substantially higher than they were in pre-war days.

The statistics show that the Scandinavian nations have made very substantial cuts in their armies, partly owing to the fact that they have generally adopted the militia system of Switzerland, under which the men are not kept in barracks, but are called up for training for a limited period.

Scandinavian Reductions

Sweden has reduced her permanent establishment from 120,000 in 1922 to 35,912 in 1925; Norway from 60,000 in 1922 to 4,405 in 1925; and Denmark from 33,000 to 9,092 last year. These figures exclude the men who are trained on a militia basis.

Contrary to the general impression, France has made a step in the reduction direction, the number of Frenchmen serving being 300,000 less than in 1913. If a Bill at present before the Chamber is passed there will be serving only 97,000 white troops and 100,000 Native troops.

Great Britain has reduced her army by just over 2,000, in addition to a very substantial reduction of the number of soldiers in India. Belgium has reduced her peace establishment from 118,969 in 1922 to 81,720 in 1925; Spain, in spite of the Riff war, has reduced from 215,949 to 123,851.

Italy Shows Increase

Italy shows an increase from 210,000 in 1922 to 259,848 in 1925, but this represents a decrease of over 30,000 if the comparison is made with the Italian figures for 1913. Germany has her establishment fixed by treaty at 100,000, Austria at 30,000 and Hungary at 35,000 and Bulgaria at 33,000.

The Republics of Poland, Lativia, and Lithuania have increased their armies due it is stated to fears of aggression from Soviet Russia. Absence of official and reliable figures from Moscow have made it impossible to give an accurate comparison of the Russian armies of yesterday and today, but unofficial estimates show that with the possible exception of France, Russia has far and away the largest peace establishment.

Longer Mules Are Needed By Army In Panama Campaign

(International News Service)

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 17.—The United States army today faces a serious dilemma, according to artillery officers at the San Francisco Presidio, famous western army post.

The army either has to bet a supply of mules with a chassis design like that of a German dascund or it will have to change the length of its cannon.

The problem arose in the Canal Zone where transportation of the standard 37 mm. gun is a problem because of lack of roads and impenetrable jungles.

Transporting the 37 mm. guns on wheels is out of the question in Panama.

The army has decided that the well known mule shall be the means of going hither, thither and yon for the cannon.

Upon experimentation it was found that the trial of the gun was too long when packed on the present governmental issue of mule.

When packing this gun on muleback, the packer is faced with the problem of either tickling the mule's ears or his rump, two admittedly sensitive centers.

Since the length of the trails of the 37 mm. gun has been scientifically designed, army officers are wondering which will be the easiest to change, the wheelbase of the mule or the length of the gun.

Must Build Catacombs To Increase Capacity Of Library At Oxford

(International News Service)

LONDON, Sept. 17.—The famous Bodleian Library at Oxford, which is growing at the rate of 25,000 volumes a year and which now contains 1,500,000 volumes, will have reached its capacity in a decade, according to Sir Michael Sadler, master of University College.

Sadler has drawn up a number of plans for enlargement, one of which provides for the construction of miles of catacombs underneath the main library building for the housing of thousands upon thousands of books which the library will have to find space for during the coming years. A plan is also being discussed at Oxford for the building of an entirely new library at a cost of nearly $3,000,000.

The first library at Oxford was founded in 1320, and the present Bodleian Library in 1598. Like the British Museum, the Bodleian is entitled to claim a copy of every book published in England.

Famous Antiques Sold For Song

(International News Service)

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Sept. 17.—Attended only by a few gloating antique collectors, assembled in a tall, beamed ceilinged room, the fous old W. A. Wilson collection went under the hammer here, almost unheralded, and at prices that brought tears to the eyes of collectors not fortunate enough to have been aware of the sale.

Imitation gold chairs that once glittered bravely in the palace of the doge at Venice went under the hammer at prices that brought twenty-five cents on the dollar, estimated value.

Louis XIV chairs, collected by painstaking effort by Wilson during his many trips thrqugh Europe went as low as $12.50 each, and a portiere, woven in France in the early fourteenth century was knocked down at $100.

The Wilson "mansion," once one of the show places of Kansas City, was sold recently to E. P. White, a contractor, and his plans called for the razing of the building, which made necessary the sale of the collection, brought together during Wilson's lifetime, and valued at over $80,000: Somewhat under $20,000 was the gross result of the auction.

Japan Film Industry Lacks Money To Make Pictures Epual To America

BY LUTHER A. HUSTON
International News Service Staff Correspondent

TOKIO, Sept. 17.—Japanese motion picture actors and actresses are just as good as those in Hollwood, but Japanese films are inferior to American films because of lack of money to spend in their production.

Hollwood stars and directors who talk about their "art" are talking through their hats. The only real "art" in the movie comes from France, Germany and Russia.

Such is the opinion, at least, of Chikushi Midzutani, stage director of the Shochiku Studio, one of the largest film plants in Japan. Midzutani and his sister Miss Yaeko Midzutani, who is called the "Mary Pickford" of Japan, have just returned from a three months' visit to the United States.

"My sister and I," said Midzutani, "were struck with the fact that everything in American studios was done on a large scale, the studios we visited being equipped with everything necessary to turn out a really high-class film. Japan, unfortunately, has not the same amount or quality of equipment, hence the pictures produced cannot be compared with those of the United States. I believe that our artists are quite as good as those at Hollywood and the matter of cost is largely at the back of Japanese inferiority of production.

"I was asked by Americans what I thought of American comedy. I replied that it was extremely questionable if a comedy can be considered as art. Comedy is intended to be laughter-provoking, but it has no depth. It is my opinion that there is not much of stage art in the United States or England. The types of film that require real artists for their production are those manufactured in Germany, France and Russia. Films made in those countries are not exported because Americans do not care for them. In that respect Japan is more fortunate because many of these films are imported here."

Midzutani also spoke a little scornfully of the American preference for the romantic film with the happy ending. He intimated that he regarded this American characteristic as a deterrent to artistic achievement. That is one of the fundamental differences between the Japanese theater and the American theater; the Japanese are most pleased when the play ends with the unhappy lovers committing the "shinju", or double suicide, so they may find happiness together in another world.

Flexible Dollar Rate Introduced

(International News Service)

BERLIN, Sept. 17.—The last barrier erected to protect the German mark from fluctuatons will fall, after all. The Rechsbank decided to introduce, shortly, the flexible dollar rate, so that the United States dollar will be subject to fluctuations here just as in all other countries of the world.

As a matter of fact this measure will not materially change conditions on the money market because the American dollar is practically a standard currency in Europe. The demand for American dollars decreased considerably since the German mark has been stabilized. Only a limited number of exporting firms and certain banks take an interest in it.

With the introduction of a flexible dollar rate here the German mark, abroad, will automatically become subject to fluctuations like any other currency rate. Financial experts hold that the Reichsbank measure is another proof of the soundness of German finances and the steady, though slow, economic recovery of Germany.

Spain May Build Tunnel To Africa

(International News Service)

MADRID, Sept. 17.—With the Moroccan problem settled for the time being Spanish officials are again studying, on the suggestion of King Alfonso, the project of building a railroad tunnel under the Straits of Gibraltar, uniting Spain with her Moroccan colony. The plan was first considered in 1918 but abandoned because of the state of finances of the Spanish treasury and the uncertainty of the Moroccan regime.

The tunnel would begin at the Spanish town of Tarifa but the African terminus has not been decided upon.

It is estimated that the cost of constructing such a tunnel would be about $75,000,000. It would be sixteen miles long, making the crossing, which now averages two hours by boat, not longer than twenty minutes.

If the tunnel is ever constructed the entire Spanish railway system guage, permitting international cars to make the trip from Paris to Casablanca and more distant points.

British Mining Faces Trouble For Long Time

Coal Industry Can Never Recover Under Present System, Says Owner

Overproduction Is Called Root Of Difficulties As Labor Sulks

By CHARLES A. SMITH
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, Sept. 17.—The British coal industry will never be free from its present troubles until the whole system of output is regulated and production decreased, in the opinion of Sir Alfred Mond, M. P., former cabinet minister and a director and owner of some of the biggest coal, iron and steel companies in Britain.

Over-production is at the root of the whole trouble, according to Sir Alfred, who favors the amalgamation of the dozens of small coal-producing concerns into one large corporation, thus cutting out the numerous overhead and other charges which each of these small companies have to meet.

"I believe the solution lies in decreased output," Sir Alfred said in an interview. "At the present moment Britain is suffering from slaughtering of prices and has led to the present economic situation.

Regulate Production.

"Unless the production is regulated to accord with consumption we will never get out of the difficulty. We will have alternate periods of boom and slump, such has been known in the British industry over a long period. It is bad for the coal industry and its development and detrimental to industry generally.

"What we should aim at is to stabilize prices by properly controlling production and sales. It is practically the experience of every great industry in the world, and the whole tendency of industry today is to get together both nationally and internationally in an endeavor to avoid unnecessary waste of capital and expenditure. In fact, the tendency should be to make coal mining an industry and not a gamble."

To Encourage Men.

Remarking that many owners have found that even after installing up-to-date plant and machinery in their works their production had not greatly increased nor their expenditure diminished, Sir Alfred said:

"What is necessary is that a profit-sharing scheme should be devised to encourage the men to take a greater interest in their work. What is wanted is that a man on a particular job should get a more direct result of his action.

"I do not hold the opinion that oil will oust coal from its position of pre-eminence," Sir Alfred said, "for, apart from the fact that it is too expensive there is not enough of it. Coal will still be the dominant fuel and power factor."

Foreign Farmers Take Up Methods Used In America

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—Sturdy American hoes, rakes and plows—similar to those used to till American farm lands for a score of years are now wearing blisters on the hands of tens of thousands of farmers in foreign lands, the Department of Commerce announced today.

The preference of foreign griculturalists for American made farm implements, it was stated, has caused a tidal wave of export trade in these lines. The exports of farm implements for the first six months of 1926, it was added, smashed all preceding records and surpassed even the total annual exports for a dozen pre-war years.

The exports, valued at $48,906,565, it was stated, were 33 per cent higher than in the same period of 1925 and 45 per cent more than during the first six months of 1924.

"Approximately 83 per cent of exports were shipped to ten countries," the department announced. "The largest percentage was taken by Canada, Argentina, Russia and France, the other countries included in the first ten being Italy, Australia, Mexico, British South Africa, the United Kingdom and Sweden."

Austrian Churches Sell Art Treasures

(International News Service)

VIENNA, Sept. 17.—Most of the churches and monasteries of Austria are being supported nowadays by the sale of their treasures. Particularly in the country districts the people are unable to support their parishes as before the war and large sums are needed to repair the buildings which in most cases have not been touched for a decade.

The Bishropic of Mattsee is now offering its greatest treasure, the original volume of the "Annales Ferdinandei", for sale. The book contains an account of the private and political life of the Hapsburg Ferdinand II from 1615 to 1637 and is the most authentic history of the events leading up to the Thirty Years War.

The money obtained by the Monks of the monastery at Melk for the famous Guttenburg Bible sold to an American already is being spent on repairing the old church and buildings.

San Antonio Is Making Bid For Movie Business

(International News Service)

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, Sept. 17.—Hollywood and environs better watch out for their laurels. San Antonio boosters say this Texas city is "after" the movie industry.

Blessed with clear balmy weather practically the year round without the discomforts identified with a coast climate the Alamo City of Texas history is giving every encouragement to the movie industry.

As a result one cast is on location here now and arrangements are being completed for entertaining another conglomeration of stellar lights of the cinema profession. The second company is expected to snap into action with the yell of "camera" any day.

A crew of 1,200 workmen are making location near Camp Stanley here for the filming of "Wings" The cast is expected to number 100 from the Famous Players-Lackey lot in California. The production is reported to be another world war drama.

With several days work behind them a company already is at work for Paramount here. They are refighting the Spanish-American war for the benefit of a picture to be called "The Rough Riders."

Locals of both companies were made here because of ideal weather conditions and possibly primarily because of the natural settings furnished by the government army, aviation and other camps in the vicinity. The "Wings" production will require a ten mile square "battlefield."

Simultaneously with establishment of the film lots movie magazines and other writers following the industry have established headquarters here to get the usual amount of advance dope and what have you to help make the coming pictures successes.

That's one of the aims of treasure hunting. However, the Fascist police neither understood nor appreciated the affair, and, just when things were going their merriest, stepped in and put a quietus on the whole business One result of the evening's fun may be that King George will be asked to administer a royal reprimand to his skylarking subjects. In the meantime, Lady Diana and her friends are wondering what next to do.

Borah And Reed Are Termed Ready Timber For Presidency Job

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—The names of Senator Wiliam E. Borah, of Idaho, and Senator James A. Reed, of Missouri, were proposed as "available for the presidency" in 1928 by Dr. Hiram W. Evans, imperial wizard of the Ku Klux Klan.

Granting a political interview for the first time in the history of the Klan, Evans endorsed both Reed and Borah as "first class, upstanding Americans," whom Klansmen would be glad to suport. He served notice too that the Klan would take an "active part" in all future elections, particularly the November congressional elections and two years hence in the presidential campaign.

As anticipated, Evans declared Governor Al Smith, of New York, had "no chance" to win the presidency. The ruler of the "invisible empire" in fact made it plain that Klansmen would desert the Democratic party, leaping across party lines into the Republican ranks if Smith were nominated by the Democrats.

Reed Is Wet

"Who are available for the Presidency?" he was asked.

"There is Senator Reed," replied Evans. "He is one of our greatest citizens. He is a champion of the constitution and American institution."

"But he is wet," it was suggested.

"He's a great American just the same," Evans replied. "Some times a Klansman will support a wet when prohibition is not an issue and when the candidate measures up to our standards in other respects."

Evans cited an instance where in a recent election, the Klan supported a "wet Catholic against a "dry" Protestant, because the membership did not feel the Protestant was worthy of election.

"The Klan will never elect a thing instead of a man," Evans added. "We always vote for a man whom we believe is qualified to serve our nation best and whom we believe will give the nation his best service."

Evans declared Borah was "available" because he was "one of our greatest living Americans." The Idaho senator, he added, while playing a lone hand has won the support of millions by his policy of "America-First" in international affairs.

As for issues in 1928, Evans said it was "far too early to tell what will decide the next presidential campaign.

"It may be economic and again it may be something else," the Wizard said, and smilingly added: "There may even be a war with Italy."

"What are Al Smith's chance?" he was asked.

"No Kansman will support a nullifier," Evans said spiritedly. "No man can ever be elected president in this country who does not give undivided allegiance to the federal constitution."

Donahey On Horizon

Governor Vic Donahey and former Senator Atlee Pomerene are also on the "presidential Horizon", Evans said, if they win their elections in Ohio this fall.

Evans declared the United States must demand full settlement of foreign debts. He endorsed the proposal of Senator T. H. Caraway, D., of Arkansas, that France should be given the choice of "paying in full" or "repudiating the entire debt."

Evans also declared the American government should show a "firm front" toward Mussolini.

"The American people don't like sword-shaking or dictatorships," Evans said. "And America isn't going to be dictated to by any Italian man of war."

Mr. Viteto says of this preparation, Dr. Bower's Bunion Paint without question marks a great discovery. Painful bunions, foot callouses of all descriptions and sore and inflamed joints yield quickly to its healing powers. People no longer have any excuse for suffering from these afflictions when for a small amount they can get Dr. Bower's Bunion Paint. Einstein Plans California Visit

(International News Service)

PASADENA, Cal., Sept. 17. — Southern California scientific circles were greatly interested in the recent announcement that Dr. Albert Einstein, noted German scientist and the discoverer of the complex theory of relativity, may visit here next winter.

His visit here is contingent upon his health, Dean F. W. Hinrichs of the California Institute of Technology declared.

Einstein was invited to come to Pasadena and make use of the institute's facilities. Einstein planned to work with scholars at Mt. Wilson observatory, near here, and at the institute, who are conducting researches into Einstein's theory.

Flood Of Capital Flows To Europe

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—American money continued to flow into the rehabilitating countries of Europe particularly Germany, during the first six months of the year. The Federal reserve board's monthly review, made public today, showed that approximately $200,000,000 in European securities were disposed of in this country during this period.

A new record for capital flotations was established during the period, $3,500,000,000, or about $500,000,000 more than for the preceding six months. Nearly half the total issues were offered by public utilities companies, which in April, May and June, issued more new securities than all industrial companies combined.

Is there carbon in your car?
—then fill your tank with Sterling Ethyl Gasoline and turn the carbon into power.

STERLING Ethyl Gasoline puts carbon to work. It turns the carbon deposits now in your cylinders into an agency of service—a source of greater power and smoother running.

The first tankful of Sterling Ethyl will stop all "knocking" and you'll notice how the carbon pulls for you when you take a hill on high — or crawl in a traffic jam.

Sterling Ethyl Gasoline was developed by the great Research Laboratories of General Motors. It has no substitute. No other fuel is comparable. Fill your tank today.

STERLING ETHYL GASOLINE
Knocks out that "knock"

NOTICE: Dilution of Sterling Ethyl Gasoline with other fuels decreases its effectiveness. Therefore it is important to drain your tank before filling it with Sterling Ethyl Gasoline for the first time —and to use Sterling Ethyl Gasoline exclusively thereafter.

Remember also that no motor fuel will "grind valves." While Sterling Ethyl Gasoline makes carbon an agency of service, you must keep your valves in good condition.

U. S. Tourists Spent $226,000,000 With French Last Year

(International News Service)

PARIS, Sept. 17.—Figures just published by the French National Tourist Office, compiled in collaboration with the United States Department of Commerce, show that 220,000 Americans visited France during 1925 and spent $226,160,000, an average of slightly over $1,000 each.

Figures for 1926 are not yet available but it is estimated that there were at least 50,000 more American visitors and that they spent correspondingly more money.

Four thousand four hundred of the Americans visiting France last year were millionaires, spending, it is estimated, an average of $5,000 each. Students, teachers and employed persons on vacations numbered 61,600 and spent $425 each. Merchants, industrialists and professional men made up the most important class of tourists, numbering 96,800 and spending $850 each. Thirty-nine thousand six hundred tourists were classed as wealthy and spent $1,760 each while 17,600 persons combined business with pleasure and spent $1,500 each.

English tourists were by far the most numerous in France, totalling 760,000 to 685,000 Spanish, 38,588 Dutch and 13,545 Swiss.

World Coal Market Is Showing Decline

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—The consumer's winter prayer, that coal may become a drug on the market, may some day be realized—if he lives long enough—according to a Department of Commerce announcement that the world coal markets has shown a sharp decline.

Increased consumption of fuel oil, hydro-electric developments and increasing coal production in nations, which formerly were large imports of American coal, have caused a loss of trade to American coal exporters, the department stated. The same conditions apply both to Great Britain and Germany, which rank with the United States, as the leading coal exporting nations of the world.

If this situation continues, it was broadly intimated, American coal companies may have nothing else to do with their product except to sell it to American consumers. If such a condition ever occurs, the prices undoubtedly will decline.

The United States meanwhile shows the smallest decline of the three coal-exporting leaders in the tonnage exported. The loss of coal trade by this country, the department announced, was a reduction from 21,000,000 long tons in 1913 to 19,000,000 long tons last year. The British loss was a drop from 73,000,000 tons in 1913 to 51,000,000 in 1925 while the German reduction was from 34,000,000 tons to 14,000,000 in the same period.

Ohio Investigators Still Puzzled Over Don Mellett Murder

By PAUL E. BROKAW
International News Service Staff Correspondent

CANTON, Ohio, Sept. 17.—Although three men have been indicted for first degree murder in connection with the murder of Don R. Mellett vice-fighting Canton newspaperman, there are many questions still puzzling the investigators.

First among the enigmatic questions stands the query:

Who attempted to telephone Mellett at the Canton Daily News Office about 45 minutes before he was slain?

That such a call had been made was first revealed by International News Service three days after the murder.

The call was received by Earl Shaeffer, press foreman of the Canton Daily News about 11:30 p. m. on the night of the crime.

A fluent speaking man excitedly asked for Mellett, asked where he lived, and demanded his telephone number.

Perhaps that man tried to warn the unfortunate editor; if so, his attempt was futile—Mellett did not arrive at his home until a few minutes before he was killed.

A Warning Caller

The man to whom all evidence points as the warning caller—a world war hero, friend of Mellet's yet related by marriage to a suspect in the case—denies all knowledge of the mysterious telephone message.

Another question that is worrying the investigators:

Where is Patrick Eugene McDermott, alleged hired-triggerman and key witness?

McDermott, one of the indicted trio has not been seen since 12 days following the murder.

Where is the "ivory handled" revolver of Spanish manufacturer that shot copper-jacketed bullets?

That is another question confronting investigating oficers.

It is known by investigators to have changed hands several times since the murder.

The investigators learned that it was first gotten by a Canton policeman from a "gun-toter."

The policeman sold it to a suspect in the Mellett case.

Immediately after the murder it was again seen in the hands of another policeman.

Now it has disappeared completely.

Mellett was killed by a copper-nosed bullet.

Who really plotted the crime?

Several Plotters

Evidence points to several men as possible plotters—and any one of them may later be included in other indictments.

But, investigators admit, all of their evidence is circumstantial and that it would be hard to convict an alleged plotter on circumstantial evidence.

Who will confess or 'squeal'?

The entire case in now based upon purely circumstantial evidence, authorities state, and either an eyewitness or a confession involving others, is of high importance.

Louis Mazer and Ben Rudner are being held in jail here pending trial.

Peggy Cavanaugh and Steve Kascholk, material witnesses, are also being held under heavy bond.

INMATES OF HOME FOR AGED WEDDED

INDIANAPOLIS, Sept. 17—Proving that love laughs not only at locksmiths but also at Father Time, Caroline Becker, 78 years old, and Karl Felz, 85 years old, both living at Altenheim, German home for the aged here, were married yesterday.

This was the first marriage contracted at the home in its 20 years of sheltering elderly people. The directors consented to the marriage.

The newlyweds were born in Germany. They will continue to live at the home.

Vienna Citizens Eat Lots Of Eggs

(International News Service)

VIENNA, Sept. 17.—War has changed the Viennese taste in food. The population of the city now eats less veal and pork than before the war but consume amost 50 per cent more eggs. The reason is of course that the restricted diet of the war period lessened the desire for meat which Austrians used in excess when it was plentiful.

In 1913 there were 47,000,000 eggs sold on the market and last year 68,000,000. Teh veal and pork sold in 1913 amounted to 1,100,000 kilos and 6,500,000 kilos while in 1925 the figures were 200,000 2,300,000 kilos in order, A kilo is about two and one-fifths pounds.

BOROUGH IS UPHELD IN GIVING CERTAIN STREET TO COASTING

BEAVER, Pa., Sept. 17.—Borough authorities may set aside certain streets for coasting for boys and girls, according to a decision given yesterday by Judge William A. McConnel in fining Clifford Wagner of Westmayfield $25 and costs on a charge of reckless driving.

It was charged that Wagner had driven down a street where boys and girls were coasting. He was fined by Burgess Harry Ridings of Westmayfield, but appealed the case. The opinion of the court was that the borough authorities had the right to regulate traffic on the municipal highways.

TWO FIGHT TICKETS SOLD FOR $1,295

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 17.—One speculator here sold a pair of Dempsey-Tunney seats in the sixth row at ringside for $1,295. These are priced at $27.50, so one can figure out his own premium percentage on that particular pair of seats.

And the most peculiar slant of that sale is the fact that the Cleveland millionaire who bought them is known not to be a fight fan. But his purchase is a very good tip-off on how "the battle of the sesqui" is revolutioning attendance at boxing bouts.

Boost U. S. Goods In Europe's Market

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—In an effort to improve the European market for American-made goods, Dr. Julius Klein, director of the Foreign Commerce Bureau in the Department of Commerce, is now abroad conducting an economic survey.

Dr. Klein sailed September 1 to visit 27 European cities in search for additional trade information, which will tend to promotoe the American export trade. His tour includes Hamburg, Copenhagen, Vienna, Budapest, Bucharest, Constantinople, Sofia, Belgrade, Milan, Frankford, Cologne and Paris.

With Europe furnishing the largest foreign market for American goods, Dr. Klein planned his trip with a view to strengthening the Department of Commerce's trade outposts throughout the continent. The export trade to the nations on his tour was $2,000,000,000 alone in 1925 and authorities expect this figure to be exceeded this year.

"The prime purpose," said the department announcement, "of Dr. Klein's trip is to assure to American business the continued receipt of timely and practical trade information by the department from the twenty trade offices which it maintains in Europe."

DESPONDENT KILLS HIMSELF.

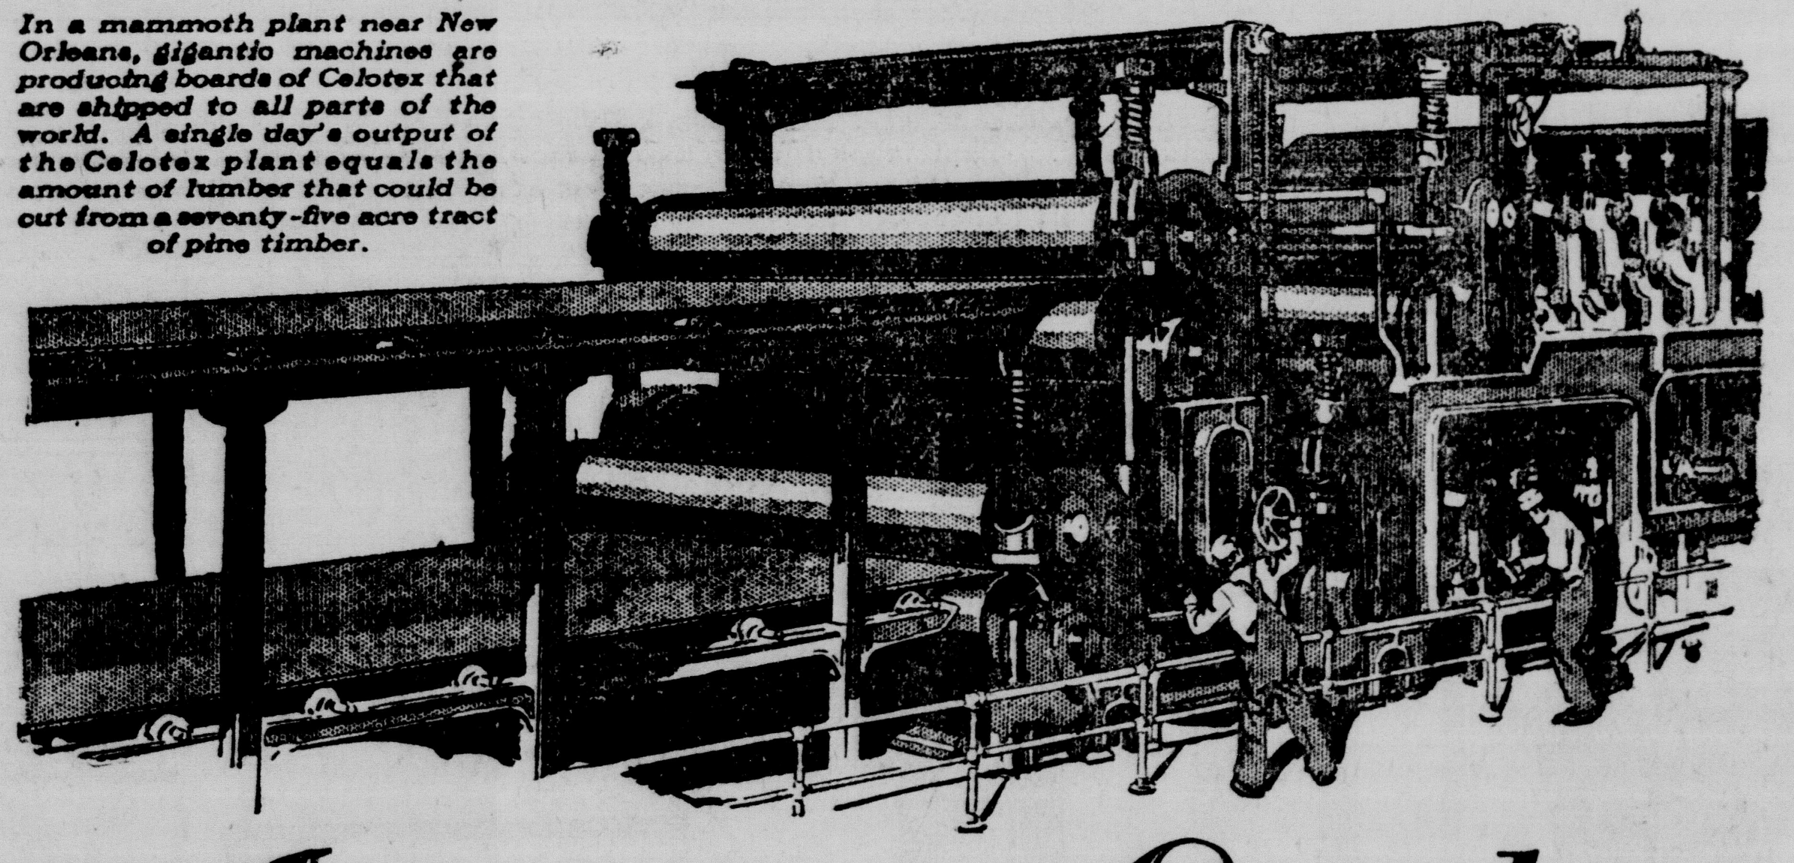
SCORE HAVE TYPHOID IN MINING VILLAGE; STATE TAKES CHARGE

WASHINGTON, Pa., Sept. 17.—Twenty persons in the mining town of Cokeburg, about 10 miles east of here, are ill of typhoid fever. Representatives of the state have taken charge of the situation. Two of the patients were brought to the Washington hospital last night for treatment. The water source of the town is said to have become contaminated.

Steps have been taken to restrict the use of water and to purify all that is used by the residents. The mining town is owned by the Bethlehem Mines Corporation.

AUTO UPSETS, KILLS DRIVER.

GALLIPOLIS, Ohio, Sept. 17.—John Marcus, furniture dealer of Portsmouth, was killed near Sciotoville, when his automobile turned over.



In a mammoth plant near New Orleans, gigantic machines are producing boards of Celotex that are shipped to all parts of the world. A single day's output of the Celotex plant equals the amount of lumber that could be cut from a seventy-five acre tract of pine timber.

Amazing Lumber
that isn't cut from trees!

Celotex stops heat and cold many times as effectively as wood lumber . . . is stronger in walls . . . yet costs no more to use. Year after year, it will save from 25% to 35% of your fuel money.

FIVE years ago, a way was found to make lumber that possesses structural advantages plus insulating properties that wood alone can never offer.

It was a complete new building material: a heat-stopping lumber that banished cold draughty rooms and wasted fuel in Winter . . . hot, stuffy rooms in Summer.

How Celotex is used in both old and new houses

AS SHEATHING
Celotex supplies the insulation needed back of brick, wood or stucco exteriors.

UNDER PLASTER
On inside walls and ceilings, plaster is applied directly to the surface of Celotex.

IN THE ROOF
Celotex applied over or under roof rafters gives protection where it is most needed

This amazing lumber is Celotex. It is not cut from trees, but manufactured in broad strong boards from the tough fibres of cane. It is enduring . . . scientifically sterilized and waterproofed. Celotex is stronger in walls than wood lumber and many times better as insulation. Wind and moisture can not penetrate it. It quiets noise.

ACTUALLY saves money. Unlike ordinary insulation, Celotex is not an extra item in building. Wherever used, it replaces other materials, adding insulation at little or no extra cost.

With the walls and ceilings or roof of your house covered with Celotex a smaller, less expensive heating plant and smaller radiators will keep you comfortable. And year after year, Celotex will save from 25% to 35% of your fuel bill!

NEW COMFORT for old houses. In houses already built, a big measure of this comfort and economy is being secured by lining attics and basements with Celotex.

Let us tell you more about Celotex before you build or buy.

Plan For Paris Legion Convention Next Year Will Probably Be Dropped

Indications Are That American Legion Convention Will Turn Idea Down

Attitude Of French Against Americans Makes Legion Turn Cold On Plan

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—The whole ambitious project of chartering a fleet of steamers and transporting the 1927 convention of the American Legion to Paris next summer is tottering.

Opposition to the Paris pilgrimage, which has been growing steadily since the boulevard crowds first began to hoot and attack American tourists, has now attained such proportions, it was learned today, that it is not unlikely the legion itself will abandon the undertaking at its forthcoming Philadelphia gathering.

Trip Is Opposed.

Several state organizations have already gone on record as opposing the trip. The Illinois and Iowa legionnaires by convention action are the latest to grow cold on the project.

If the legion does decide at Philadelphia to abandon the plan, the decision will meet with the quiet—if unexpressed—approval of government officials. They have been contemplating the pilgrimage with some trepidation ever since it was first broached. The picture of some thousands of ex-doughboys returning to a Paris that is totally unlike the Paris of their memories in 1917 is one that has given the diplomatic part of the government no little concern.

Serious Concern.

The events of the summer, the attacks on Americans by Parisian crowds, the tensity of the feeling over the war debt, and the general unpopularity of Americans abroad, reported by almost every incoming traveller, have not acted to allay this concern. On the contrary, it has enormously increased it.

Since June there has been a steady stream of officials returning to Washington from European jaunts, and nine out of every ten have expressed doubt as to the advisability of the legion's going to Paris next year "in view of existing conditions."

Senator Caraway (D) of Arkansas, the latest returning member of the senate, feels so wrothy about the reception of Americans abroad that he is openly advocating an appropriation by congress to bring back America's war dead from their resting places in half a dozen French cemeteries.

Senator Pat Harrison D) of Mississippi, who preceded him, urged an "embargo on American tourists" until such time as public feeling abroad, and particularly in France, has had a change for the better.

Canned Fruit Idea Popular In Hungary

(International News Service)

BUDAPEST, Sept. 17.—The American idea of preserving fruit and vegetables for winter use has become popular in Hungary. During the relief work of the Red Cross and other organizations in the country several of the workers demonstrated to housewives how to save surplus fruit by canning it.

The government has now taken up the idea and the Department of Agriculture has sent out women to teach the country folk this new idea.

This year the fruit crop of the country is bountiful and should furnish sufficient preserved goods to last throughout the winter months.

Egg Championships Start In Thirteen States And Canada

(International News Service)

ATHENS, Ga., Sept. 17.—Leading poultrymen of thirteen states and the Dominion of Canada have entered champion hens in the national egg-laying contest which will be held at the Georgia State College of Agriculture, beginning November 1, and continuing for 51 weeks.

White Leghorns will predominate in the contest, but there will be many Wyandottes, Black Minocas, Rhode Island Reds, Anconas, Kiwis, and Plymouth Rocks from Alberta. The list of competitors includes entries from Alabama, South Carolina, Florida, Virginia, Michigan, Wisconsin, California, Washington, and the District of Columbia.

Modernizing Of Castle Done To Queen's Taste

LONDON, Sept. 17.—Ladies-in-waiting to Queen Mary no longer shiver miserably while on duty at Balmoral Castle, as they did in the days of Queen Victoria. The castle has been modernized, and the minister in attendance to the King needs no longer to use his bed as a writing table and his chimney as a smoking room.

The task of bringing the castle into line with modern ideas of comfort and sanitation started in King Edward's reign, has just been completed. Though the interior furnishings are quite simple, the castle is homelike, and this year for the first time is not the uncomfortable, draught-riddled home which Queen Victoria regarded with such affection.

Mounted Police Get Cheer By U. S. Radio

(International News Service)

DENVER, Sept. 17.—Radio programs from stations in the United States go a long way toward alleviating the loneliness of the famous mounted police in the icy Northwest, according to a letter received at KOA, Rocky Mountain broadcasting station, here.

Though the Aurora Borealis—Northern Lights—affects radio reception at times, the sunless months of November, December and January afford splendid reception.

"As the green and gold lights sweep across the blackened sky during the activities of the Aurora", the letter states, "there is a corresponding rise and fall in radio reception. An unusually brilliant flash of flaming red and yellow lights puts the instrument out of commission."

The letter, from Sergeant Frank A. Barnes of the Royal Northwest Mounted Police, states that the howling blizzards of the country apparently had little effect upon the ethereal waves.

"Stationed on the frozen outposts of the earth", Sergeant Barnes wrote, "radio is our only contact with a white man's world."

MacMillan To Make Extended Scientific Study Of Labrador

NEW YORK, Sept. 17. — A five-year scientific study of the far north will be started next summer, Donald MacMillan, Arctic explorer, made it known today. A scientific station, he said, would be established at Kowk, near Nain, Labrador.

MacMillan plans to remain at the station 15 months and then return to civilization for fresh supplies. He will be accompanied by five scientists to study the inhabitants, birds, fowl, rocks and vegetation and also the excavation of Norse ruins.

200 Men Work On Big Fight Stadium

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 17.—Ten carloads of lumber containing 300,000 feet was received by the contractors, who are putting the mighty sesqui horseshoe in shape for the coming Jack Dempsey-Gene Tunney fight, September 23. If placed in a straight line this lumber would reach from the Sesqui-Centennial to Jack Dempsey's training quarters in Atlantic City, it was said.

More than 200 carpenters have begun work to construct seats which will close up the north end of the horseshoe shaped arena and thereby make it a complete oval.

In this section, Tex Richard declared 22,000 seats are expected to be placed, with prices ranging from $3.00 to $11.00 to enable the fight promoter to supply the ever increasing demand for seats at those prices.

From present indications it is said the ring will be pitched in the center of the space which will afford the best possible view for the entire seating capacity.

Other details in connection with the seating capacity for the permanent stands of the structure are being completed. Large signs are being installed over all sections to denote at a glance just where each reservation in that particular section is located. This will afford a great convenience, Rickard declared, to the patrons on the night of the bout and it is intended to avoid as much as possible any chance of confusion.

What Are You Studying?

HISTORY, mathematics, literature, languages, science? In your whole curriculum, there is no lesson more important than how to guard your health. Long after your hard-won French vocabulary is forgotten, you will be putting into daily practice—if you are wise—the rules of health.

School work, with its continual studying, its sports, dances and social affairs demands a vigorous body. How discouraging it is to miss the good times. And sometimes, how unnecessary.

First of all, then, learn the lesson of health. Find out what fresh air will do, exercise, sleep and proper food. Many school girls have learned that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has helped them to find the health they needed and has made their school days happier.

"I gave my fifteen year old daughter, Louise, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it did her a wonderful lot of good. She had been out of school for four months. I read the advertisements of the Vegetable Compound, and since she has taken it she has improved and has gone back to school again. I recommend the Vegetable Compound to other mothers with girls who are not as strong as they should be."

The strands had become so entangled in the treetop that her husband had to break most of them to free her.

American Automobile Association Says Wife Is Tour Boss

Some Amusing Incidents Come Before Touring Bureaus In U. S.

(Special To The News)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 17.—Mere man is in the majority of cases accorded the privilege of driving the car while en tour, but when it comes to deciding where the tour will be, how long it shall extend, where to stop and where to eat, the women of the nation exercise all but supreme jurisdiction.

This, according to a statement issued from the National Headquarters of the American Automobile Association today, is one of the most interesting sidelights developed by the daily contact of 841 touring bureaus of A. A. A. clubs with the motor caravanserie of the nation.

For some unexplained reason, the attaches behind the touring counters are admitted into the inner circles of the family and stand by while the issues of the tour are being decided. Experience has taught these attaches that they will save time by giving the routing originally requested by the woman.

The Woman Wins

"The man or men of the party may for half a dozen reasons want to get back home, but the women usually decide when and how," the A. A. A. statement observes.

" 'I've got to get home,' " Mr. Husband declares bluntly.

" 'But we haven't seen near all of it yet, dear,' "his better half protests, calmly but firmly.

" 'I'm sorry, but we can't go much further,' friend husband rejoins, a trifle irritated. 'The tires are going fast. Besides, I can see the baby's getting sick. He can't stand this sort of thing. And my business will go to rack and ruin. You'll get all worn out, yourself. And I'm running low on money. It just can't be done, that's all.'

"The wife, who perhaps knows better, ignores all these reasons. Perhaps, she took pains not to hear them. In any event, she comes back with the emphatic:

" 'Well, we'll go ahead anyhow. I want to see the scenery. There's lots of it around.'

" 'Tell her the roads are impassable,' the husband whispers. If he adds, 'or by the Lord I'll break your neck!' he may get what he wants. But this rarely happens."

Some Incidents

Some amusing incidents revealing the very human characteristics of the 36,000,000 who spend part of the summer on wheels, are recorded:

"Four college boys who toured east from Kansas fell into a dispute at Washington as to where they would go next," the A. A. A. statement continued. "It was time to get back to school, but they wanted to see Florida. They appealed to the touring bureau clerk of the District Division to decide for them, and he temporized.

"Then, while a quickly gathering crowd looked on, they rolled dice on the touring bureau's floor. Florida won, and the boys will be an extra year finishing college as a result.

"One of the favorite night calls on the service department of the average bureau is this, by telephone:

" 'I've run out of gas. How soon can you get some out here?'

" 'Where are you?'

"There is a gasp at the other end of the wire. The gasless motorist is deflating. Finally he says:

" ' Why—er—I don't know.'

How Far Back

"There is the record of one woman, going from Cleveland, Ohio, to Hagerstown, Md., who asked how far the journey to the Maryland city was. When told, she asked naively:

" 'How far is it back?'

" 'How long can I keep a marriage license before I use it?' is another query, and a sweet innocent thing has been known to stand at the counter in the Richmond, Va., touring bureau and ask: 'Can you tell me, please, if it's raining now in Pittsburgh?' "

But for each of all these questions, foolish and otherwise, the A. A. A. disclosed, there is one that is asked 20 times:

"What is the shortest and best route from here to some place?"

Usually, there are other requisites. The road must be paved and in the finest condition. It must not run through too high hills. And it must have the best scenery possible.

"There could be no better training for the road engineer than a few weeks behind a touring bureau counter," the A. A. A. added. "He would learn precisely what the touring public wants, and if he could devise ways to fill the bill he would occupy a favored niche in the hall of fame."

Landlady Accused Of Burning Boarder

Soaked Clothing With Benzine Then Applied Match

NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—Charged with pouring benzine on the clothing of a boarder, when he announced he had decided to move, and then touching a match to it, Mrs. Mary Sliczynski, thirty-seven, of No. 33 Boyd street, Newark, is held on an open charge. Peter Saladka, the boarder, is in City Hospital, Newark, in a dying condition.

Saladka, before lapsing into unconsciousness, said he had lived in the Sliczynski home eight months, and that Mr. Sliczynski has been in the Newark City Hospital for several weeks. There are four children, all boys, aged thirteen, eleven, nine and seven, respectively. Yesterday Saladka found a more desirable room, he said, and announced his intention of moving.

"Is that so?" he quoted his landlady as saying. "Well, if you move anywhere, you'll move to your grave."

He took the remark lightly and went to his room, where he dozed on his bed. He was awakened by tricking of liquid over his face. Mrs. Sliczynski stood before him he said and lighting a match, touched it to his clothing. Instantly he was a mass of flames.

He rolled himself in a rug and managed to beat out the flames. His screams attracted other tenants and he was taken to the hospital. Police arrested Mrs. Sliczynski, but she denied the charge. One of her sons, however, was said by police to have corroborated Saladka's story.

Ananias Is Not Liar In Syria

DAMASCUS, Sept. 17.—Every American who comes to Damascus is told: "Don't fail to visit the house of Ananias."

Although after three weeks in Syria, visiting Beirut, and other large cities, and listening to some of the tales that are being related by the various sects and parties, one begins to feel that Ananias was greatly overrated and were he living in these days, in these parts, he could not have held down a berth in Class D of the Liars League, one feels that he cannot leave Damascus without calling on the patron of prevaricators.

He occupied a fine house, as houses in Damascus go, and must have been a prosperous old gentleman.

"Did he have any other profession besides that of a liar?" a guide was asked.

"Lawyer, he was not a lawyer, there were no lawyers in those days," the guide who learned his English in England, replied reprovingly.

"Liar! Liar!" was the emphatically repeated query.

"Aoh! a fibber, you mean," came back the Anglo-Syrian with a look of intense surprise. "Why this man is not known because he was a liar but he is the man who converted St. Paul."

They had never heard of Ananias, the liar, in this part of the world.

Plan Drastic Moves To Check Advance Of Japanese Beetle

By GEORGE H. MANNING
Washington Correspondent of The News)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 17——An emergency call for a conference to determine what drastic measures must be taken to protect the lawns, gardens and farms of Pennsylvania from the ravages of the dreaded Japanese beetle has been called by the Department of Agriculture for September 25.

This pest, which eats any growing plant and which has resisted all efforts to exterminate it, was thought to have been confined almost exclusively to New Jersey, but it has recently been discovered in Pennsylvania as far west as Harrisburg; in the Connecticut valley and up the Hudson as far as Albany.

Most Destructive

The Japanese beetle is the most destructive and the most feared of all insect pests in the United States. It feeds on almost any living plant, and is not checked by ordinary sprays. Lawns, golf courses, shade trees, gardens and farms have been utterly ruined by the beetle. Ripening fruit, leaves and bark of orchards have been eaten, leaving only the naked trees and the fruit pits.

The pest was discovered in New Jersey in 1916 and it has since developed rapidly and done incalculable damage. By means of strict quarantines, requiring a force of about 300 men to inspect every shipment of plants out of the infested area, it was hoped that the beetle could be confined to a comparatively small section. Now that the beetle has broken through the quarantine lines, however, new measures must be adopted at once.

Extend Quarantine Area

A very much larger quarantine area must be established by the Department of Agriculture, involving inspection of all produce moving out of the New York City commission markets. More rigid inspections must be given also, and total prohibition of certain plant shipments may be proposed. State agriculture departments of New York, New Jersey, Connecticut and Pennsylvania are aiding the federal government in its fight on the Japanese beetle in the hope that it will not become established in new areas.

In Japan the beetle is not a serious pest, as natural enemies keep it down; but in America it has no natural enemies. Scientists are now in the Orient collecting parasites to introduce in America to fight the beetle, and several are now being raised here which promise success.

Automobile traffic is held to be responsible for a good deal of the spread of the beetle through the quarantine lines. Tourists are watched to see that they do not carry out infected plants in ignorance of the quarantine regulations, but it is thought that often the beetles become lodged on automobiles which are not carrying plants or leaves, and in this way get past the inspectors and are transported long distances from the infested area.

It is the fear of the federal and state entomologists in charge that the Japanese beetle, now that it has broken through the quarantine to such an extent, may soon reach the Allegheny mountains. This would mean actual devastation of large areas of farming country in eastern United States, before effective parasites or combative measures are developed, and all suggestions for preventing this possibility are to be considered at the conference here September 25.

Celebrate Centennial of Historic Erie Canal

NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—A commemorative river pageant which promises to be the most picturesque and colorful New York City has witnessed since the Hudson-Fulton celebration, will be presented on Tuesday, October 7, to mark the 100th anniversary of the opening of the Erie Canal, now the State Barge Canal.

Aside from the spectacular features of the celebration, it will have a historic and commercial significance. There are to be educational exhibits and a banquet at which President Coolidge, Governor Smith and former Governors Nathan L. Miller and Charles S. Whitman are expected to speak. Mayor Walker will speak for the city.

The plans for the event are in the hands of the Erie Canal Centennial Commission of the state of New York, of which George Clinton of Buffalo is chairman. This commission, because of the historical importance of the occasion, was created by the legislature.

Chairman Clinton is a grandson of Governor DeWitt Clinton, who had the Erie Canal built despite great opposition and pessimism both in state and federal circles. Those who did not think the canal ever could be built called it "De Witt Clinton's dream" and "Clinton's big ditch." It has long since been admitted that the canal, bringing New York harbor in direct water connection with the Great Lakes and middle west, took the old commercial supremacy away from Philadelphia.

A mural decoration by Turner in the De Witt Clinton high school entitled "The Marriage of the Waters" will play an important role in the planning of the event. It shows Governor Clinton standing on the deck of the vessel Seneca Chief pouring into the Atlantic Ocean at Sandy Hook a bucket of water carried by the governor's party from Buffalo through the newly opened Erie Canal and down the Hudson River, where the voyagers were greeted from the Manhattan and Jersey shores.

By following the Turner painting, the committee will endeavor to reproduce the Seneca Chief and will place aboard her a group representing Governor Clinton and his staff. They will be attired in the garb of the time.

Florida Race Track Operators Are Planning For Rich Winter Season

FLORIDA—4

(International News Service)

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., Sept. 17—The race track operators of Florida evidently have a "fast one" up their sleeves, and are planning on a lucrative season this winter in spite of the state laws prohibiting pari-mutuel betting at the tracks or gambling on the races.

With appeals which were taken to the state supreme court by one horse track club and one greyhound track club dropped on the motion of counsel for the track owners, and with another club preparing an appeal to the supreme court from a circuit court verdict against track owners, announcements have been made recently that a new greyhound track will be opened in Miami this winter and a new horse track will be opened at Jacksonville.

The new Miami dog track, to cost upwards of $500,000, will be the third circuit of that type in the Magic City. The new horse track at Jacksonville, if placed in operation will be the first to function there for a number of years. An additional horse track also is being planned at Miami.

Appeal Withdrawn

Withdrawal of their appeal to the supreme court, by the West Coast Jockey club and the Tampa Kennel club, both of Tampa, caused considerable surprise recently. Owners of the clubs had been enjoined by lower courts from operating their tracks under a certain system of alleged betting. More recent reports from the racing world in this state are to the effect that both the greyhound track and horse track in Tampa are to be reopened this winter, and conducted under a different system than that outlined in the injunctions issued against them.

Owners of the Jacksonville Kennel club, operating a greyhound track near Jacksonville, requested a verdict of guilty against themselves, when haled into court on a charge of gambling in connection with operation of their track. The verdict was sought in order to open the way for an appeal to the state supreme court to test the validity of the anti-betting statute as it affects operating of race tracks.

Gambling charge cases are pending against more than a score of officers and employes of the Seminole Kennel club, operating a dog track at Orange Park near Glen Cove Springs and Jacksonville. Prosecution of the first of these cases resulted in a mistrial.

It had been expected that the supreme court would rule on the Tampa injunctions before its summer recess now in effect, but that expectation was blasted by withdrawal of the appeals.

Court May Act

It is possible that the supreme court may act on the Jacksonville case appeal before the opening of the racing season in the state, which will be about December 1. Officers of the Jacksonville Kennel club said their attorneys would file the appeal in the high court within the next month.

The greyhound tracks in Florida early became brilliant centers of colorful gatherings; night races under bright lights being featured. Dogs and their trainers are gaily bedecked; jazz bands add to the life of the meetings, and the spirit of carnival dominates the fleet greyhound races.

The kennel club plants cost from $250,000 to $750,000, or more, to construct and equip, and their payrolls are large. Yet, it is authoritatively reported that the dog race track at Hialeah, near Miami, was paid for in full within a few days after it opened. The Seminole Kennel club at Orange Park used an armored express truck to carry receipts of each night's meeting into Jacksonville for safe-keeping, when that track was functioning last spring.

PRISONER REVEALS TORTURE DISCIPLINE IN CANTON PRISON

YOUNGSTOWN, Sept. 17.—Prisoners sent from this city to the Canton workhouse are being quizzed to prove, or disprove, charges of alleged torture at the institution. Attorney Max E. Brunswick has been named by Judge Joseph L. Hefferman to conduct the probe. Meantime no more Youngstown prisoners are being sent to Canton.

One witness testified he was strung up for three days, eight hours at a stretch, hands manacled, and fastened to rings above his head, and kept on a bread and water diet.

Police Congress Date Draws Near

COMMERCIAL RADIO SERVICE INTRODUCED

(International News Service)

BERLIN, Sept. 17.—Representatives of the United States and of the Soviet Union will sit at the same conference table during the International Police Congress which promises to become a spectacular event and which will be held from September 25 until October 3.

The international character of the congress is amply demonstrated by the fact that the governments of 28 countries, European and others, will send delegates. The list of the countries represented which is subject to revision and amplification, includes Argentine, Bolivia, Bulgaria, Denmark, Free State of Danzig, Ecuador, Egypt, Esthonia, Finland, Italy, Japan, Lithuania, Holland, Dutch Indies, Norway, Austria, Peru, Poland, Sweden, Switzerland, Jugo-Slavia, Spain, Tchechovacia, Hungary, United States of America, Venezuela, Greece and the Soviet Union. The United States' representatives are Morgan A. Collins, police superintendent of Chicago; James W. Higins, chief of Buffalo police, also the police president of Atlantic City, and the multi-millionaire John Harris, which presented Berlin with the first traffic tower modelled after a New York tower.

Great Britain will be represented by the chief of the British women police, Mary S. Allen.

About a dozen children from three to 12 years old died in the border district of East Prussia as a result of an epidemic of spinal paralysis. The population of these districts were seized by a panic and hundreds of families fled with their children to relatives in nearby villages or cities. Some experts held that the disease spread through stings of a certain species of gnats, but this theory has been contested. While the cause of the disease has not been ascertained Prof. Dr. Moritz Katzenstein, head of the surgical division of a Berlin municipal hospital, announced that the disease can be cured by an operation, but this operation can be only performed after certain orthopedic exercises or electrical massage have failed. Katzenstein replaces part of the paralyzed muscles by parts of unaffected muscles. Katzenstein asserts that he applies his method with good results.

Artistically designed "congrats" telegram forms of hand-made paper are the latest innovation of German postal authorities. Special care will be taken in writing the messages in ink and the message will be delivered in special envelopes. An extra charge of ten cents is raised for these messages, which can be sent from any telegraph station of the Reich.

Commercial radio service will be introduced on the Hamburg-Berlin express train for passengers desirous of listening in to the latest stock exchange quotations from Berlin, or Hamburg. Interested persons will be able to make use of these quotations by means of radio telephones with which this train is to be equipped.

Seek New Salute To Honor Unknown English Soldier

(International News Service).

LONDON, Sept. 17.—Leading British women are endeavoring to find a special salute to be used in passing the Cenotaph in Whitehall, England's most famous war memorial.

It has now become a universal custom of men to raise their hats in passing the Cenotaph and the suggestion is made that women too should make some sign of homage or respect to the war dead.

Miss Ellaline Terriss the well-known actress has proposed that women should raise their left hands at the Cenotaph turning the palm toward the monument.

"The Romans raised their hands to Caesar" says Miss Terriss who is the wife of the actor, Seymour Hicks, "and I would suggest that as we pass the lovely thought that Whitehall holds we should raise our left hands to it. There need be nothing extravagant in the sign we make, but a sign it will be and one of which our children will ask the meaning of and they in turn telling those who follow after them, this symbol of gratitude will go down through all the ages and live perhaps even longer than the stone from which the Cenotaph is hewn."

Butterflies Make Annual Shore Trip

(International News Service)

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 17. —Bored with their homes in the Sierra mountains, thousands of brown monarch butterflies have completed their annual pilgrimage to the sea shore. Every year the horde of butterflies go to Stinson beach, north of here, to spend the winter and enjoy the mild climate, only to die in the spring.

The trek of the butterflies is unending, however. Next year a new flight will complete the same tragic cycle.

Convict Invents New Box Car Lock

(International News Service)

SAN QUENTIN PRISON, Cal., Sept. 17.—Elmer Gloss, serving a four-year term for robbing box cars, came to the conclusion that there was a need for such things, so in his spare time he invented and perfected a lock for box car doors that is said to be the most ingenious lock of its kind ever to be made.

Frank Smith, warden of the prison, announced that representatives of a large car building company had inspected the lock and had approved it. He said he would ask the Prison Board to authorize a sufficient sum of money to enable Gloss to build a model.

"The invention," Smith said, "may net Gloss thousands of dollars."

In commenting on his invention, Gloss said, "It is a good lock, and I know a lot about box car door locks. Of course it could be opened but it would be a hard job to do it."

Gloss has already served 18 months of his time.

Construction Costs United States About Six Billion Yearly

By ROBERT S. THORNBURGH
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—United States is spending about six billion dollars annually for construction work, according to John M. Gries, chief of the division of building and housing of the department of commerce.

After a survey of the construction situation Gries declared that its importance is hard to emphasize.

"In value of product it ranks considerably above the automobile industry, the largest in the manufacturing class, and is open on par with railway operating receipts," Gries said.

"Variations in construction activity from year to year have a large share in determining the prosperity of other major industries and bears some relation to retail trade and to the individual incomes of practically every family in the country."

Existing construction was described as underlying the whole economic organization of United States today.

Gries pointed out that the volume and character of new construction is of great importance. The million and a half to two million increase in population each year requires new dwellings, increased manufacturing facilities, increased public utilities and other types of construction.

Structures worn out or destroyed must be replaced. If living standards are to improve and people are to occupy better houses, continued large construction programs are needed.

"In general progress depend largely on the nation's devoting a due proportion of its energies to construction," Gries declared.

"As Secretary of Commerce Hoover has stated, 'our national savings are accumulating at an unparalleled rate and it is especially desirable to have them invested in domestic permanent capital improvements, which contribute directly to the well being of our people, for by such devotion of our savings we both encourage thrift and raise the standard of living.'"

Half the construction in United States today, measured in value, is less than 30 years old, and another 30 years hence a backward look to the present is likely to show a similar situation, according to Gries.

In spite of the vast program it is only recently that the building of houses and construction of buildings, roads, canals, bridges, harbor works, subways, tunnels and other work that produces a more or less fixed structure or alteration of the natural topography have been clearly recognized as a single industry.

"The production of its manufacturing industries is carried on mainly in buildings, of course, but depends even more on the physical network of railways, highways, telephone and telegraph systems and lines for the transmission of power and water, all of which are in a large measure the products of construction," Gries said.

"Living standards of the people depend very largely on the character of dwellings, on the availability of water, sewerage, gas and electricity, and the accessibility of varied recreational facilities, and on the streets and roads which enable them to get from place to place. There is a measurable relation between the character of dwellings and health. The schools require a great number of buildings in order to do their work effectively."

Girl, Eleven, Wins Spelling Title In New York State

(International News Service)

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Sept. 17—Irene Gansill, of Liberty, Sullivan county, is the New York state spelling champion.

She earned that title in the annual spelling bee at the State Fair when she spelled more than 1,000 words with but a single mistake.

The only word that Irene failed on was "deferential" which she gave two f's and she failed on that after the 55 other contestants had bowed in defeat.

By her victory Irene won the cash prize of $50 for the winner of the contest.

Irish Census Shows Population Decrease

(International News Service)

LONDON, Sept. 17.—The large number of Irish men and women killed in the Black and Tan wars and other Irish fighting of recent years is given in a preliminary census of the Irish Free State as one of the main reasons for the decline in population.

The census shows that the population of the Irish Free State is now less than three million, having fallen from 3,139,688 in 1911 to 2,972,802 in late 1925.

There are only 973 females for every 1,000 males in the country. Emigration and the withdrawal of the British Army of Occupation and their dependents are given as the decline.

Over 100,000 New Automobiles On State Highways

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Pa., Sept. 17.—Pennsylvania highways today were traversed by 110,000 more state licensed passenger automobiles than they were at this time last year, according to a report made public by the state department of highways. The state department has issued 1,222,349 licenses so far in 1926 compared with 1,112,650 licenses issued for the first eight months of 1925.

Numbers of trucks in use also are running far ahead of last year. During the first eight months of this year 192,700 were licensed while only 181,613 were recorded for the same period last year.

The eight months' passenger car fees this year reached $12,259,151.20 and truck fees $5,589,790.84.

Abandon Efforts To Salvage Gold

(International News Service)

SEBASTOPOL, Sept. 17.—From $2,000,000 to $8,000,000 in hard gold coin awaits the American or other foreign diver who finds the nerve and resources to dig it from its grave in the shallow waters of the Black Sea off Balaclava in the Crimea. Soviet divers have just abandoned the effort to recover the money, which went down with the British cruiser "Black Prince" during the Crimean war.

They located the ship, having no trouble in discerning its outlines in the clear water. But their apparatus was not equal to the task of raising the whole vessel, nor were they able to penetrate to its interior where the money is concealed.

The sum in question represented the payroll for the British army in the Crimea and a large amount for purchase of war supplies. When the ship sank, in 1855, there was no diving apparatus in existence, and since the time when underwater exploration has become common, no Russian government was sufficiently interested to pursue the project until the Soviets. Their need of money led them to make the effort, but now that it has failed, they are willing to consider foreign aid in recovering the treasure.

Military Experts To Make United States Army Best Educated

By WILLIAM S. NEAL
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—Uncle Sam's military experts have a new goal—to make the American soldier the best educated in the world.

From the highest officer to the lowliest private school days have taken on a real meaning under the new scheme. The West Pointer who used to represent the last word in military preparation now grabs his sheepskin and starts for another Army School.

"Join The Army and Go To School" exclaims the veteran, hard-boiled doughboy in derisive tones. But the highest officers in the Army take the matter more seriously.

The World War brought into play scientific forces on a scale never dreamed of by military experts, and many predict the next war will see the complete triumph of science over brute strength.

The Army War College, housed in an imposing building overlooking the Potomac river, with a "campus" as trim as any to be found throughout the country, has opened its fall term with the same sort of exercises to be found in any other institution of learning.

Grizzled general officers are among the seventy-six to reach the college for a final determination of their eligibility to the general staff. They listen to lectures and they are called on to "recite."

Scores of other Army schools throughout the country and in the Philippines call the lesser officers, the non-coms and the privates. The War Department is now detailing to many state universities a limited number of officers whose tuition is paid in order that they may develop their knowledge of some particular subject and become an expert in time of war.

Every private is being urged to take advanage of wide opportunities presented for increasing his general learning, and all sorts of trade instruction is offered. Some school are required but many are voluntarily.

An Army captain who commanded a cavalry troop tells of a bright, young chap who had been employed by a telephone company as a laborer and after he entered the Army refused to listen to suggestions for volunteer schooling. After patient argument he was induced to take up the study of electricity. Now, says the captain, he is boss of the telephone company outfit in which he used to be a laborer.

The largest Army schools are to be found at Fort Leavenworth, Kansas, and Camp Benning, Georgia, devoted chiefly to military subjects. But general instruction is included there as well as in school conducted at many army posts.

Selfridge Says Mussolini Wise

(International News Service)

LONDON, Sept. 17,—H. Gordon Selfridge, the American owner of London's largest department store, places no credence in reports that Signor Mussolini has decided to standardize the fashions of Italian women.

"The whole thing is probably a joke," Selfridge said, "for no doubt Mussolini, as well as the rest of us, learned a long time ago that the only way to manage women, from a very early age upwards, is to let them have absolutely their own way. Not only are we more tactful in doing this, but very much happier, for do they not, by following out their inclinations in dress and in all other matters, produce that result which charms the masculine portion of the community.

"Signor Mussolini has demonstrated that he is a man of blood and brain—and I assume that that blood is red blood—in which case he, too, enjoys the atmosphere created by the last word of fashion and the manners and ways which accompany it."

New York Crime Commission To Urge New Laws

Criminal Statistics Will Show Extent Of Offenses In The State

Next Legislature To Get Reccommendations By The Experts

By RAYMOND I. BORST.
International News Service Staff Correspondent

ALBANY, N. Y., Sept. 17.—The New York state crime commission which was authorized by the last legislature is making a thorough study of crime with a view of submitting important recommendations to the 1927 legislature it was announced today at the capitol

Senator Caleb H. Baumes of Newburgh is chairman of the commission. Senator Baumes was chairman of a crime commission which secured the passage of a score of anti-crime laws at the last session of the Legislature.

Effect of Laws.

One of the Baumes crime laws which went into effect the first of July has just resulted in the sentence of a New York youthful bandit to prison for life.

The work of the present crime commission is divided into an inquiry into the causes and effects of crime; visitation of penal institutions; inquiry into polishing; a study of court procedure and also into the nature of the punishment meted out to those convicted of criminal offenses.

"The inquiry into the causes and effect of crime" said a statement issued by the commission today, "will embrace a study of environment of people as conducing to the development of criminals through lack of home trainig, lack of proper recreational and educational facilities, the influence of spare time or unemployment upon the potential criminal and the benefits of social agencies, including welfare organizations. boys clubs, churches, moving pictures boy scout organizations and kindred agencies in curbing delinquency.

Will Investigate,

"An investigation will be made of a large number of cases of inmates of state institutions and their histories traced back to childhood. A study will be made of the children's courts and also of commercial recreations to determine their influence upon the youth. A survey also will be undertaken of certain areas in New York city and other cities, and in some rural sections to determine the state of crime among the youths and the influences that prevent crime as well as the things that encourage it."

For perhaps the first time in the history of the country the commission expects to have a comprehensive system or criminal statistics which will show the extent of criminal offenses, the number of criminals, their age, sex, nativity and mental and physical status.

Another thing the commission hopes to determine is whether crime is more prevalent in the country or in the city when compared with the population of cities and country towns and villages.

The commission expects to be ready to report early in 1927 to the lawmakers.

SQUIRE WHO KILLED SELF SHORT $10,551 IN ACCOUNT, REPORT

ST. CLAIRSVILLE, O., Sept. 17.—According to a report filed by J. E. Patterson, state examiner, Louis M. Shores, former justice of the peace of Richland township, Belmont county, who ended his life August 2 by shooting himself, was $10,551 short in his accounts. This amount, according to the examiner, Shores had collected since last November but failed to turn in to the state.

As a result of finding the shortage, an effort will be made by the state and authorities of Richland township and Belmont county to collect the money from the Shores estate. The examiner in his report, which he filed yesterday at Columbus, said that no record of civil cases had been kept by Shores since last November.

Seek Increase Of Salaries For Federal Judges

NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—Realizing the necessity of having a strong federal judiciary for the reduction of commercial crime, the legislative committee of the National Association of Credit Men will seek the cooperation of several business organizations in an effort to induce congress to pass the bill for the increase of federal judges' salaries, Curtis R. Burnett, chairman of the committee, said today in an announcement issued to the association's 30,000 members.

"To insure the continuance of the service of the valuable men who sit on federal benches throughout the country and to remove discouragements to future jurists, the government should provide judges with salaries that will permit them to live with less anxiety as to their personal finances," the committee says.

"The salary increase is not proposed to place judges above temptation or is it sponsored by this organization as a means of recruiting better men to the bench. The association believes that the federal judiciary is above reproach and that its members are of the highest type. Believing this and knowing that the judges themselves cannot ethically complain and have not complained in their own behalf, the National Association of Credit Men considers that the improvement of the situation is up to these business associations which depend so much on a strong and intelligent judiciary."

England To Smash Altitude Record

By F. A. WRAY
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, Sept. 17.—Plans are being made for a British attempt to beat the world's altitude record, at present 42,000 feet and held by a Frenchman.

The proposed attempt is the outcome of satisfactory tests made with a super-charged engine at Martlesham Health Experimental Station by Flight Lieutenant W. S. Bulman, known as the "Blondin of the air" who has conducted many daring aerial experiments. His engine was an ordinary service type Napier-Lion, but the principle could be applied, with certain modifications, to any aeromotor.

The apparatus in use is being kept secret because that a height of well over 50,000 feet, or more than nine miles could be reached, if satisfactory arrangements could be made for the pilot.

The advantage of the use of super-charging apparatus, which has been used successfully in racing car engines, is that a machine is not only able to climb rapidly to great heights but, having reached them, is able to travel just as speedily through the rarefield atmosphere as when only a few hundred feet from the ground.

AUTOIST HELD FOR DEATH.

ALTOONA, Pa., Sept. 17.—Glenn Gosnello of Williamsburg, who drove an automobile on the sidewalk in Hollidaysburg, September 7, and killed Valah M. Wilt, was arrested on a charge of manslaughter. His defense is that the steering gear of the machine became locked and beyond his control.

Maharajah of Tiny Indian State Plans U. S. Visit

The Maharajah of Rajpipla.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 16.—Four years ago a dark and smiling young man called on President Harding at the White House and was received as befits a visiting monarch. This year the young ruler, the Maharajah of Rajpipla, is to repeat his call and will again, it is expected journey to Washington to pay his respects to the President.

The Maharajah is at present in London, to which he recently brought a sacred white elephant. It is not yet determined whether or not he is to bring the same elephant or another, equally sacred, to America.

The Maharajah's domain is the smallest of 600 native Indian states. In America it would be considered a fairish sized county—and about as important as the average county.

A "National Geographic" bulletin says: "Rajpipla is about 200 miles north of the city of Bombay, in the northwestern part of India.

The state is slightly larger than Rhode Island and has about two-thirds the population of Providence. The Maharajah is King and boasts family supremacy since 1470. He is entitled to be addressed as "Your Highness" and to a salute of eleven guns when approaching any possession of the British empire.

"Except for a British agent who resides in these Indian states, the Maharajah has unrestricted power over his subjects. Through tribute to neighboring states his domain is protected, and protective forces within the borders of Rajpipla apparently are unnecessary, considering the size of its 'army' which consists of 111 men.

"Two native tribes—the Bhils (bowman) and the Kolis—make up the greater portion of the population of Rajpipla. The Bhils once were in power in India. Under the rule of the Moguls they were submissive and occupied the lowlands, but other tribes treated them so cruelly that they rebelled and fled to the hills, whence few of them returned. They used the bow to defend the mountain fastnesses and repel invaders. In 1818 the British tried to subdue them without success. In 1825 through the use of milder methods a British agency was established in the state. In many of the central Indian states the princes on succession, have their foreheads marked with blood from the thumb or toe of a Bhil. They believe that this is a mark of Bhil allegiance, but it is more probably a relic of days when the tribe was in power in India. They have binding oaths. The most sacred is that sworn by the dog, the Bhil praying that the curse of a dog may fall upon him if he breaks his word.

"For centuries Henuman, the monkey god, has been the chief divinity of these people. Offerings are also made to the much-feared goddess of smallpox, and stone-worship is still found among them. Many have become Moslems and Hindus."

LIVED ON ORANGE JUICE AND BROTH

Takes World's Tonic—Now Eats Baked Beans

James D. Miles, 203 Milton street this city, employed at the Carnegie Steel Co., says: "In a short time after I started to take World's Tonic, I was able to change my diet from one extreme to the other. I was living on a liquid diet consisting of milk, broth, orange juice, soft boiled eggs and foods that are easily digested. I am eating pie, baked beans, fried potatoes, steak and other things that only a healthy stomach can digest. That proves how quickly World's Tonic relieved me.

"Before I took World's Tonic I had a severe case of stomach trouble. My system was run down from the effects of it. I was so nervous that I couldn't sleep soundly. I felt tired and worn out. There was a soreness around my heart that hurt me when I took a deep breath.

"Since taking World's Tonic I feel like a new person. The soreness around my heart has disappeared. I am much stronger and can eat whatever I want. I am so glad to recommend World's Tonic.

Scarcely a day passes in which dozens do not voluntarily come forward with written statements indorsing World's Tonic in terms similar to the above. World's Tonic is an appetizer. To the nerves and glands it is a tonic; it cleanses and enriches the blood; it encourages kidney action and enlivens the liver. World's Tonic is made from concentrated herb juices.

Backless Evening Gowns Are Prediction For Fall

By SONIA LEE
International News Service Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—Backless evening gowns and skirtless afternoon frocks.

A revision to black.

A continuance of matching accessories.

These were the predictions today of designers along garment row and of caterers to woman's fancy.

Specifically, styles vary little from those of the past season. The skirts are still 14 inches from the floor, or shorter, legs permitting. The silhouette is slim, tailored and compact.

Frills and furbelows, while attempted, are finding but little favor in feminine eyes. Pleats are used either in front or back or at the sides of the skirt.

Collars which have displayed a tendency to be high, have again dropped, and the deep V-neck, with a fancy tie at its side, is favored.

For afternoon year, green of the hunter shades, deep wines, with purple shades, and the wood tints are popular. However, the very smart woman, again as in the war days, chooses black from top to toe, with the exception of her hose, which are of sun-burnt tints. Colors have palled on the lady of fashion, and she is reverting to the somber but very chic black. Materials are velvets, twills and a preponderance of silks.

"It is in the evening clothes that startling style is observed," pointed out Hattie Carnegie, the designer. "Evening clothes are very low—some even are backless. They are heavily beaded and spangled."

Man Near Death In Etna Shooting, Another Wounded

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 17.—One man is near death and another is slightly wounded as a result of an attempt of an automobile driver to escape from a motorcycle policeman here today.

Sonny Baumgard, 24, is probably fatally wounded; John Madden, 21, has a scalp wound and Edward Riley, 18, driver of the car, is under arrest. Madden admitted he was speeding.

To Establish Grade On Street

Councilman Davies today in council session presented a motion instructing the city solicitor to prepare the necessary documents for the grading of William street between Lathrop and Acorn. The property owners want a grade so that they can lay sidewalks. Five feet it is said will be taken from the east side of the street to make a 45 foot cartway.

PETER'S ADVENTURES IN ANIMAL LAND
BY MRS. FLORENCE SMITH VINCENT

RAT FREES PAT.

Nobody in the world enjoys being tricked, least of all a Rat. Whiskers bristling with disgust at himself for being so easily deceived, Ratty walked toward the corner. His tail was just disappearing into the shadows when Pat the Dog found his voice.

"Mr. Rat, oh, Mr. Rat please come back!" barked he, and so distressed was his voice that Ratty stopped short in his tracks.

"What for?" squeaked he. "To be fooled for the second time?"

"No, to hear the truth."

There was no doubt but that now Pat was honest. Ratty in spite of himself was forced to believe the Dog. Slowly he turned and came back.

"Well out with it" commanded he sharply, and Pat began the words tumbling over themselves in his hurry to explain.

"Days and days have I been shut up in this box until 'tis cramps in my legs I'm getting! And though I've traveled miles and miles sure 'tis precious little of the world have I seen! Lie down sit down, stand up! Nothing else at all can I do, and I'm growing sick with longing, longing for my freedom! I close my eyes and 'tis myself I see rolling on the grass, kicking up my heels, scampering down the road! Night comes and do I sleep? Never a bit! 'Tis too lonely—I am wanting my mother!"

Ratty's looks belied him. Sharp were his teeth and fierce his expression, but his heart was as soft as a chicken's.

"Poor dog, I'm sorry for you," sniffed he.

"Then please Mr. Rat, help me to escape from this horrible prison!" pleaded Pat. A tear dropped from the eye at the opening. Mr. Rat saw it and sympathy got the better of his caution. He forgot everything but his desire to help some one in trouble. Without another word he set to work again. Nibble, scratch, claw! Pat encouraged by aid from the outside did what he could to help and little by little the hole grew larger. After a long, long time Mr. Rat stopped to catch his breath and to look at his work. Pat poked his head through the hole, found he could get his paws out, tested the width to see if his body would get stuck. It didn't.

"Bow wow, wow!" A joyful bark, a bound and Pat the Dog was out of the hateful box and on the floor of the baggage car.

Authorities Are Particular About Cider Vinegar

Two merchants in western Pennsylvania were recently prosecuted and heavily fined for selling artificially colored and distilled vinegar as "pure cider vinegar," according to an announcement made by Dr. James W. Kellogg, director, Bureau of Foods and Chemistry, Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture.

"The State vinegar law prohibits the sale of any vinegar as pure apple or cider vinegar, which is not the legitimate product of pure apple juice and which does not contain at least 4 percent of acetic acid," Dr. Kellogg explains. "All other vinegars which are not pure cider vinegar but which are made by distilling grains are required to be labelled 'distilled vinegar' in which case artificial colors are prohibited.

"Retailers making purchases of vinegar for the purpose of sale at retail should only purchase from responsible parties with guarantees that it is pure cider vinegar if it is to be sold as such."

A campaign is being made by the State pure food agents and any additional violations of the vinegar law will be dealth with vigorously.

1926 FOOTBALL SEASON OPENS HERE SATURDAY

New Castle High To Play Mars In Opener

New Castle High Ready To Start Fight For W. P. I. A. L. Honors; Expect Hard Fight With Mars High In Lid-Lifter; Mars To Bring Veteran Team To New Castle Is Prediction; Captain Harry Robinson Has Recovered From Recent Injury And Will See Action In Opening Game; Turk, Promising Halfback, Declared Ineligible By School Officials; Tommy Harper To Be Found At Fullback; Team Issued New Uniforms.

By "BUGS" WALTHER

Ben Franklin field, adjoining the spacious Ben Franklin High school, stands today as one of the real beauty spots of New Castle, with her enormous stadium, bleacher seats, and last of all, her verdant greensward, but at 2:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon, or tomorrow, to be exact, this same picture will be changed with countless thousands of people who will be on hand to assist the New Castle High football team in their opening game of the season with Mars High.

Football talk has filled the air in this city for the past several months, almost with the first sign of spring, and now that the time has arrived, the fans are on edge, awaiting the signal that will lift the curtain, and the blow of the whistle that will send the two teams into action.

Teams on Edge.

Both teams are on edge for the opening game just as much and even more so than the average fan. The teams have trained hard for the past two weeks, and now they are ready to offer to the citizens of this man's domain the first gridiron struggle of the present season. To even attempt to select the winner of this important battle tomorrow afternoon would be horse-play, mixing common sense with better judgment it is thought wise to omit sleeves from vests, and for that very reason it is thought best to withhold all predictions until such a time as the game might be in the bag tied with heavy cord. New Castle is not facing a green team on Saturday afternoon, that much can be taken for what it is worth and diluted with carbolic acid; on the other hand Coach Phil H. Bridenbaugh, whose business it is to train football teams for football games, knows just like everyone who has two ears that New Castle high school has a tough nut to crack in Mars high, and it's not walnut either.

Light Workouts.

Coach Bridenbaugh, who is rated as being wise and a man that bars all fake stock promoters from his office, has held the New Castle team in reserve, one might say, for the past two days. Wednesday afternoon and again Thursday the boys indulged in a rather light and snappy workout, and really to one not well versed along football lines it would seem that the coach is making a big mistake by not giving the boys a harder session, but Bridenbaugh pulls a dumb trick once in so many years and it is safe to say that he is rather well satisfied that the New Castle high team has reached almost to the limit of their perfection and that his course is justified.

With the opening game not many hours away at the present time, the squad will undergo a light drill this afternoon, a sort of rehearsal of what has been given them for the past two weeks, and then the boys will sit back, take a good big breath of the pure atmosphere and calmly await the time and word that sends them scampering over the green turf in quest of new honors,

Faculty Manager Ralph H. Gardner, ever on the alert to satisfy the wants and needs of the gridders, had 24 new spic and span uniforms waiting at the dressing room Thursday afternoon for the boys to feast their eyes on, and then they were passed out to the following members of the squad: Captain Harry Robinson, Klaber, Richards, Dickson, Melder, Harper, Thomas, Burns, Ostrosky, Millison, Ulrich, W. Mott, Kirk, Christman, Sillman, W. Smith, Sandifer, Jones, McIntosh, McGrath, DiThomas, Sherer, Haydon and Mooney. The new uniforms are something a little different than the boys have been used to, but they are modern and up to the minute in football regalia.

Turk Ineligible.

The New Castle team was dealt a severe blow on Thursday afternoon when it was announced by the high school officials that Earl Turk, last year letterman and slated to fill a regular halfback berth this year, would be ineligible for the opening game of the season due to scholastic difficulties in his studies. Turk's place on the first string team was taken over by Johnny Melder.

Captain Harry Robinson, who has hobbled around for the past several days with a badly wrenched knee, reported to Coach Bridenbaugh on Thursday night that the injured member was responding to treatment and that he believed that he would be in shape for the Mars game. Robinson, rated as one of the best defensive centers that has donned a Red and Black uniform for the past several years, is playing a bangup game this year and in addition to looking after the boys in the capacity of leader, has shown a marked improvement in his style of play and will be invaluable to the team from numerous standpoints.

Four New Players.

On the team that takes the field for New Castle tomorrow afternoon will be found four new faces. The newcomers this year who have earned varsity berths are Burns and Ostrosky, ends; W. Mott at right guard and Tommy Harper at fullback. Harper is playing a smashing, crushing game at fullback and is being counted on to do the bulk of line plunging for the locals this year. The former Schenley high product is a hard man to stop, and Mars will do well to keep her eyes open when Harper grabs the ball, because Tommy with a football under his arm is as hard to stop as a runaway tractor.

Burns and Ostrosky have taken up the terminal positions this year and they give promise of developing into a fine pair of ends. Both boys realize the full importance of their job and in the workouts to date have shown a marked ability for doing exactly what ends are supposed to do. W. Mott, filling a guard berth left vacant by the departure of Leonard, is filling the bill very nicely and will develop with more experience.

Everything is in readiness for the season to be ushered in, and Saturday afternoon between the hours of 2:30 and 4 o'clock there is going to be a football dish of the choicest morsels at Ben Franklin field.

Pennant Races In Both Leagues

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—The Cardinals, who ran amuck and scored 33 runs in two games with the Phillies, were tied with the Reds for first place again today in the National league race.

Pittsburgh lost again and trails the leaders by four and one-half games. If the Pirates win all of their ten remaining games, however, either St. Louis or Cincinnati must take six out of nine to beat them.

Cleveland's double victory over the Yankees, cutting New York's lead to four and one-half games, revived interest in the American league race. The Yankees can clinch the flag by winning seven out of 11, even if they win the three remaining games of the Cleveland series, however, they can be tied if they lose eight games to the White Sox and Browns.

First Scrimmage At Ben Franklin

The first scrimmage session of the season for the Ben Franklin football team was held on Thursday and considering that most of the boys had never been in a scrimmage before the results were highly pleasing to the coaches.

Light workouts have been held for the last two weeks dealing with fundamentals and the coaches decided that it was about time to have a little touch of the real stuff and hence the scrimmage. Few players were used but instructions were forthcoming on how to take out the opponents and to open up holes in the line.

Coach Norton is taking his boys along easily and they showed the results of the training that they have received and a strong combination will be whipped together to furnish a little opposition in the class league.

The Ben Franklin elevens are quite well known and if one looks up the records he will find that they have been crowned the champions for the last three years and have lost but one game in that period, and the team this year is anxious to keep the record of games marked up in the winning column going right along.

Single Reserved Seats Available

Faculty Manager Ralph H. Gardner announced today that it will be possible for those who do not care to purchase season reserved seats for the football games to secure single admission reserved seats.

There are many fans here who will be unable to attend all of the games played in New Castle and for that reason they have refrained from buying the season reserved seats, but through the efforts of Mr. Gardner it has been made possible to place on sale a block of seats for single games.

The Engineering News-Record says speed limits will be abolished and this will be sad news for the telephone companies.

Patton To Run In Philadelphia

Local Man To Represent E. & A. Division At National Meet In Quaker City

MEET SCHEDULED AT SESQUI GROUNDS

Harold Patton of Milton street, one of the fastest runners in the city, left for Philadelphia on Thursday night to take part Saturday in the national meet of the entire Pennsylvania railroad system. The meet will be staged at the Sesqui-Centennial field and will bring together the fastest men from all divisions in the United States.

Patton will enter three events at Philadelphia, the 100-yard dash, 220-yard dash and hop, skip and jump event. At the national meet held in Altoona in 1923 Patton took second place in the 100-yard dash. The local man won the right to represent the E. & A. division by capturing first places in meets held at Columbus and Dennison, O., this year.

The local runner has not lost a race this year and hopes to return to New Castle the latter part of next week with this record unblemished.

Patton will remain over in Philadelphia for another week and will also be an interested spectator at the Dempsey-Tunney fight scheduled for next Thursday night at the Sesqui grounds.

Dempsey Will Defeat Tunney, Stars Reveal

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—Jack Dempsey will win this fight with Gene Tunney. The stars say so. Professor Gustave Meyer, Hoboken astrologer and spokesman for the stars, says so.

According to Professor Meyer, Estelle Taylor, actress, wife of the champion, is Jack's guiding star and her happy influence over him combined with his love for her will cause him to send Tunney flying through the ropes in pursuit of other stars, in either the fifth, sixth or seventh round.

"I am the astrologer who foretold Dempsey's marriage," professor Meyer said today. "Instead of being a hindrance his marriage will be a potent factor in keeping the crown on his head next Thursday. Mrs. Dempsey is under a sign most congenial to her husband's sign, hence she will prove to be his guiding star towards happiness, prosperity and success. She will create in him fortitude, courage and the will to win."

With the completion of its new city planning projects Kenosha, Wis., will have a wide boulevard around the outer edge of the city while in the center will be a community center consisting of a spacious plaza bordered by a group of handsome public buildings.

Pitt Season To Open Soon

Allegheny Team To Be Opponent In First Grid Encounter

GAME SCHEDULED FOR SEPTEMBER 25

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Sept. 17.—Allegheny college is the opening football attraction against the University of Pittsburgh in the Pitt stadium, the game being scheduled for Saturday, September 25. Allegheny has not been met in football for some years, but the University athletic records show that the Methodists have been played a number of times and have always been hard to beat.

The presence of "Mel" Merritt, Dartmouth celebrity, as head coach of Allegheny adds spice to the combat, as Merritt is known as an exponent of the wide open game. Coach Jock Sutherland, of Pitt, is looking for a forward pass attack and is drilling his proteges accordingly. That Allegheny will give trouble with this system of play is the forecast at Pitt has a rather green team and one that might become a little flustered with such opposition. The only 1925 regulars who will start the game are Captain McMillin, Andy Cutler, Andy Salata and "Gibby" Welch. Cutler will likely start in the backfield rather than at center, the position he played last year. Dick Goldberg looks good at the center berth, and Cutler, who is very fast and weighs over 190 pounds, has been sent to the backfield.

"Tiny" Linn, of Carnegie, will be one of the guards. Linn weighs up around the 200 mark and is of a fighting disposition. He is one of the Pitt star weight men on the track team. Linn is playing his last year of football at Pitt. "Luby" Demolio, of Coraopolis, who learned the game at Bellfonte Academy, looks pretty good at the other guard. He is speedy and has dogged determination, which is winning him a place on the varsity.

Andy Salata will be at one tackle, and either Jim Getts or Bill Kern at the other. Kern is a strapping big fellow who has been handicapped in the early season training due to an injury. The coach experts expects him to be available for all the big games at least. Whether he will be started in the Allegheny game is a question. Getts, who hails from Jeannette, Pa., and who was coached by "Pie" Williams, former Pitt end, stands six feet two and weighs around the double century marks, was on the freshman team last year and gave a good account of himself. Felix Demoise and "Honey" Guarino, of Greensburg, are having a stiff fight for one end position, Captain McMillin having the other end cinched. Guarino is showing splendid form and is a sure varsity prospect before he gets through.

The backfield to start the Allegheny game will probably be Jim Rooney, at quarterback, "Gibby" Welch and Joe Schmitt at halfbacks and Dick Booth at fullback. Welch is expected to be one of the season's sensations. Booth was a close understudy to Andy Gustafson at fullback last year. Jim Rooney is one of last year's freshman who is sure to break in. He is a phenomenal kicker. Joe Schmitt is playing his last year on the varsity and is going like a house afire.

Allegheny College alumni will be out in force at the game. A special train will bring the crowd down from Meadville, and Western Pennsylvania alumni numbering 500 or more will be out to cheer for their team.

Tagging All Bases

(International News Service)

After setting a season's record by overwhelming the Phillies 23 to 3, scoring 12 runs in one inning the Cardinals booted the Phils again 10 to 2 and tied the Reds for first place. The cards got 41 hits, Hornsby and Haffey collecting six apiece, but curiously enough no triples or homers were made.

Cincinnati made it eight straight as Donohue uncorked a four hit game and won a 3 to 0 duel from Virgil Barnes of the Giants. Not a Giant reached second.

Having acted as doormats for the Cardinals and Reds, the Dodgers turned and licked the Pirates 2 to 1 putting those worthies out of the race. The Bucs could do little against Jess Barnes.

The Yankees got only two hits in each game as Levson and Buckeye pitched Cleveland back into the American league race with two scintilating victories, 2 to 1 and 5 to 0. Levson won his own game with a single while the Indians knocked Pennock out of the box in the nightcap.

The Braves won their fifth game in a row downing the Cubs 4 to 1.

A 6 to 4 triumph over the Red Sox put the White Sox in fifth place.

Washington trounced Detroit twice 3 to 2 and 5 to 4 by late rallies.

After beating the Athletics 1 to 0 on Sisler's triple and Schang's single, the Browns lost the second game 5 to 1. Zachary and Gray were the winning twirlers.

Two of the men most responsible for the success of the Cincinnati Reds this season are Carl Mays and Hugh Critz. They have been vital members of that all-important meridian line that goes from the home plate to center field and along which, so they say, a team must have strength if it is to become a penant factor. Of course, Hargrave, behind the bat, and Roush, in center field, and the other members of the Red pitching staff have done their bit, but Cincinnati players will tell you that little Hughie Critz has been an inspiration to the team as a whole, while Carl Mays has been their most consistent winner of late.

It's the old combination of Age and Youth again. When Critz was graduating from Mississippi A and M. College in 1920, Mays was a veteran of five and a half seasons in the majors and was busy rolling up twenty-six games in the win column for the Yankees, to whom he had been sold by the Red Sox the year before for $75,000. Four years later Critz was making a name for himself as one of the most promising rookies in either league, while Carl, now with the same team, having been waived out of the American League, was startling the baseball world with a most successful come-back winning twenty games and losing nine.

How interesting it would be if Carl Mays got a crack at his old Yankee team-mates (such of them as are left) in the 1926 world series! Mays pitched in two post-season classics for Boston and two for New York, winning three games and losing four altogether. His hot temper makes him hard to manage at times, for Carl is a fighter in every sense of the word. Jack Hendricks, in fact, had to go to the extreme of asking for waivers on him early in the summer, in order to make him snap out of it and do some good pitching.

A fine pair of "Dutchmen," these two—youthful, brilliant Critz and elderly, crafty Mays.

Feg Murray Says—

Where there's a Wills, there's a way. For, just as Helen Wills was forced to leave the courts on her doctor's orders, Harry Wills, in order to get a fight with Dempsey, was discusing ways of going to court.

Select Date For League Banquet

County League Banquet To Be Held In Elks Club Monday, Sept. 27

AWARD PENNANT TO ELLWOOD CITY

At a meeting of the managers of the County League teams, and officials of the circuit held in the Sporting Goods Store on Thursday night, it was definitely decided to hold the annual banquet at the Elks Club on the evening of Monday, September 27, at 7:30 o'clock.

It is probable that the Twilight League players will be invited to attend the banquet, the Twilight loop being run here as a supplement to the senior circuit.

The managers and officials automatically voted last night to secure a pennant for the Ellwood City team, winners of the league, and also to purchase watch fobs as tokens of victory for the Ellwood City boys.

A banquet committee was selected last night to arrange the necessary details of the feed, and the boys will get together soon to arrange something nice in regard to the annual feed.

BOBBY JONES DEFEATS EVANS AT BALTUSROL

SHORT HILLS, N. J., Sept. 17.—Bobby Jones carried on yesterday through another bitterly fought duel to triumph over stout-hearted Chick Evans of Chicago in the drive toward his third successive national amateur golf championship.

For a time during the 34-hole struggle between the veterans of many links campaigns and the 24-year-old master from Atlanta, Bobby's crown swayed uncertainly For hole after hole a rejuvenated Evans played such superb golf that it seemed to a record gallery that the champion of ten years ago was about to bring off one of the most sensational upsets in links history. But in the end youth, power and confidence triumphed to give Bobby a great victory at 3 and 2..

North Street High Has Good Outlook

After a week of extensive training the football squad of North street junior high school is beginning to show signs of developing into the strongest team that has ever represented that institution.

The squad, which numbers close to 45 men, has been working out daily at Boyles field under the direction of Coach Ralph Liengerman, and although no scrimmage sessions have been indulged in it looks as though North street is to have a banner year on the grid. Coach Liengerman has been instructing his boys in the important fundamentals as most of them have never played the game before and the heavier work will probably come next week.

The boys that reported average between 135 and 145 pounds in weight and some of the chaps who are trying out are pretty speedy, so little trouble will be had in rounding up a fighting aggregation for the first game, which will probably be played about the first of October against some opponent yet to be selected.

Two veterans are available from last year's team, namely, Dick Thomas, ex-captain, and Bob Hoose, both of them holding down positions in the backfield. These two lads are slated as regulars and the rest of the team will be chosen from the following: Jack Stevenson, S. Manos, James Sotas, Art Alexander, Merle Hart, Bot Hitrick, James Lagender, Bob Chamberlain, Bill Houck, Bill Perotta, Fat Cosgrade, George McKentosh, Kenneth Shell, Paul Whatkins, Ken Dougan, Ed Marvin, George Klaber, Ezna Farrow, James Beedle, Rus O'Neil, Jack Moffett, Jack Marlin and Bob Shultz.

Third Game Is Scheduled Here

New Castle And Ellwood City In Third Game Of Series Here Tonight

GAME CALLED AT SIX O'CLOCK

By "BUGS" WALTHER

Manager "Bill" Steen will send his New Castle O. & P. league team into action tonight against Ellwood City in the third game of the county championship series. Weather permitting, the game will start at 6 o'clock.

The skies are overcast today and there was a slight possibility early today that the game would be called off here tonight, but both Sacco and Doughtery declared that the game would be played if possible and barring a hard rain this afternoon. Paul DeCarbo inspected the grounds today and found them somewhat drier than yesterday, which speaks well for the game being played tonight.

Ellwood City will more than likely send Jamison back to the knoll tonight to try to snatch the third game of the series, while Manager Steen has Coen, Hospidore or himself in trim to take up the burden.

New Castle with two games already under cover will fight hard to wind up the series tonight, while Ellwood Ctiy has the position as underdogs. The first two games of the series were crackerjack ball games with every indication that the game tonight will be just as fast.

In event the game here tonight is called off on account of rain, the third game of the series will be played in Ellwood City on Saturday afternoon, and should a fourth game be found necessary it will be played in New Castle on next Tuesday night, was the indication toda

Cravath Elected Justice Of Peace

(International News Service)

LAGUNA BEACH, Cal., Sept. 17. C. C. "Gavvy" Cravath, also known in baseball lore as "Cactus" Cravath, former manager of the Philadelphia National League team and one-time home run king of the National circuit, is the new Justice of the Peace at Laguna Beach.

Entering the race against L. V. Murphy, the incumbent, Cravath polled 327 votes to 167 for his opponent.

Cravath formerly played with the Los Angeles team of the Pacific Coast League and at that time had a third nickname. The fans of that day called him "Wooden Shoes" because of his sluggish sprinting on the bases.

The new job will pay "Gavvy" $150 a month, and he will take office the first of the year. He is now in the real estate business here.

Dempsey Loafs Again Today

Champion Apparently Taking Things Easy With Bout Fast Approaching

By GEORGE BARRY
International News Service Staff Correspondent

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Sept. 17.—Jack Dempsey loafed again today—his sixth day of vacationing since he established his emporium of swatology here.

All of which comes under the general heading of record smashing for him. For at no time in any of his other training days since achieving a championship, has Dempsey punctuated activities with so many periods of idleness at a time so close to battle night.

When he was asked if he wasn't doing a little too much of the "taking it easy" stuff, the champion answered:

"A month ago, with the exception of speed and the timing of punches, I was in shape to take on Gene Tunney or any other living man. I was in that condition because for nearly a year I have been in daily training almost as hard as most men perform a week or two before their fights.

"I did some tough work in Hendersonville, N. C.—trained there at a stiff enough pace to keep fit for any ordinary fight. After that I went to Colorado Springs and I trained hard there. Then I came east and went to Saratoga and ripped along for more than ten days at that spot. I was here for nearly ten days with but one day of rest.

"I really reached fighting condition along about Labor Day. If I had gone on that same pace I would have been dead stale now."

Church Series Game Tonight

The First Methodists and Central Presbyterians will clash tonight in the second game of the church league championship series at 6 o'clock on the Croton field.

It was announced by Walter E. Kirker today that Hamilton and Black would handle the umpiring jobs.

The Methodists will bank on Leonard to bring them through while the Presbyterians have Melder ready for action.

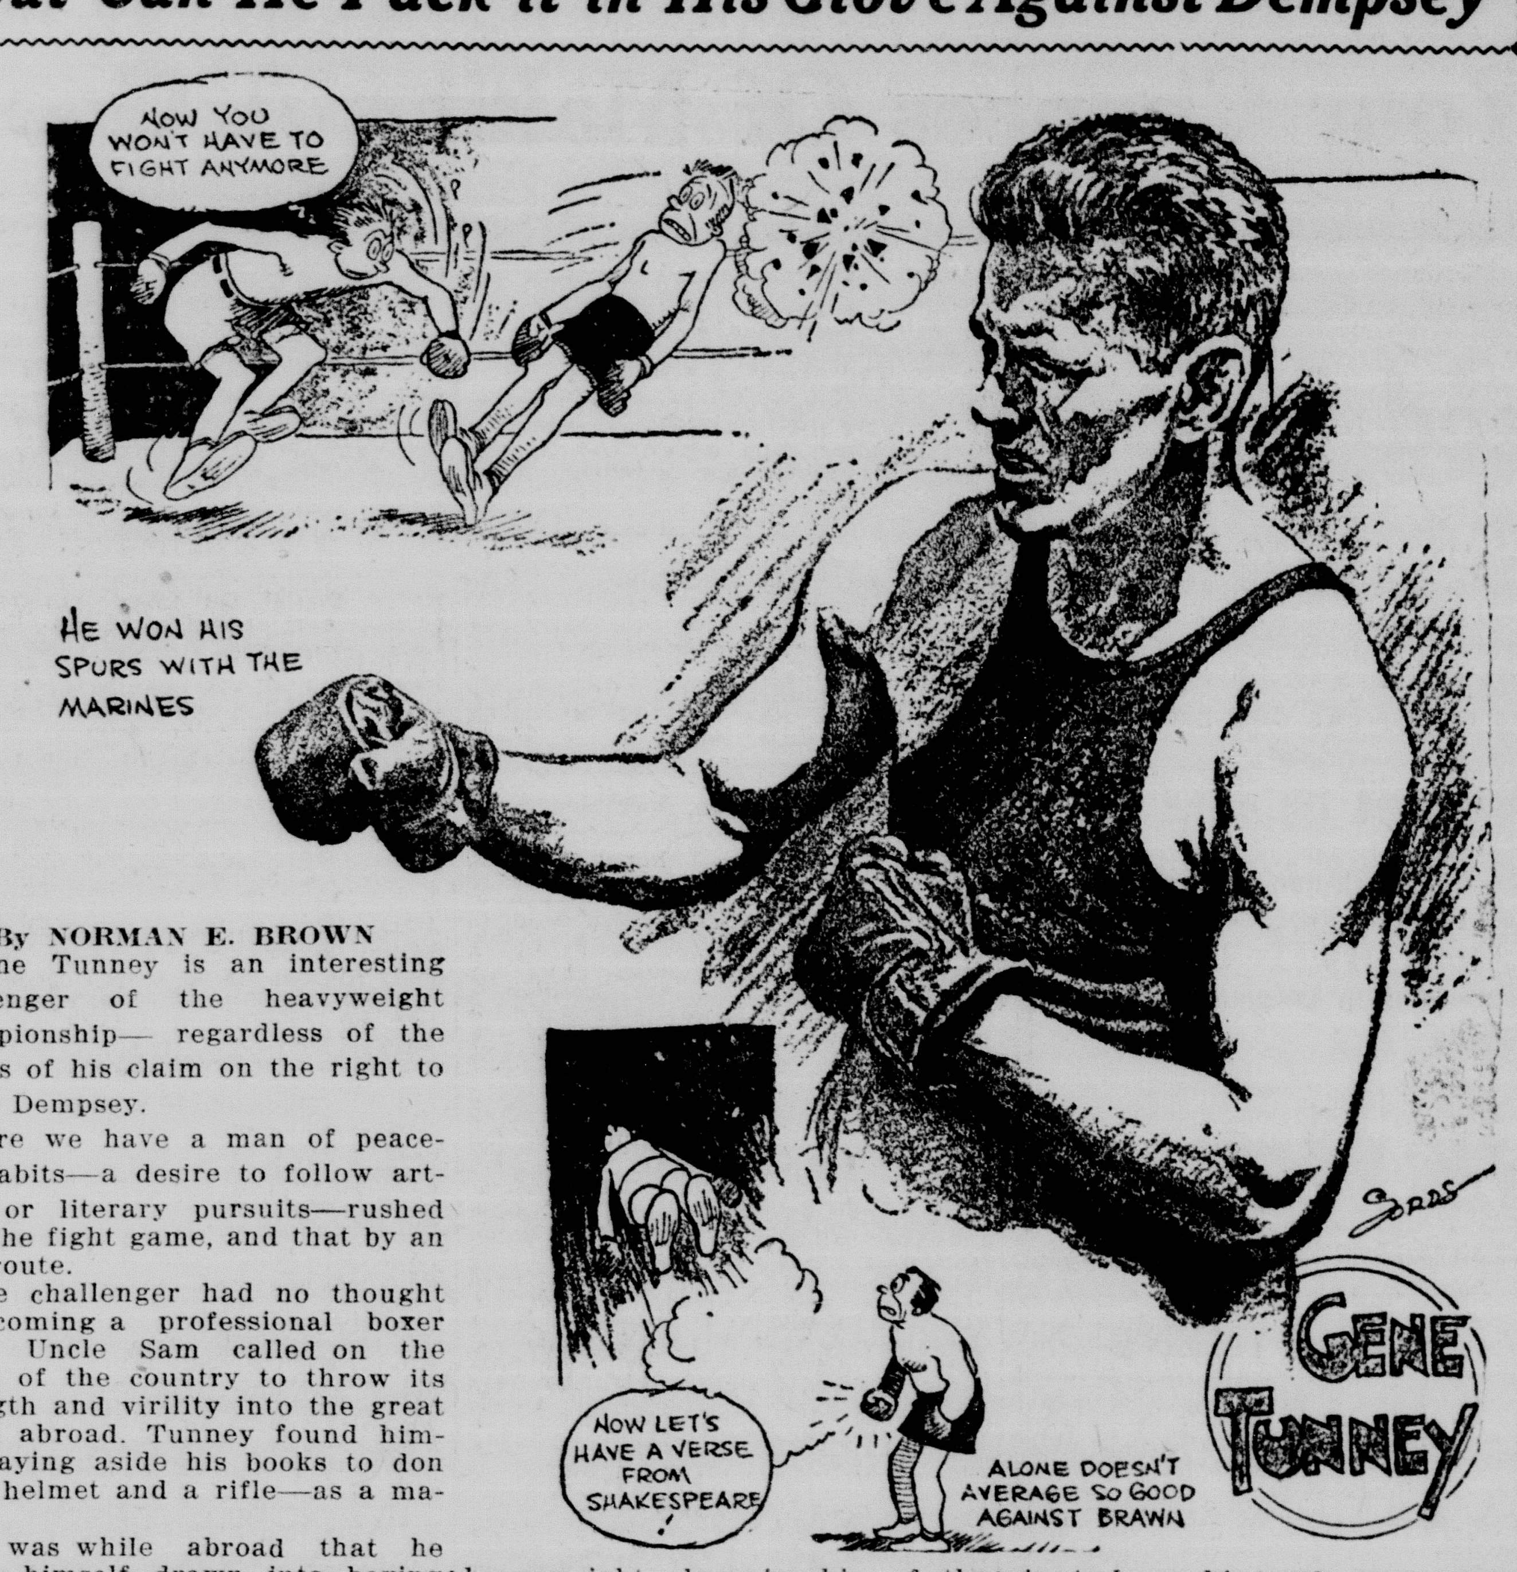
But Can He Pack it in His Glove Against Dempsey



NOW YOU WON'T HAVE TO FIGHT ANYMORE
HE WON HIS SPURS WITH THE MARINES
NOW LET'S HAVE A VERSE FROM SHAKESPEARE!
ALONE DOESN'T AVERAGE SO GOOD AGAINST BRAWN
GENE TUNNEY
SORDS

By NORMAN E. BROWN

Gene Tunney is an interesting challenger of the heavyweight championship— regardless of the merits of his claim on the right to meet Dempsey.

Here we have a man of peaceful habits—a desire to follow artistic or literary pursuits—rushed into the fight game, and that by an odd route.

The challenger had no thought of becoming a professional boxer when Uncle Sam called on the youth of the country to throw its strength and virility into the great melee abroad. Tunney found himself laying aside his books to don a tin helmet and a rifle—as a marine.

It was while abroad that he found himself drawn into boxing matches and eventually found himself figuratively shoved into a light heavyweight tournament in Paris, which left him champion of that division in the A. E. F.

Back home his fame had spread—and a ready fortune lay ahead of him should be choose to continue his efforts in the ring.

Purely a made fighter—a pawn of fate.

He doesn't like fighting.

The feminine members of his family will not see the fight—will not even get round by round flashes from the battle. "It is a man's game and not a nice one for them," he says.

Likes Philosophy, Good Fiction.

He would rather discuss philosophy, would rather read the works of H. G. Wells, discuss the magnetic fiction of Joseph Conrad or mull over Freudian theories than talk boxing.

And yet he finds himself training diligently for a crack at the greatest honor in fistiana—the heavyweight championship of the world.

How can his intellectual complex be considered an asset or liability in his efforts?

I once held to the illusion that brains could triumph over brawn in the ring, as in any game. But frequent glimpses of the exponent of brain and science stretched full length on the floor with the primitive man shaking the flecks of blood from his battered lips and grinning eagerly for more have changed my mind.

I had that view when Dempsey and Jess Willard met. Here was the biggest heavyweight the game has known, the man who met the crafty Johnson, going into a championship battle, an experienced fighter, a mature man whose association with persons of various wealth and breadth of vision about the world had seemed to broaden his vision and thinking powers.

Dempsey The Roamer

And going in against him was a man who knew nothing but the desire to lower his head, start a weaving, shifting waddle towards his opponent and hammer his way through said opponent. His travels had been aimless ones of "the road."

Willard's successes in the oil fields, his sophistication, his very sang froid, meant nothing to Mr. Dempsey, the killer.

Then I saw Dempsey against Georges Carpentier, well educated, member of the social elite of France, friend of the big men of his country, actor, student of art and literature and master of boxing as it might be studied by learned professors.

And I saw Carpentier's aides carry him to his corner after a valiant but futile effort to stop the killer.

Carpentier was then one of the fastest, cleverest men the ring has known. And he carried a wallop.

As I say Corbett, young refined, well educated bank clerk, marked up on "hit" for brains in the heavyweight division but the percentage is the other way.

Philosophy, psychology, psychoanalysis and all the other psychos and advanced degrees in arts and sciences seem ordinarily to carry the professor up to and inside the ropes but apparently cannot be laced inside the glove with the knuckles. And it is the stuff put in and behind the gloves that counts.

Tunney may emerge from the ring Sept. 23 as heavyweight champion of the world. This article is not meant to disparage his chances. But the point is that it will still be a debatable question as to what part philosophy and what part the old John "sock" in his trusty left played in the victory.

Uniontown Man Is Held For His Part In Prohibition Raid

(International News Service)

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Sept. 17.—Further developments in Prohibition Administrator John D. Pennington's action in dismissing Earl Farner and Smith Moore, dry agents, on charges of entering the homes of three Greensburg farmers without warrants, were expected here today with the announcement that O. M. Day of Uniontown was being held for action of Fayette county authorities.

Day, although not connected with the prohibition forces, was alleged in charges filed by Edward Krobok, C. G. Beistel and J. M. Douglas to have taken part in the raids.

Krobok alleged that he was handcuffed to his premises.

Pennington said in dismissing Farner and Moore that he would recommend to Fayette county authorities that the men be held for possible prosecution under state or county statutes.

Says Dempsey Will Win In Three Rounds

(By NORMAN E. BROWN.)

I ASK YOU:

Can Tunney halt Dempsey in 10 rounds? The challenger took 12 to stop Tommy Gibbons and 15 to win a technical k. o. over Carpentier.

"Doc" Bagley the man who managed Gene Tunney for three years and steered him cleverly through the pitfalls of pugilism, steps to the front with the statement that Dempsey will knock out the challenger in three rounds at the most.

Jack Kearns, former manager of Jack Dempsey, says in his daily writings that Dempsey is only a fair fighter and Tunney can lick Jack if the former adopts the right tactics (Kearns being needed in Gene's corner to direct those tactics.)

It's a bit late to suggest this. But why not match Bagley and Kearns for the semi-final?

There never has been staged a heavyweight championship battle during the preparation for which so many side issues and irrelevant conditions befogged the main issue at hand—the question as to which was the better fighter.

Tunney's war record.

Dempsey's war record (dug up by the same fans.)

Dempsey's fight and break with Kearns.

Political wrangling of the New York state boxing commission in the early weeks.

Dempsey's failure to meet Wills.

These and a half dozen other matteres are brought up in most any levee in which the fight is the piece de resistance.

Why?

Tunney did go through "that hell over there." This is gladly said to his credit. But Dempsey's gameness in the ring never has been questioned. And this is to be a ring battle—not a trench warfare.

I heard some 80,000 fans cheer Georges Carpentier to the echo because of his war record the afternoon he walked into the ring to fight Dempsey. The other 15,000 fans cheered Dempsey. The moment Carpentier dropped to the floor 95,000 fans cheered Dempsey. So this means little.

The presence of Jack Kearns in Dempsey's corner is of secondary importance to his physical condition. If he is but a shell of his former self the advice of a hundred wise boys, yelled from his corner or shoved into his ear will not aid him. Condition is the main thing.

The furore created by the New York boxing officials has died out. The commission might will be classed as dead also. The aspersions they cast at Dempsey, his unwillingness to fight Wills and all that tommyrot has been forgotten by Dempsey.

And by no stretch of imagination can Dempsey's willingness to meet Tunney rather than Wills be laid to his fear of the negro. What has Wills done to make Dempsey fear him? Tex Rickard made Dempsey a satisfactory offer to meet Tunney. The public reacted favorably. Which is proof enough that there is no great following which carries the belief that Dempsey sidestepped Wills.

The original purpose of pitting two men in the squared arena was to determine which was the better man. The purpose of the coming heavyweight holiday is the same.

It is idle chewing of the fat, therefore to bring in these outside matters in weighing the worth of the two men.

There is but one thing that might be considered aside from the relative condition and ability of the fighters. That is the fact that fighting is Dempsey's game. He was born to combat, reveled in it as a youth, depended upon it for a living and climbed to the title over a row of unconscious forms placed horizontal by his fists. Tunney is a made fighter—tailor made and gently so.

You might ponder on that a moment.

© McClure Newspaper Syndicate

IN 1858, STEPHEN A. DOUGLAS OF ILLINOIS, THE BRILLIANT DEMOCRATIC LEADER, WAS A CANDIDATE FOR RE-ELECTION TO THE UNITED STATES SENATE.
SENATOR STEPHEN A. DOUGLAS.
AT THIS TIME, DOUGLAS HAD BEEN PROMINENT IN NATIONAL POLITICS FOR MORE THAN TEN YEARS; ON TWO OCCASIONS HE HAD BEEN A SERIOUS CONTENDER FOR THE DEMOCRATIC PRESIDENTIAL NOMINATION, AND HIS FIGHT FOR THE DOCTRINE OF POPULAR SOVEREIGNTY HAD WON HIM GREAT RENOWN.
AS A RIVAL CANDIDATE FOR THE SENATORSHIP THE ILLINOIS REPUBLICANS NOMINATED ABRAHAM LINCOLN.
ABRAHAM LINCOLN.
LINCOLN, THOUGH NOT NATIONALLY AS WELL KNOWN AT THAT TIME AS DOUGLAS, WAS CONSIDERED ONE OF THE ABLEST MEN IN ILLINOIS AND WAS HIGHLY ESTEEMED FOR HIS SINCERITY AND BREADTH OF VISION.
UPON ACCEPTING THE REPUBLICAN NOMINATION FOR SENATOR, LINCOLN SAID OF THE SLAVERY QUESTION: "THE SLAVERY AGITATION WILL NOT CEASE UNTIL A CRISIS SHALL HAVE BEEN REACHED AND PASSED. A HOUSE DIVIDED AGAINST ITSELF CANNOT STAND. I DO NOT EXPECT THE UNION TO BE DISSOLVED. . . . IT WILL BECOME ALL ONE THING OR ALL THE OTHER."
EXTENSION OF SLAVERY IN THE TERRITORIES
J. CARROLL MANSFIELD
SLAVERY
THE FRANKNESS OF LINCOLN'S "HOUSE-DIVIDED ADDRESS ALARMED THE REPUBLICAN PARTY LEADERS WHO HAD CONTENTED THEMSELVES WITH MERELY FIGHTING THE EXTENSION OF SLAVERY IN THE TERRITORIES. LINCOLN BELIEVED THAT THE SUREST WAY TO PUT AN END TO THE CONTROVERSY WAS TO REMOVE THE CAUSE. TOMORROW—LINCOLN-DOUGLAS DEBATES.

N. Y. STOCKS

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—Industrial stocks displayed a firm tone on early trading today, but considerable uneasiness resulted from the sharp decline in the reserve ratios of the principal reserve banks as well as the reserve system as a whole. This situation was utilized by the professionals as an aid to their campaign against stock values. Stocks were poured into the market and with few exceptions the trend of prices was again definitely downward.

Not much satisfaction was taken from the fact that discounted bills for the reserve system as a whole declined $48,732,000. The financial districts saw the infallible signs of approaching higher rediscount rates and the bullish forces in some sections of the market were in full retreat.

Heavy selling was resumed in stocks which have displayed a reactionary tendency in the last few sessions of the market. These included Mack Trucks, which was swept backward 3 points to 109 in the first hour; Hudson Motors, which declined 2 to a new low.

Selling pressure spread to all of the important industrial groups in the second hour. Numerous losses of a point or more incurred by the well known steel, oil, copper, equipment and specialty stocks. Rails were firm and generally inactive, though New York Central, Missouri Pacific and other active shares sustained fractional declines.

Curious Beliefs Held By Trinidad Natives

"Port of Spain is the principal city of the island of Trinidad in the West Indies and is the most colorful cosmopolitan city in the world," says an American citizen, who has returned to his native land for a visit after an absence of two years, according to the Detroit News. "The streets of Port of Spain," he says, "present the appearance of a strange pageantry, so varied are the people. Strangest of all are the native black people. Here you will see nose rings and all sorts of weird styles in hairdressing. They are so fond of bracelets that their forearms, from wrist to elbow, are completely covered with all sorts of metal circlets. Nor is it unusual to see their lower limbs adorned in the same fashion.

"All our servants are these black people. They are excellent servants, but their many taboos and superstitions are very trying, unless you have a good sense of humor. They go by the moon and stars in everything. They refuse any sort of an undertaking unless the aspect of the moon is propitious. They also have special taboos pertaining to things hot and cold. None of them will, under any circumstances, put their hands into both hot and cold water on the same day. They believe that if they do this they will die in three days. By the moon they reckon time and forecast the future. By the moon they hold their pagan ceremonies and one might say that by the moon they live and by the moon they die."

No administration is "greater" than the degree of prosperity the people enjoy.

Uncle Sam has the true reformer complex. eH is always worried by the sins of other nations.

What has become of the old-fashioned girl who liked to sit on one foot?

President Inaugurates New Hat As White Pine Vacation Nears End

The last days of the presidential vacation at White Pine Camp find the Coolidges well rested for the year's stay in Washington. And the new presidential fedora is being broken in. The Coolidges, mother, father and son, are seen walking across the bridge to the tea house, with Rob Roy, one of the White House collies, trotting ahead.

DIRIGIBLE WILL START LONG TRIP

(International News Service)

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Sept. 17.—A final overhauling was given today to the army's RS-1, largest semi-rigid dirigible in the world, preparatory to taking off from Scott Field tonight on a 1,200 mile trip, the largest flight of the huge airship since it was put into commission last January.

The trip will take the RS-1 to Detroit and Chicago and then back to its home port, arriving at Scott Field next Tuesday morning under the schedule worked out by Lieutenant- Colonel John A. Paegelow, commanding Scott Field.

Weather permitting, the ship will take off about 6 o'clock tonight and arrive in Detroit early tomorrow morning.

Grant Permission For Sewer Connection

After Weeks Of Delay Wheels Are Finally Started On Sewer Project

After several weeks' delay, city council today referred to the city solicitor a request by the National Radiator to be allowed to connect with the city sanitary sewer system at the plant.

The city solicitor will prepare the necessary documents which will result in the company receiving permission to make the connection.

The request was presented August 27. When Engineer Miller presented his report to council it lacked a recommendation.

Today R. W. Boisinger requested council to furnish a definite reply.

Councilman Genkinger said that the company should be allowed to make the connection and he believed in making a concession, if necessary.

Mayor Dunlap said he believed that action should be taken and that he favored granting the permission.

Council next referred the matter to Solicitor White.

Officer Rescues Frightened Dog

When a man, who declined to give his name or address appeared at the police station this morning and reported that there was an airdale dog at one end of the West Side bridge, which was barking and growling and would not permit any person to get near it, Officer D. T. Nelson, to whom the report was made, had visions of a possible drowning of the dog's owner.

Detective C. C. Horner and Officer Pete Hillers were detailed to the scene post haste and they discovered their airdale dog without much trouble.

It was a mere pup in the first place and in the second place, the officers discovered that it had evidently slipped from the bank to a ledge just above the water. Being young, it was frightened and for that reason could not be approached with ease.

Officer Hillers let himself down on another nearby ledge and lassoed the poor frightened puppy and brought it to the river bank. It was without a collar or license tag, indicating possible ownership.

Texas Maidens Fail To Snare Bachelors

By MILLER HOLLAND
International News Service Staff Correspondent

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 17.—"Bachelorhood is the insignia of superiority. Bachelors are not fooled by silk stockings, henna hair or lipsticks. It is far more enjoyable to have a strong drink with twenty women than to sip tea with one woman forever. What we need is more girls and less wives."

William H. McCarthy, Pacific Coast baseball magnate, bachelor de luxe, was talking. He was replying to the lady down in Texas who said that men ought to get married as soon as possible and not permit women to pass into miserable and disillusioned spinsterhood.

The lady is Miss Jane Harley of Abilene and she recently unloaded a piece of her mind at a meeting of the Bachelors' Club in Slaton, Texas.

"How do you men get that way," the lady is quoted as having addressed herself to the bachelor gentlemen of the Slaton club. "By what right do you assemble here to organize a bachelors' club with statewide ramification to perpetuate upon the young men of Texas an insidious organization that seeks to put away forever all human happiness. Have you considered the happiness of womankind?"

San Francisco Fights

Just how Miss Jane's effusion was taken down in Texas was not reported but the lady certainly did not make a hit in San Francisco.

McCarthy was among the first to come to bat for the men. He went on thusly:

"Girls should remember that bachelors just happen. They are made, not born. Most have been badly frightened in their youth. This particularly virulent Texan probably scared the wits out of the entire membership of the Texas Bachelor's club, and instead of converting them, confirmed them in their misbeliefs. You cannot 'Carrie Nation' a man into a lucky wedding ring.

Don't treat the bachelors rough. Be kind to them. Girls should remember that you can tame almost any kind of an animal with gentle words. After all, a bachelor is only a lonely brother stranded by the wayside."

George Sterling, famous California poet and another much angled for bachelor, agrees heartily with McCarthy.

Something Must Be Done

"I don't blame the men for organizing," Sterling said when told about the war in Texas. "Something must be done for self-protection and preservation. But at the same time I don't blame the lady for her attempt to foil their safeguard. After all, she is only following the feminine perogative and proclivity of looking for a man. My sympathies? — Well, they're with the men, naturally."

A third broadside was let loose by Dr. W. P. Read, prominent physician and member of the Elks' Club and the Shrine, who came right out with the flat assertion that the Texas men have the right idea.

"We bachelors must organize, we must arm in our own defense," Dr. Read declared emphatically. "The very fact that a female of the species—and Kipling tells us rightly that she is the more deadly—could penetrate into the sacred walls where this heroic band of men had foregathered, shows the dangers with which we have to contend.

"Some will fall in the contest, but in unity there is strength. I hope that San Francisco bachelors will join in this heroic move started by the Texas brothers and unite for the defense against the beauties of today."

Scottish Drys In Fight Against Beer In Cities; 200 Boroughs Affected

By CHARLES A. SMITH
International News Service Staff Correspondent

GLASCOW, Sept. 17.—"Beer or no beer' 'is to be the burning question in 200 Scottish burghal areas during the next three months, local prohibitionists having started another drive to make Scotland as dry as the Sahara.

This time the "drys" mean to go about the matter thoroughly. Their offensive has opened with the issuance by local town clerks of requisition forms which, under Scottish law, must be signed by ten per cent of the electorate of any ward before a poll can be taken in their area.

"This is to be our biggest fight yet", an official of the prohibitionist's headquarters told International News Service. "Hundreds of saloon licenses are at stake in the present fight, and we want to make at least one-third of Glasgow dry. The fight is also being waged in Hamilton, Coatbridge, Motherwell, Edinburgh, Aberdeen, Dundee, Airdrie, Greenock, Paisley, Clydebank, Port Glasgow, Ayr, Galashiels, Hawick, Selkirk and many other areas.

"When the present drive has ended we are then going to agitate for legislation to prevent men clubbing together in dry areas and buying liquor wholesale."

Red-Headed Beauty Contest Winner Simply Detests Men With Red Hair

(International News Service)

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 17. "It would be mighty queer if a girl had not been kissed by the time she was 21." says Miss Elsie Oakes, winner of a red-headed beauty contest recently held here.

Miss Oakes who is 21, with blue eyes and wears her haid bobbed and skirts short, admits however, that her pet detestation is men with red hair. In reply to a questionaire submitted her, she says she prefers men with "black hair, gray eyes, a ready smile and a sense of humor."

She neither smokes nor drinks liquor, coffee or tea, but likes dancing and other forms of exercise. She replied to other questions as follows:

"Should a girl roll her stockings?"

"It makes a person much cooler."

"Should a woman wear a brassiere?"

"Not unless she has too. I wear a brassiere only when my dress is tight."

"Do you walk much?"

"Only when I have to."

"Would you prefer long skirts if they were fashion?"

"My goodness no! I like to have freedom of action for my limbs and short skirts are so much cooler in hot weather. I do not consider short skirts immodest."

"Do you prefer marriage to a career on the stage?"

"Yes, of course, if the proper man came along with the right words it would be hard to say no."

Miss Oakes' measurements are height 5 feet; weight 110 pounds; waist 24 inches; calf 13 inches; ankle 8 inches; hips 32 inches; bust 32 inches.

Missouri To Enforce Its Criminal Laws

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Sept. 17.—The much discussed question of law enforcement in Missouri which has already led to many suggestions and movements aimed at more adequate and rapid administration of the statutes has taken another turn. A campaign has been launched by the Law Enforcement association of Kansas City, sponsoring changes in the criminal code to make obtaining of pardons less easy and imposing restrictions on the pardoning power.

Among the other changes which the society favors and will be introduced at measures are the reduction of the time allowed for perfection of appeal from one year to six months for padlocking of resorts for one year, for repeal of the law prohibiting acceptance by trial judges of a plea of guilty until the defendant has consulted an attorney for state prosecution of narcotic violators.

The information also comes in for suggested changes. The form used in Missouri is verbose and complex. The form sought by the society is patterned after that in use in Manitoba, Canada where a brief statement of the case is sufficient.

French Revive Falconry; Honor African Prince

(International News Service)

LUCHON, Sept. 17.—A famous sport of the Middle Ages, falconry, was revived in honor of the visit of the Bey of Tunis. Accompanied by his two sons, the Princes Azzedin and Lamine, the Bey was the guest of honor at a gala celebration held in the park of the Palace Hotel.

The star attraction of the fete was the revival of the ancient sport of kings. Two hooded falcons were presented to the Bey before they were uncovered and flung aloft to pursue a flock of game birds that had been specially released for the occasion.

WHITE SUGGESTS MUNY GOLF COURSE

Proposal For Poor Farm Use Given Council

Believe Project Would Be Self-Sustaining Under Plan Suggested

City Solicitor Robert White today presented a plan before city council and representatives of various civic organizations whereby the New Castle poor farm property would be converted into a site for recreational facilities for adults.

The city poor farm will be abandoned as a place to maintain poor when the new city-county institution is opened. Council, according to White's plan, does not intend to sell the farm or buildings, but to retain them.

Muny Golf Course

White told the representatives from the Chamber of Commerce, Rotary, Kiwanis, Lions and Quota club at the council meeting that it is his belief that the farm would make an excellent municipal golf course, site for tennis courts for grown ups.

After the representatives had departed, he prepared a resolution, broader in scope than had been considered, which names the various clubs to select two members of each organization to:

"Make a study and a recommendation for the development of recreational resources of the city."

The resolution was presented by Councilman D. O. Davies.

It was passed after Burns questioned whether the "municipal farm" the only place to be studied.

White told him that the city did not have to accept the plan and that the committee would not limit its study to the poor farm.

Park System Plan

"What we want to do is to get the citizenry interested in our park system. Unless we do we will not 'get anywhere'," he said.

"We want them to be so inter-

Bishop Berry To Be Speaker

Will Deliver Dedicatory Sermon At New Cathedral November 7

REUNION EVENT NOVEMBER 8, 9 AND 10

In the formal announcement made to the members of the New Castle Consistory this week, some interesting facts concerning the coming fall reunion of that body in its beautiful new cathedral on Lincoln avenue, are given, which will be of interest not only to the members but the people of this city in general.

The reunion is to be held November 8, 9 and 10. It will be the first complete reunion held in the new cathedral. In addition to the degrees to be conferred, there will be a number of interesting social features presented for the entertainment of the members and their ladies.

In view of the fact that this will be the first reunion in the completed structure, it has been deemed fitting to have it preceded by a special religious service on Sunday afternoon, November 7. The Ill. Joseph F. Berry, 33, presiding bishop of the Methodist Episcopal church of the United States, will have charge and preach the dedicatory sermon.

On November 10, the closing day of the reunion, the consistory expects to have as its guest Ill. Leon M. Abbott 33, the Most Puissant Sovereign Grand Commander of the Supreme Council 33 of the Northern Masonic Jurisdiction of the United States. This will be the first occasion on which the grand commander of the Ancient Accepted Scottish Rite, Northern Masonic Jurisdiction, has visited the local consistory.

Formally Open Lawrence Club

New Home Is Officially Turned Over To Members On Thursday Evening

LADIES' NIGHT IS PLANNED NEXT WEEK

The new home of the Lawrence club, New Castle's oldest social organization, was formally opened on Thursday evening with an elaborate dinner served at 6:30 o'clock.

Practically a hundred per cent attendance of the membership was had and the affair was an unqualified success.

Although the club has been open for a number of weeks it was not formally turned over to the members by the executive committee until last night. It is located in the Shields property, formerly the Knox home on North Mercer street. The large house has been remodeled for club purposes and admirably fits the uses to which it will be put.

Next Wednesday evening will be "Ladies' Night" when the wives and lady friends of the Lawrence club members will be given an opportunity of inspecting the new home.

FLOWER SHOW FINE SUCCESS

Large Attendance At Exhibition—Best Show As Yet Held

Flower lovers of the county thronged the Carnegie Auditorium Thursday evening to see the Fall Show of the New Castle Garden Club. From the many expressions heard, the concensus of opinion seems to be that this is the best show yet attempted by the club.

The show will close this evening and another crowd is expected. It is well worth the time necessary to attend it, for here are found fall flowers that surprise one with their size and coloring.

Thursday evening Raymond Must, the young man who won the Carnegie Steel trophy this year for being the most faithful boy at the playgrounds, entertained at the piano.

Payroll Bandits Get $6,500 In Daring Robbery

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 17.—Three bandits, one in overalls, shortly before eleven o'clock this morning, drove onto the pier of the Merchants and Miners Transportation Company, near the offices, held up the paymaster, Clyde Faulkenstein, and robbed him of $6,500 in cash, the payroll for the company, police said. They escaped in a stolen car, authorities added.

Air Mail Pilot Drops 4,000 Feet From His Plane

Parachute Saves Carl A. Lindberg During Storm Over Illinois

Plane Is Wrecked When It Comes Down—Mail Is Rescued

(International News Service)

OTTAWA, Ill., Sept. 17.—Carl A. Lindberg, air mail pilot, who saved his life during a storm last night by stepping off his plane in a parachute 4,000 feet in the air, left for Chicago today to make his report.

Flying from St. Louis to Chicago with a cargo of mail, Lindberg was nearing the Maywood landing field in Chicago when he became lost in a heavy blanket of fog. Soaring about in an effort to get his bearings, Lindberg ran out of gasoline. Disaster was imminent.

With only a few minutes to spare Lindberg opened his parachute and leaped into the dark, 4,000 feet below. His abandoned plane cut spirals around him as he descended.

Lindberg landed in a cornfield near Wedron, Ill., ten miles from Ottawa. He was uninjured. Locating his wrecked plane, Lindberg loaded the mail pouches on his back and proceeded to the postoffice at Ottawa, whence the mail was sent by train to Chicago.

TAGGED CAR IS NO JOKE

To Issue Warrants For Those Who Fail To Answer Notices

There are quite a large number of motorists in this city, according to Chief of Police Henry Dysart, who appear to have come to the point of looking upon the tags placed in their cars for parking violations as jokes.

They have failed to appear in the police station with their tags, even, after letters have been written them. This is making the enforcement of the parking regulations hard and would indicate that many of the motorists would like to make them null and void, at least as far as they are concerned.

On the advice of City Solicitor R. M. White, forms of warrants and informations to cover this violation are now being made up and it is proposed that parking violators, who fail to report and pay their fines, shall realize that it is a serious proposition and not a joke.

This means, the chief states, that violators, who fail to report in the future, will face regular charges and be brought into the police station under arrest. When they get through they will have paid not only the regular dollar fine, but also costs, which will amount to considerable more than the fine and add very materially to the expense of those violating the parking regulations of the city.

Mexican Troops In Battle With Bandits When Captive Is Shot

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—Strong representations to the Mexican government to protect the lives of Americans in that country have been directed by the State Department as a result of the slaying of Jacob Rosenthal, it was learned today.

Secretary Kellogg, however, will await a complete official report before deciding whether to demand indemnity and other redress, it was indicated.

Mexico Regrets Occurrence

Expressions of regret have already been informally given to the American charge d'affaires in Mexico City and assurances were conveyed that every effort had been made by the federal authorities to rescue the kidnaped man.

The brief official reports received by the State Department told of a sharp battle waged with the bandits by the federal troops after a three-day pursuit. Two bandits were killed and vengeance was taken on Rosenthal before the remainder fled.

Belief was expressed here that the American's life might have been saved had the commander of the federal troops negotiated for his re-

WEINGARTNER HEADS BOARD

Named As President Of Shenango Valley Board Of Directors Last Night

At a meeting of the directors of the Shenango Valley Hospital last night, Hon. George T. Weingartner was elected as president for the ensuing year. He will succeed Attorney John P. Lockhart, who has been president during the past five years, and who, as head of this institution has accomplished a fine service to the community, and has proven a most capable president. It is with regret that the directors see him retire from the presidency.

In the forty years that the Shenango Valley hospital has been serving the local community, there have been but few presidents of the board of directors, who have shared the heavy responsibilities of the office. William Patterson was the first president, then came Rufus Patterson, J. P. H. Cunningham, Fred L. Rentz, John P. Lockhart, and now Mr. Weingartner.

Alleged Slayer Of James Cucia Gets Re-Hearing

Favorable Action Is Taken In Case Of Pete Christean By Pardon Board

Board of pardons meeting at Harrisburg yesterday afternoon granted a petition for a re-hearing of Pete Christean, sentenced from Lawrence county for the murder of Policeman James Cucia, Christean was convicted here of first degree murder, and on December 5, 1921, was sentenced to be electrocuted Nov. 22, 1922. Later his sentence was commuted to life imprisonment.

Last October he made application to the board of pardons, for a pardon, but after hearing the case, the application was refused. It was again taken, and as a result the board has decided to hear it. It is likely that his new application will be taken up next month.

Christean is charged with shooting Policeman James Cucia during a holdup on Preston avenue. One of the bandits who was with Christean was shot, but Christean escaped. Later he was arrested at Cincinnati, O., and brought back here for trial. At the trial of the case an attempt was made to establish an alibi, but the jury brought in a verdict of guilty.

"KampusKars" Are Banned At Westminster College With Start Of Term

(Special To The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., Sept 17.—Students of Westminster college in residence will not be permitted to operate motor cars about the campus during the new school year which officially opened with registration Wednesday. Announcement to this effect was made at the first chapel service Thursday by Dr. W. Charles Wallace, president of the institution.

The ruling which was made by action of the faculty at a recent meeting came as no surprise to the majority of the students as it had been rumored for some time that such action was to be taken.

It will be possible, however for students who travel from home to school to operate machines by special request from the dean of men. Special permission may also be granted by the dean for occasions in which the use of cars is a necessity.

The edict marks the passing of the "Kampus Kar" which was popular among the students last year. These cars were usually Fords that had seen many years service and could be purchased for small sums.

The action on the part of the faculty was deemed necessary in order to safeguard the lives of pedestrian students and may also be conducive to more study on the part of would-be car owners.

Similar action has been taken in practically all colleges and universities throughout the country. The rule becomes effective Friday September 24.

Important Checks Under Probe In Daugherty Trial

Trial Is Now Termed "Trail Of Checks" As Case Nears Climax

MERTON DENIES DIRECT CHARGES

International News Service Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, Sept. 17. — The "trail of the checks", the legal melodrama being staged by U. S. Attorney Emory R. Buckner, moved toward a possible climax or anticlimax today at the continuation of the trial of Harry M. Daugherty, former attorney general, and Thomas W. Miller, former alien property custodian, charged with conspiracy in connection with the return of $7,000,000 in German-owned assets of the American Metals Company seized during the war.

Checks Figure

Checks made out to Daugherty by John T. King, late Connecticut politician, are being stressed in the government's case. Another important financial document, according to the prosecution, is a "mystery check" made out to cash by John T. King to the amount of $25,000. There are also a bevy of other checks slipping in and out of the involved testimony.

The government alleges that Daugherty and Miller received part of $441,000 paid to John T. King by Richard Merton, German financier, for aiding in the recovery of the claim. Merton has denied from the witness stand knowledge of government officials receiving any part of this sum.

Company Can Build Small Conduit System

Council today approved specifications for the construction of a small conduit system in Apple way and South street to permit continuance of telephone service in the district during the tearing down of he Coliseum theatre building. Rain Falling Over Much Of Stricken Area

Loss Is Estimated At $20,000,000 Or More—Thousands Reported Homeless

CITIZENS BATTLE TO SAVE LEVEES

Illinois, Indiana And Iowa Are Hardest Hit By Flood Ravages

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, Sept. 17.—The most damaging flood in half a century was sweeping over vast areas of ten mid-western states today. Property loss thus far has been placed at upwards of $20,000,000, although any accurate estimate at this time is impossible. At least 20 persons are known to have lost their lives.

Rain continued falling today over much of the stricken area. Thousands of families have been driven from their homes and are seeking temporary refuge on higher ground. Whole counties of rich farm land are under water in some states, the crops laid waste.

Three-Eye States Hit

The "three eye" states of Illinois, Indiana and Iowa are the hardest hit. Missouri, Michigan, Wisconsin and Ohio are also suffering heavy damage.

Skunk river, flowing through the extreme southeastern corner of Iowa, presents the real drama of the flood. There hundreds of citizens of Lee county are working day and night on the levees in a frantic effort to keep pace with the rising river.

The levee has gone out in one or two places, flooding hundreds of rich farm land and driving farmers and livestock to the hills. Several towns and villages in the Skunk valley are threatened with complete inundation. Similar conditions prevail along the Illinois river, which has reached a flood stage of 24 feet. Beardstown, Ill., is threatened and hundreds of workers are fighting to save the weakened levees.

Highways have been washed out and train service badly impaired over the stricken area. Motor traffic in the flooded sections of Illinois, Iowa and Indiana has been practically abandoned.

Fear of disease as an aftermath of the flood was the chief concern of health authorities today. The natural water supply of thousands has been practically cut off. In some sections there is no water to drink save that of the swollen, muddy streams. Waterworks and power houses in many towns have been put out of commission.

Council Adopts Three Ordinances

Council today adopted three ordinances calling for the construction of three sanitary sewers in Taylor and Beatty streets and also McCleary avenue.

I'm all washed up for tomorrow's game; I'll be there, and I hope so will you be out for the tussle that opens the lists and see what the boys can do. There's room for a lot of football fans, and the stands should be filled to the top to see what Bridie has got in store for the annual football crop. Let's hope that Old Sol is a football fan, and the field is dry for the boys, and let's get out with a lot of pep and stir up a little noise. Take the afternoon off and be out, old top, and see them roll up the score. It's the day for football, the game of games; the weather is seventy-four.

WESTMINSTER IS CROWDED

Enrollment Shows 100 Or So More Than Can Get Into Chapel

SPECIAL PLANS WILL BE MADE

Increase In Number Of Hours Required Is Announced At Opening

(Special To The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., Sept. 17.—Dr. W. Charles Wallace, president of Westminster College, presided at the opening chapel service held at the college Thursday. It was the first time that the incoming freshmen were assembled and President Wallace took the opportunity to make numerous important announcements.

With the opening of the new term Westminster's authorities find themselves with an enrollment of more than 100 than can be seated in the college chapel at one time, and with a chapel service being on the daily program special arrangements must be made. The plan has not been definitely completed, but it is very probable that freshmen and sophomores will attend each day, with juniors and seniors reporting on alternate days.

Increase in Hours

Announcement was also made concerning the increased number of school hours that must be passed to make one eligible to enroll the following semester. All freshmen must pass nine hours, whereas only seven were formerly required. All upper classmen must pass in 10 hours and not more than five hours can be of a "D" grade.

Freshman hats and arm bands were distributed following the chapel service and the newcomers immediately started wearing the insignia, which marks them as freshmen. The dinks are worn by the men and the arm bands by the girl students. The dinks are of a pale green hue with white stripes and peaks of dark blue. They are distinctive, to say the least.

Dr. Wallace also announced the various faculty committees for the year. They are: courses of study: Dr. Charles Freemen, Dr. E. B. Russell, Dr. J. A. Swindler, Prof. J. A. Shott, Dr. C. A. Dawson, Dr. Rachel Hibbard, Dr. G. H. Taylor and Dr. B. E. Quick.

Town Talk

In the current issue of the publication of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce, in which records of many cities with reward to automobile fatalities are shown, New Castle is one of the twenty-eight reporting cities on the roll of honor for the month of July, because of the fact that no motor fatalities occurred in these cities during that month. There was one motor fatality reported from this city during the month, but owing to the fact that it occurred outside the city, this city was accorded the honor of being mentioned among the cities free from such fatalities.

Now that the tomato question is out of the way, temporarily at least, we can turn our attention to some of the exceptionally fine cucumbers which are being raised by local gardners. When the "vegetable editor" arrived at the News office this morning he found a couple of entries thereon from the garden of Mrs. Emil Krueger who lives at 238 Smithfield street.

These overgreen pickles are a pair which Mrs. Krueger raised in her own garden. One is 12 inches long, ten and a quarter inches in circumference and weighs an even two pounds. The other is thirteen inches long, eleven and a half inches in circumference and weighs two pounds and six ounces.

Mrs. Krueger rightfully believes that they are "champion" cucumbers and if anybody can beat them she, and the News, would like to hear about them.

Persons on North Mill, near where the street car terminal is located, just north of Washington street, shortly after four o'clock Thursday afternoon, witnessed one of the narrowest escapes from severe injury that has been seen on the streets here in a long time. A youth of about 16 was riding the front fender of a truck when the truck suddenly slowed up in speed. The boy was hurled off and alighted on his head, was rolled over, and appeared to have been badly hurt. Officer Steiner, who was waiting for the street car, rushed to the side of the lad, as did several others. Steiner was first to him. He picked up the lad, stood him on his feet, and was amazed to see the youth walk to the truck, resume his place on the fender and tell the driver to proceed. Most every spectator to the accident believed that the boy had been badly hurt.

While collection of garbage on the North Hill has been exceptionally well taken care of for a long time, the collectors appear to have lagged behind in their schedules recently. Many of the householders report that collections seem to be considerably delayed. Due to the unusually large amount of garbage to be collected at this season of the year, the garbage department has been facing a huge task recently, the department heads relate.

Oysters are here for the season, according to signs noted here and there about the city.

This is an unusual year, not only for rainfall, but for grasshoppers, according to local gardeners. William Gustafson, who resides on the Pulaski road and raises considerable garden stuff, says that he has never seen so many grasshoppers in any season. They are attacking tomatoes and other vegetables in a way that is serious, he reports.

According to Frank M. Hay, well known mail carrier, who resides in the Gardner district, he has seen some fireworks, but none like that he witnessed Wednesday night during the heavy electrical storm which swept over this district This display, which he states he does not care to witness again very soon, occurred when lightning struck a high tension wire in the vicinity of his home and a ball of fire ran from the place it struck to the next supporting pole.

The Main Reason Why

It is generally agreed that his desire to increase the family fortune, the natural desire of any ambitious husband, caused Jack Dempsey to re-enter the ring to meet Gene Tunney. And the main reason why he is determined to win is to retain the prestige his title has won him and prove Mrs. Dempsey's faith in his ability to manage his own affairs justified. Mrs. Dempsey, known in the film world as Estelle Taylor, is watching the family affairs in Los Angeles while Dempsey tunes up for the battle.

New Castle Fair Cattle Entries Are Larger Than Ever

A criterion of the extent of the exhibits which will be on display at the New Castle Fair this year is found in the fact the Fair officials found it necessary this week to close the cattle entries due to the fact that all possible accommodations for this branch have been spoken for.

An insight into the class of the animals which have been entered is given in a perusal of the list of entries which shows such herds as that of R. J. Cunningham of Greensburg, nationally known Hereford breeder and the herd of Holsteins which have brought fame to the Firestone Farms at Lisbon, O.

Entries in all classes are heavier and greater than ever before in the history of the Fair it was stated at the temporary headquarters in the Farm Bureau this morning and it may be found necessary to close other classes within a few days due to the rapid rate at which entries are being received and accepted.

The lighter side of the Fair is not being neglected either and special attention is being given to the arrangements for the Night Fair. Five big time sensational acts especially adapted for outdoor performances have been booked for the Fair and they will be staged gratis every evening. Ample lighting arrangements have been made and the people who attend the night Fair will find the grounds as easy to travel as in daylight.

lease instead of precipitately charging the bandits.

Veiled Statements

It is believed here that the Mexican government will take immediate steps to expiate the crime. Veiled statements have been made in Mexico City charging the kidnaping of Rosenthal to enemies of the Calles government who are seeking to foment trouble with the United States.

Opponents of the Mexican policy of the administration are expected to cite the brutal slaying of Rosenthal in renewing demands for interference in Mexican affairs.

To Apprehend Slayers

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 17.—Urgent representations were made to the Mexican government today by the American charge, Schoenfeld, insisting that the Mexican government take all steps to apprehend and punish the slayers of Jacob Rosenthal of Woodmere, N. Y.

Troops and police are reported to be pursuing the bandits who held Rosenthal for ransom and then killed him rather than have him captured by the troops, who had resorted to a ruse to lure the bandits and their captive into a trap.

Rosenthal's body was brought to Mexico City today and will be prepared for shipment to the United States for burial.

In some quarters there is a disposition to believe that if the authorities had permitted Lucien Ruff, son-in-law of Rosenthal, to approach the bandits with the ransom demanded that the New York man's life might have been saved.

PROPOSAL FOR POOR FARM USE GIVEN COUNCIL

ested," said Councilman Genkinger "that when we raise the millage we will want them to 'go along.'

Among the gentlemen who met with councilmen were William Nunn and William Offutt.

The latter showed on a blueprint what a fine golf course could be laid out.

He also said a stream might produce water in such a quantity for a swimming pool.

Mr. Nunn said that he believed the farm should be converted into a place where every member of the family could find amusement.

He did not believe that the farm, neither did any of the gentlemen from the clubs believe it should be used for any particular recreation.

After the gentlemen departed the resolution was presented.

Previously the farm had been considered by Director of the poor William Williams, now confined to his residence, as an ideal spot for an orphans' home.

Today E. S. Stevenson, acting director of the poor, said: "The town is over-run by orphans."

Councilman Davies was asked if he had "abandoned ideas of the department of poor for an orphans' home at the poor farm."

"When the county takes over the local poor district we will have nothing to do with them. The county must assume the control," he said.

Later Solicitor White said that the committee, when formed, would make a comprehensive study of all recreational facilities not only at the municipal farm but throughout the city.

He believes that if the plan for the farm was accepted, it might prove self-sustaining. Other cities have municipal links and he said he is figuring for the future in sponsoring the plan.

SMARTEST

IT SEEMS that every generation has to learn all the old lessons for itself. Well, it certainly is more convincing that way than another. The Junior College of Detroit has just made some tests, and learned what is would seem almost everybody ought to have known already—that girls are smarter than boys.

Those students will learn many things between Now and Then, but if the boys of the Detroit Junior College have firmly annexed the idea that girls are smarter than boys, they are already equipped with a strong weapon. No man who ever amounted to anything did it without some woman's help, and not many of those same men ever gave the woman credit for it, either.

There is one good old hearty pastime in which boys and girls engage, and in former days it was known as courting. An occasional sheik might arise—they were poetically called Young Lochinvars in those times—who could turn the hearts of all the maidfolk. But whichever girl really and truly set her heart upon him, brought him to his knees, sure as fiddlin'. And as for the majority of the young fellows who shined up in store shirts on Sundays and wore tight shoes to the dances, they were just putty on the hands of every girl they met.

The weaker sex? Huh, the brainier sex!!!! Ask the boys of the Detroit Junior College! Ask the boys of any high school, for that matter.

HALF-FORGOTTEN MR. COX

MR. JAMES MIDDLETON COX, who gets his mail at Dayton, O., has been touring in Europe during the summer. He learned that Americans are not so popular there as they were in 1917 and 1918, when both American manpower and American money were highly regarded. He goes so far, in fact, as to say that the Americans are now the most-hated people of the world.

This, he has discovered, is because of what he calls the Republican debt policy, which so many Democrats denounce as being far too soft and much too generous. If the votes of congress mean anything, this has been a policy supported by all parties and without partisanship. It will be news to many Democrats as well as Republican congressmen when they hear it belongs to the Republicans. However, Mr. Cox of Dayton, who has spent the summer in Great Britain and France, where cancelationists are thick as leaves in a forest, has discovered that it is a Republican policy.

And he is much wrought up about it. Just who is Mr. Cox? Well, he may be remembered by those who have long memories as the presidential candidate who thought America should enter the League of Nations and who led his party into one of the most abysmal of the many defeats in its history back in 1920.—Public Ledger.

THE SUCKER CROP

BARNUM said it, and the swelling list of victims of stock swindlers proves it. The executive committee of the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World estimates that profits taken by fake stock venders during the past year aggregated $600,000,000. There may be uncertainty as to whether the large number of suckers, thus evidenced is due to the prevalence of fraud or whether the prevalence of fraud is due to the inviting number of suckers, but there is certainty that the supply of fraud and the demand for it are too great.

When the sucker goes after easy money, the fraudulent go after him and get it. It is the desire to reap large profits on small investment that makes the average easy mark so gullible when the glib salesman of fake stock is hawking his wares. As long as such desire and gullibility combine to make the game of the fraudulent easy, the promoters of fake stock schemes will continue to take their toll. The case is one in which the victim helps in his own undoing, and the protection that can be given him depends, at least partially, on his willingness to heed the warning against biting tempting bait.

Every man is convinced that he has enough moral stamina to stand prosperity.

Women who are seeking equality with men are more likely to have the downward than the upward look.

A man will not have many friends if he values them only for what they are willing to do for him.

No man is a hero to his valet, it is said, but then a man who has to have a valet may not be heroic.

MEN AND GRASS

Some blades of grass are tall,
Some rich with green,
Some seem so very small,
Some harsh and mean.

Stand close and you may see
The patches of despair;
The difference in degree
Of wealth that's there.

Stand off at dusk or dawn
And every single blade
Blends to a velvet lawn
That life has made.

The cutter comes and mows
The rich blade and the tall,
No favorite he knows,
He levels one and all.

So with the world of men,
Stand close and shame we see,
Plainly we notice then
The difference in degree.

But from the distance viewed,
Even as lawns grow fair,
The great, the low, the rude
A lovely grace may wear.

And death, the cutter, mows
Alike the great and small.
No favorite he knows,
He levels one and all.

Hints and Dints

Sun sets tonight 6:05 Sun rises tomorrow 5:44.

At least one thing can be said in favor of the "lightning bug," or firefly. He is the one source of illumination that doesn't pester you with monthly bills.

A McKees Rocks man established his innocence of a crime by his finger prints. Finger prints are not for convicting people exclusively. They work both ways.

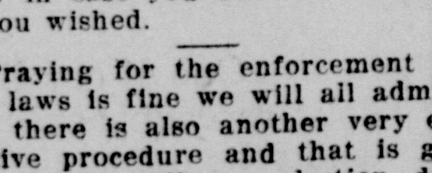
We can remember the days when if the kids saw a horse and a mule hitched together in a team, they would yell: "Oh, look at the horse and mule and the jackass driving."

The Democrats in congress want to reduce taxes $560,000,000 at the next session. Those babies piled up all our debt like a lot of drunken sailors and now try to make political capital out of reducing taxes and letting the national debt get larger. The Dems never could handle money because they are not used to handling it.

Did you ever notice how much more you enjoy eating some particular thing when there is a scarcity of it?

It is said the hotel keepers in Florida are getting ready to skin the tourists from the north this winter. The thing to do with Florida is to stay away from it for a few years and they will come back to earth there—or sandraher.

Dempsey cannot be blaimed for hunting a fight. He just has to fight now whether he wants to or not.



Lawn mowing is fine exercise only in case you can hire it done if you wished.

Praying for the enforcement of the laws is fine we will all admit, but there is also another very effective procedure and that is going to the polls on election day and voting for good men to hold office. The praying is about wasted if good men are not selected. Only one-fourth of the voters of New Castle are registered to vote this fall now with one more day to go to register on.

The man who watches the clock will never be any more than one of the hands.

About twenty-four millions more barrels of gasoline have been used in this country than were used last year. We are strong on all kinds of gas in this country.

When a woman tells you she had rather do her own housework than be bothered with a maid, don't call her a pervaricator. That wouldn't be polite. Just forget it.

There are thirteen million five hundred thousand radio sets in the world and the United States has five million five hundred thousand of them. There are also nine hundred broadcasting stations in the world and we have 580 of them. We are some pumpkins when it comes to radio, bo.

Of course women are superior. The man never lived who could get his picture in the paper merely by taking his clothes off.

Gov. Smith of New York is to be a candidate for governor of that state for his fifth time. He had better confine himself to running for governor of his home state because he will never be president, because he is a Democrat, wet, and other things that the majority of voters will not stand for in a candidate for president of these great United States.

Gen. Ludendorff, he of German army fame during the late war was sued for divorce from his wife not long ago and now that he is free marries the very lady his wife complained about in her demand for a divorce. The old bird was fooling around sure according to what has happened.

Husbands used to improve with age, but, judging from the divorce court records, most of 'em nowadays seem to deteriorate as fast as a July cantaloupe.

Now an alleged sharp tells us that man did not descend from the ape, but that the ape descended from man. This question will really never be settled to the satisfaction of many until man becomes less like the ape.

The stuff the government demands being put into alcohol to make it a non-beverage, was responsible for six deaths in Newark, N. J. When the scandalous stuff that is put into alcohol gets in its work the alcohol is not even fit to be rubbed on the outside of the human hide, let alone being licked up as a libation.

It ought not be hard to get up a taxi cab company in New Castle now, as no company with colored cars is operating here now. In most cities it is hard to start a new taxi cab company because other companies have taken all the colors and even combination of colors.

Ladies who have been refused the privilege of parading the streets of seaside cities think another blow has been struck at personal liberty.

Dear Hints: This poem "Old Gates," is fitted to your column:

Oh, I think they muse and mourn,
And tremble at my touch—.
The old gates are solemn things.
For they remember much:

The little hands that opened them—
And little feet at play—
The sad hearts that went through them.
Forever, far away:

The hot tears that fell on them,
The handclasp through the bars,
The love words and promises
Beneath the wistful stars.

Silent loves of other days—
Oh, speak to them as such,
For old gates are mournful things
And they remember much.

A CONSTANT READER.

All those who don't believe in advertising should remember Los Angeles. That city was made by the blowing of its own bugle. Modesty forbids too much of that stuff, but modesty never made a big city out of a small one. We New Castle people shouldn't let our modesty get the better of us.

A dog is valuable as a watch dog.
A cat is valuable to keep the place free from rats and mice.
A hen is valuable for the eggs she lays.
But if there is any special use for a bowl of goldfish around the house, you name it.

The asphalt of pavements travels back and forth, highway engineers discover. If you put a tack in the asphalt surface and watch it, you'll find it moves as much as six or eight feet in a year. The theory is that motor traffic shoves the asphalt forward, just as a rug tends to move under a child's feet when he slides over it.

How's this for a fairy tale? When a modest man is in a room with some pretty young women they see so much legs he gets a stiff neck studying the pattern of the paper on the ceiling.

Tomorrow never comes insist the calendar makers, but you can't get the man who has a note due tomorrow to believe that.

Those congressmen who thought the prohibition question was giving them all the trouble in the world didn't know what a bad actor a farm relief measure could be.

It is estimated that the big wind in Florida did damage to the extent of $6,000,000. Probably blew over that many real estate signs.

The business of selling gold bricks isn't entirely dead yet. Recently Pittsburgh artists made two killings that were worth while. We've never bought a gold brick but we have some gilt edge papers that are only gilt around the outer edge. They're for sale cheap.

The Lord forgive us for ever advocating a Democratic measure, but we think Senator Caraway is right in his expressed opinion about France and the war debt. And here's a tip to the ambitious politicians for the next election if they went to side track the prohibition issue. Make the payment of the European war debts the issue. There's an opportunity the G. O. P. shouldn't pass up. It dovetails right in with the present prosperity arguments.

Judge Gary, head of the big steel company, will be 80 years old next month, and Wall Street asks, "Will he retire?"

A great business needs a thinking mind, not a hurdle jumper. Why should he retire?

Gladstone ran the British parliament when he was past 80, Von Moltke ran the German army when past 80. Pope Leo ran the worldwide Catholic church at 90.

Why should Judge Gary retire in the prime of life? Many of his friends can testify to his perfect health and great energy.

His organization holds its competitors in the hollow of its hand, and has $400,000,000 cash in bank.

If that be the result of old age, many corporations would like some of that old age.

What man wants to do, he can do. A little while ago the noble bison was dying out, everybody had said, farewell to him. Now the government, with herds of bison on its hands, offers you a vigorous live bison for $85, that you couldn't have bought for $5,000 a little while ago.

Rudyard Kipling does not like us, and tells us about it in poetry, beginning:

"At the eleventh hour he came."

Kipling goes on to describe this nation as "deaf to mirth and blind to scorn."

However, Kipling is old, past his selling period, and his British ego "complex" would make it the duty of Uncle Sam to finance England in her troubles.

England has arranged to pay part of her debt. If she wants to cry about it in verse, nobody here will object.

However, would Mr. Kipling answer these questions in another poem?

If the United States had been engaged in a war in 1914, "with its back to the wall," as Kitchener put it, how many billions of dollars would England have sent us, and how many millions of men? One man, one dollar?

No. What did Great Britain do in our Civil War, and in 1776 and 1812. What great claim on American gratitude and generosity, has Great Britain established, beyond the fact that on two occasions she took a beating quickly and gracefully?

Philosophers from many countries gathered in Cambridge, Massachusetts, tell the world("Materialistic theories cannot explain the marvels of the living world."

Materialism cannot explain anything for the reason, among others that there is no such thing as matter. Reduce solid steel or floating feather to the so-called ultimate atom. Examine the atom and you find a small solar system like our own, the nucleus for sun, little electrons flying around it, for planets. Matter is only particles of electric energy. And no one knows what that is.

A scientist said, "I have swept the heavens with my telescope, and find no trace of God." A dissector of the human body said, "I have gone all through the human brain, and find no trace of thought, soul or mind."

Nevertheless, thought, soul and mind do exist in that little universe we call the brain. A greater mind exists somewhere in that greater brain, the universe.

In Day's News

Bishop Thomas F. Gailor of Tennessee, who celebrates his 70th birthday anniversary today, is one of the most widely known prelates of the Episcopal denomination and several years ago served as presiding head of the church. He is a native of Jackson, Miss., and began his career as professor of ecclesiastical history in the University of the South. In 1890 he became vice chancellor of the university, a position he continued to fill until his election as coadjutor bishop of Tennessee in 1893. In 1898 he became bishop. Bishop Gailor is the author of a long list of books on ecclesiastical subjects. In 1920, when the general convention of the church decided to create a new executive council of 24 members Bishop Gailor was chosen to head the body and he continued as its presiding officer for three years.

Dr. Crane's Editorial

DO GENTLEMEN REALLY PREFER BLONDES?

Anita Loos' book has brought the preference of gentlemen for blondes into discussion all over the country.

Someone turned the matter around when he described a large butter-and-egg man going into a New York hotel and saying to the manicure girl, "Hello, Cutie, you look pretty good to me. May I take you out to lunch?" "Well," she said, "you see, blondes prefer gentlemen."

A writer in The London Daily Mail seriously challenges the statement about gentlemen and blondes. He says that as a matter of fact brunettes have the advantage.

An English doctor some time ago collected statistics to the effect that from among nearly one thousand women 78 per cent of the dark-haired ones were married and only 68 per cent of the fair were wives.

The old English word "fair" meant beautiful, and it is interesting to observe that of a number of celebrated "fair" women many were actually dark.

Byron liked dark women, and so did Thomas Moore.

Although the Greeks and Romans admired fair-haired women, most of the notable belles of modern times have been brunettes.

The writer in The Mail declares that Lady Venetia Stanley, who married Sir Kenelm Digby, had brown hair and eyebrows, that the Gunnings of the eighteenth century were dark blondes and that Lady Hamilton was a brunette; also that Mrs. Overall, known as the greatest beauty of England in her time, was dark.

Baudelaire so admired dark women that he fell in love with a mulatto.

All of Thackeray's heroines were brunettes.

Brunettes have greater vitality than blondes. And the number of fair people in Europe is stated to be rapidly diminishing.

Altogether, history does not seem to bear out the statement that "gentlemen prefer blondes".

POEMS I LOVE

BY CHARLES HANSON TOWNE

"The Garden of Prosperine," by A. C. Swinburne.

The late Alice Meynell referred to Swinburne as "that tinkling rhymster." She failed, somehow, to see the magic and beautiful imagery behind the faultless lines of the great lyrical poet. I think myself that too much of Swinburne at a time reacts on one as a drug. Sometimes all one can think of while reading him is the heavy perfume of funeral roses; but if his poems are only tunes, I am grateful even for that. This is a great favorite of mine.

Here, where the world is quiet;
Here, where all trouble seems
Dead winds' and spent waves' riot
In doubtful dreams of dreams;
I watch the green field growing
For reaping folk and sowing,
For harvest-time and mowing,
A sleepy world of streams.

I am tired of tears and laughter,
And men that laugh and weep;
Of what may come hereafter
For men that sow to reap;
I am weary of days and hours,
Blown buds of barren flowers,
Desires and dreams and powers
And everything but sleep.

Pale, beyond porch and portal,
Crowned with calm leaves, she stands
Who gathers all things mortal
With cold immortal hands;
Her languid lips are sweeter
Than love's who fears to greet her
From many times and lands .

She waits for each and other,
She waits for all men born;
Forgets the earth her mother,
The life of fruits and corn;
And spring and seed and swallow
Take wing for her and follow
Where summer song rings hollow
And flowers are put to scorn.

From too much love of living,
From hope and fear set free,
We thank with brief thanksgiving
Whatever gods may be
That no life lives forever;
That dead men rise up never;
That even the weariest river
Winds somewhere safe to sea.

Then star nor sun shall waken,
Nor any change of light:
Nor sounds of waters shaken,
Nor any sound or sight:
Nor wintry leaves nor vernal,
Nor days nor things diurnal;
Only the sleep eternal
In an eternal night.

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

MORE CONCERNING LUMBER

There appeared in this column, on September 4th, certain observations made by the writer, concerning the nation's timber supply. About simultaneously with that publication, there appeared in the "Nation's Business", for September, a story by Henry Schott, the Director of the West Coast Lumber Trade Extension Bureau, concerning this matter.

I am not an expert in the lumber business by any means. I only recorded what I had seen in passing through the great timber belts of this nation. Henry Schott, on the contrary, has made a study of the situation at close hand, and he bears me out in every particular. Read what he says:

"The propagandists are honest in their statements—enthusiasts who so often put the dramatic above the fact. As an example—and this is from Gifford Pinchot when he was government forester—I quote an Associated Press dispatch, dated Washington, D. C., November 4, 1907, nineteen years ago. In this Mr. Pinchot says:"

"'In twenty years the timber supply in the United States, on government reserves and private holdings, at the present rate of cutting, will be exhausted, although it is possible that the growth of that period might extend the arrival of the famine another five years.'"

"Nineteen years have passed, but where is Mr. Pinchot's famine?"

"To-day there is a greater stand of merchantable timber in the territory west of the Rocky Mountains than there ever was in all of the great original forests of New England, of New York, Pennsylvania and New Jersey, and of the lake states, Michigan, Wisconsin and Minnesota."

"The authority for this statement is the report of the United States Forest Service, entitled "Timber Depletion and Lumber Prices", known as the "Capper Report". The report says that it finds a total of 1,100 billion board feet as the original stand of the three sections. This is less than the estimated present stand of the Pacific Coast States, which the United States Department of Agriculture estimates 1,141 billion board feet. For the sake of comparability, all these figures are estimates of sawtimber stands; the same general comparisons would, of course, hold true for total stands, including fuel wood and the like."

"No one can question the great good done by the conservationist movement. To-day, it is safe to say, every lumberman on this coast is an advocate of conservation—practical conservation. His ideas on that subject may best be described in these words."

"'Wise forest protection does not mean the withdrawal of forest resources,, whether of wood, water, or grass, from contributing their full share to the welfare of the people, but, on the contrary, gives the assurance of larger and more certain supplies. The fundamental idea of forestry is the perpetuation of forests by use.'

"'Forest protection is not an end in itself, it is a means to increase and sustain the resources of our country and the industries which depend upon them.'"

"That statement was made by a great conservationist—and a practical conservationist — Theodore Roosevelt. The lumberman of the West Coast subscribes to every word of it."

"Many a misguided and well-intentioned idealist firmly believes that not a tree in the forest should be cut."

"No one has ever explained to them that growing timber is a crop, just as wheat or alfalfa or corn. A tree grows, reaches its prime—that is, becomes ripe—and then comes decline and decay. It would be quite as sensible to permit those overripe trees to remain uncut and rot away as it would be to let a field of ripe wheat or corn go back into the soil."

Mr. Schott recounts a story of a dinner where the speaker presented a picture of clouds of smoke hanging over the mountain side where the great natural resources were feeding the insatiate firey Moloch. No one disputed the speaker, although it was a Lumbermen's Dinner. The speaker, in telling about the smoke covered mountain sides and burning trees, was almost overcome, but the lumbermen guests remained quiet. They believed that the Speaker was not moved by malice, but they knew that he had wrong information, always speaking from a lack of correct information, for it is a fact that over a period of ten years, the fire losses in merchantable timber, in the State of Washington—where the dinner was held—have averaged 1-60—not 1-6, but 1-60—of 1 per cent of the standing forests.

It is always hard to learn the truth and there are some people who will not believe the truth when it is told.

Overflow Convention Of Blackbirds Held Along Milton Street

The blackbirds convention which is in session in the Maple trees on Park avenue had an overflow meeting in one of the trees on Milton street yesterday.

The hundreds that were gathered on the East Side street might have been a committee appointed by the president of the convention to discuss ways and means of taking the best route to the southland before the frost comes, or perhaps they were deciding on the next place of conducting the annual meeting.

From the loud discussion that they were having it was thought that the older and wiser heads wanted the next convention in the East Side where the cats are trained not to molest their little ones.

Any way after a great deal of loud chattering that wakened some of the late sleepers on the street they finally flew away to the convention headquarters to give their report.

Some of the lay delegates have lived in the Milton street vicinity all summer and have caused some of the folks who don't like this particular feathered tribe much annoyance by their early morning concerts.

DRY AGENTS TO MEET MONDAY

Administrators Are Summoned To Washington For Conference

Andrews Seeks To Learn Prohibition Situation throughout Nation

By ROBERT THORNBURGH
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—A real picture of prohibition conditions throughout the United States will come out of the national conference of dry administrators, to open in Washington Monday, treasury officials asserted today.

Balked in his advocacy of a scientific dry survey, Gen. L. C. Andrews, prohibition chief, expects to obtain the facts from his administrators, who are striving to enforce the law in all states.

Conference Plans Completed

Arrangements for the conference were completed today, a number of administrators already having arrived. They will report individually to Andrews on conditions in their districts.

Out of the conference Andrews expects to obtain information that may lead to a radical change in enforcement methods, although no personnel shake-up is anticipated.

"I want to sit down with the administrators and find out exactly what is going on in the various districts", Andrews said. "The conference should result in more scientific plans for meeting the difficulties."

Anticipate Appointments

A number of important prohibition appointments are anticipated within a short time, with all the political primaries out of the way and the possibility of naming executives without political complications lessened. Vacancies at Buffalo and the dismissal of Ned M. Green, chief at San Francisco, will be filled soon.

Following the administrators' conference Andrews is expected to head an American delegation which will seek negotiation of a new anti-smuggling agreement with the Canadian authorities, similar to that completed in London.

Negotiate With Mexico

While no official announcement has been made, it was understood that this government hopes to open negotiations with Mexico, Cuba and possibly several European and South American countries to clear up misunderstandings which are resulting in liquor smuggling.

With some check on registration of foreign liquor vessels under British, Canadian, Mexican and Cuban flags, as the result of treaties, officials said that the smugglers are turning to the protection of other countries in the effort to keep rum ships moving in the American trade.

Many rum runners are said to be seeking sailing papers from Central and South American countries, as well as France and Germany.

James D. Hays To Address Dinner Meeting At Fountain Inn Monday Evening

James D. Hays, manager of the Harrisburg Credit Exchange, has been secured to deliver an address on "Credit and its Relation to the Community", at a dinner sponsored by the local better business bureau at the Fountain Inn Monday, September 20, at 6:30 o'clock.

Hays is Pennsylvania state chairman of the National Retail Credit Men's Association and has had years of experience in this line. He is a very forceful speaker who handles his subject in a very interesting manner, and the message he brings is one that cannot fail to be of great benefit to all of the business interests of this city. Under his management, the Harrisburg Credit Exchange has become one of the most widely and favorably known ones in the United States, and in addition to building up very stable credit conditions in the Harrisburg territory and in saving its members many thousands of dollars annually. Under Mr. Hays' management, it has grown from practically nothing until it now has between 130,000 and 150,000 credit listings.

All of those intending to attend this meeting are kindly requested to communicate with the office of the Chamber of Commerce not later than noon Saturday, September 18.

A presentment is when you realize after something has happened that you thought maybe it would.

Boy Accidentally Drinks Some Acid

Long Avenue Boy Will Recover From Effects Of Swallowing Acid

Little George Speers, aged 3 years, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lee S. Speers of the Marlin apartments, East Long avenue, until recently residents of Carson street, is now recovering from the effects of swallowing a small quantity of carbolic acid.

While his mouth was severely burned by the acid, it is now thought that but a very small quantity of the acid reached his throat and stomach, as he is able to drink water and eat a little food.

The incident occurred on Wednesday, when the Speers family moved from their former location on Carson street to an apartment in the Marlin building on Long avenue.

The little boy found the bottle of carbolic acid after his arrival at the new apartment. It had been left there by a previous tenant in the apartment. The acid burned him and for that reason the little fellow stopped drinking the stuff and attracted the members of the family to him in a short time. This is believed to have saved him from more serious injury and possible death.

His speedy recovery is now expected.

The principal address of the evening was given by John D. Millar of Altoona, Pa., who spoke at some length on the value of cooperative advertising and cooperation in all lines.

Other speakers of the evening were Messrs. Harris and Kale of Youngstown, O., and Sergeant, sales manager of Cruickshank Brothers of Pittsburgh.

Another interesting feature of the evening was the music furnished by a group of musicians. This is but the forerunner of other meetings and social sessions planned by the Retail Grocers Association.

Man Is Detained For Shooting Of Pair In Scranton

International News Service)

SCRANTON, Pa., Sept. 17.—Edward Vecchi, 23, of Scranton today was held by police following the fatal shooting of Lawrence Mangiola of West Scranton, and the wounding of Quedo Vecchi, brother of Edward.

Mangialo was shot, police said, after he had wounded Quedo Vecchi as the latter lay asleep in a hammock at his home here. Mangiola was believed to have been crazed by brooding over the death of his 11-year-old son Lawrence, who was killed when struck by Vecchi's automobile several weeks ago.

Police arrested Edward after, they said, he admitted firing at Mangiola to avenge Quedo's wounding.

Quedo, in a serious condition in a local hospital, is said to have denied that his brother fired the shots at Mangiola.

HIGH JUMPER MEETS DEATH

Leaps From Delaware River Bridge And Fails To Survive.

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 17.—A man supposed to be Vincent Vitale about 21, was killed when he tried to make a successful jump from the Delaware river bridge to the river nearly 135 feet below Thursday according to police and bridge officials.

Searching his coat the man left behind when he jumped from the big span connecting Philadelphia, and Camden, N. J., police found a card on which was printed: "Delaware river bridge jump performed by Vincent Vitale known as 'high jumper' 230 South Eighth street, Philadelphia. Other jumps, Galveston, Texas, grain elevator and Berkley bridge, Norfolk, Va."

At the address named, it was stated that a man by that name came there a month ago and rented a room.

The body has not been recovered.

226th Year Opens At Yale This Fall

New Dean Is In Charge At Famous University For Current Year

(International News Service)

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Sept. 17.—Yale University is starting her 226th year this autumn, her two hundred and twelfth year in New Haven after being dragged bodily from the shore town of Saybrook where her possessions were spattered with blue paint by the indignant residents of that town who hated to see Yale go—whereby the Yale blue came into existence.

Ancient Yale College is to have a new guide this year in the person of Clarence W. Mendell, professor of Latin Language and Literature, who has been named dean to succeed Frederick S. Jones, who had been dean of the college since 1910. Dean Jones is now on a year's leave of absence with retirement at the end. Professor Mendell will work as acting dean until then and become full-fledged dean a year hence.

Professor Mendell graduated here in 1904 and two years later went for study in Rome, Athens, and Germany, returning to Yale, as an instructor in 1907. He received a degree of Ph. D. in 1910, and the next year became an assistant professor at Yale.

During the war Professor Mendell was a member of the Intelligence department, U. S. A. secret service having previously served as head of the Yale Bureau of the American University Union in Paris. When the war ended Professor Mendell with Professor Charles Seymour, also of Yale, were attached to the Boundary Commission of the Versailles conference. Their particular duty was to define the boundaries of Austria and Hungary.

Long Dresses For Girls, Overalls For Boys Start Rumpus

(International News Service)

ARCADIA, Kan., Sept. 17.—No more will dimpled knees peep from beneath the skirts of young teachers and younger feminine pupils and lip stick and rouge will be strictly taboo as well in educational circles here as a result of the rule which was put into effect here this year by the board of education. "Skirts six inches below the knees" it reads.

Boys must wear overalls, unionalls, or knee pants suspended from the shoulders the regulations continue.

The result of the announcement of the rules has been that teachers pupils and parents are up in arms alike. Even possession of cosmetics is prohibited and infraction of the order is punishable by dismissal for teachers or by expulsion for pupils.

"The rules are an insult against the morals of our children and against the morals and decency of our teachers" is the opinion which has been announced by a number of mothers of girls in the public schools.

"These regulations are no joke and they will be enforced to the letter" is the dictum.

Kansas Parties In New Precedents

(International News Service)

TOPEKA, Kan., Sept. 17.—The Republican and Democratic parties in Kansas are on record as establishing precedents.

For the first time the Democrats have thrown by the wayside their former pronounced aversion to high protective tariffs and have enthusiastisally endorsed the McNary-Haugen bill, under the leadership of former Governor Jonathan M. Davis, their nominee. The Republicans through Kansas have been honored for the first time in recent years in the selection of W. M. Jardine of Manhattan as a cabinet member—secretary of agriculture—have made no mention of the cabinet officer, his policies or extended him an invitation to participate in the bi-annual pow-wows of his party.

The Democratic and Republican state conventions just recently were held concurrently here at the capital.

Political observers claim there is much significance in the action of both parties. Some foresee dropping of the present doctrine by the Democrats all over the nation and a clamor for tariff protection.

Jardine's opposition to the McNary-Haugen bill was ascribed by many Republicans, privately, as the reason for obscuring the name of the former agricultural college president.

Daylight Saving Time Urged For California

(International News Service)

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept 17.—Advocates of daylight saving time for California have launched an aggressive campaign to secure the earliest possible legislation to make the plan effective.

At present, it is pointed out, practically every California city which operates in a business way with eastern cities is under a serious handicap. Daylight saving will place the state on a parity with all large eastern communities now operating under its schedule.

The San Francisco Chamber of Commerce is particularly active in the campaign and has marshalled numerous facts to be placed before the voters of the state.

Daylight saving, Chamber of Commerce representatives claim, is practically in California because of the size of the state which exceeds the entire area of New England, and is conducive to efficiency and health as well as economy.

Lawrence County Sportsmen Asked To Attend Meeting

Ten Assistant Game Wardens To Be Appointed September 27

OTHER NEWS NOTES OF MERCER COUNTY

(Special To The News)

MERCER, Pa., Sept. 17. — The Lawrence County Sportsmen's Association have been invited by the six co-operative wild life clubs in Mercer County to meet with them here on the evening of September 27, when appointment will be made of 10 assistant game wardens in Mercer County.

The Lawrence County sportsmen are desired to attend because of the releasing this summer of 250 Hungarian quail in the Neshannock Creek valley.

These birds are protected by a closed season over the state. That they may be properly conserved until the sport is worth while the Lawrence men due to the close proximity of that county from the location in Mercer County where these quail were released will be asked to make selection of deputy game wardens from their organization that will co-operate in this game conservation. As the next year will see a number of the quail released in Lawrence County the organization built up this time may be kept operative for some time.

The meeting is called by C. S. Hinkley of Mercer who is chairman of the Mercer County organizations.

On the date of September 27, will be celebrated at North East the preaching of the first sermon in the Erie Presbytery of the Presbyterian church 125 years ago in a log church near this town. Dr. Lewis Seymour Smudge of Philadelphia stated clerk of church assembly will preach the sermon at this time.

There will be ministers and laymen present at this historic event from all parts of the Presbytery.

The first Monday of October a date of October 4th has been named as a return day on the pleadings now before the court in the intervening petition filed by Mercer citizens to the granting of the prayer of a petition filed asking judicial sanction of the so-called Troy plan for the erection of a High School building here.

The matter is certain to be wound up in a fusilade of legal fireworks. It is possible that if the facts at issue can be agreed upon by the attorneys represented that no testimony will be taken at all. The chief issue is the legality of the action which is held sound by the holding company and school board and contrary to legal precedent by the intervening citizens who constitute the parties to the action.

The holding company under a plan first tried out at Troy, Pa., will erect a school building from sale of bonds that the school board pay back in rentals over a 35 years period. There are court precedents to the legality of the action, it is said.

Bob Barton of Mercer High school is the selection of the school athletic association for manager of the basketball team. Donald Miller was elected assistant manager. The arranging for a schedule will take place at once with Coach Stanley Patterson proposing the carding of his important games at a time in the year when his squad will be ready for them.

Training will start in November, the season in December.

What is stated was one of the largest crowds in the history of the fair association placed at 25,000 passed through the gates of the Mercer Fair Association here Wednesday to view the largest entry of exhibits and see the largest field of horses race in the 44 years of the association history.

There is perhaps not a fair association in the country that has had the misfortune in wet weather at fair time as this.

A bumper corn crop in Mercer County if the frosts are held off for another two weeks is the prediction of agriculturists. County farmers have just enjoyed the harvesting of a bumper oats crop.

The late potato crop will be a big one is also predicted.

The drawing of juries for the October term of criminal court which opens on the date of October 18th took place at the court house on Wednesday.

The jury was drawn by commissioners Jerry Welk of Greenville and James Stillings of Sharon. A list of 24 grand jurors were selected and 80 petit jurors. There are 82 cases listed now on the transcript docket for the term out of which may be deducted a number of pleas.

The term is the largest of the year in criminal court sessions due to the long period of time between this and the June term.

Phillip Alexander, 19, a resident of the Mercer community was injured when in a fog that followed the rain of Wednesday evening he drove into a Bessemer train at the Franklin road crossing.

He was taken to the Mercer hospital. He suffered a compound fracture of the right leg and was cut on the arm. It is said at the hospital that he will recover.

No arrests are reported this morning at the county jail.. With the prisoners in the county jail all removed to that of Venango County during the period of time that the jail is under repairs a continuance of this condition will relieve the stringency under which Sheriff W. A. Bone and his deputies are working. Prisoners held in the Franklin jail for trial at October sessions here will be brought down and housed in temporary quarters during their trial period is announced today.

Valentino's Screen Successor Causes Much Speculation

International News Service Staff Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 17.—Hollywood was speculating today on what John W. Considine, Jr., president of the company producing Rudolph Valentino's pictures, will do with the motion picture story of the life of Benvenuto Cellini written for Valentino's next production. Cellini was a swashbuckling goldsmith and sculptor, a Sixteenth Century Florentine, who prided himself as much upon his delicious amours as he did upon his artistic triumphs. Considine, it was estimated, spent $100,000 in preparing for the screen the story of Cellini's life.

It was a role that would have suited Valentino to perfection. Cellini was an Italian, and Valentino could have interpreted with Latin ardour and sympthy Benvenuto's paradoxical character.

The film colony was also curious as to what Considine will do with Estelle Taylor, in private life Mrs. Jack Dempsey, who was to have played Valentino's leading woman in the Cellini picture. Miss Taylor is on the Considine payroll at a salary running into four figures, and with Valentino dead it may be several months before United Artists can find a picture for her.

Weekly Garden Gossip

From The Pennsylvania State College

Mulching Is Cultivation

It has been noted that recent experiments in Ohio relative to cultivation, removal of weeds by scraping and mulching with straw mulch favored in two out of three seasons mulching and scraping over the two to three-inch cultivation that is the usual practice in the farm garden. The one season when the deep cultivation proved most profitable was a wet one. Here undoubtedly the cultivation permitted better aeration and drainage of the soil, whereas the mulch, holding the moisture around the plants almost continually, tended to induce yellowing of the plants, rotting and lower yields. The main object of any of these measures is the prevention of growth competition from weeds. It looks as though, in the final analysis, the method used will be the one best adapted to the soil and the season and the one most economical. Certainly these and other similar experiments have shown that shallow cultivation is preferable generally to deep working with most vegetable crops.

Uniformity Aid To Marketing

What proves most attractive to the eye when you visit your local market? Is it a basket of tree-run apples, varying in size and all other characteristics, or a basket that has been well selected and packed by a careful grower? Is it a bunch of beets containing some just the right size, others much oversize, or the bunch containing five or six roots of very nearly the same size, shape and color? I believe nearly anyone will vote in favor of the uniform product every time—that is the basket or bunch containing specimens that are very nearly alike in appearance. There is good reason for this, aside from the greater attractiveness of the product. The specimens of the same size are more easily prepared for cooking and in cooking will all become tender at the same time.

So you see there is a real demand basis or market basis for the emphasis placed upon the factor of uniformity. Of course, for exhibit the products should be selected even more carefully than for market. In getting ready your vegetables for the fair, keep uniformity uppermost in your mind.

Use Frames for Radish Growing

Radishes, one of the easiest crops to grow, are just the thing for filling a cold frame in the fall, to have ready for use from the middle of October until perhaps December 1. The seedings should be made from the middle of September to October 1.

Use varieties requiring different lengths of season so they do not all reach edible size at one time. Scarlet Button or Grand Rapids for the earliest, White Icicle to follow, or if you prefer the red color, use the long Cincinnati Market.

Make the furrows with the edge of a board, with the rows four inches apart, and seed the radishes so you will have a stand of a radish to the inch. Have the soil well limed and fertilized. Apply moisture frequently, and be careful with ventilating that the plants do not become spindly through lack of fresh air.

Under strict orders from Signor Mussolini, fortune-tellers and fortune-telling cards have been banned throughout Italy.

Mammoth Vault To House New York's Numerous Millions

(International News Service)

ALBANY, N. Y., Sept. 17. — One of the largest and most modern vaults in New York State will be constructed under the proposed new state office building, Sullivan W. Jones, of Yonkers, state architeci has announced.

The vault will be used to store the State's $200,000,000 in cash and securities.

A complete system of alarms and a squad of guards are to constitute the state's first line of defense for its new treasury.

The state architect's department now are working out a plan for the vault. Its exact location under the office building is being kept a secret as are the intimate details of construction.

The inside dimensions of the vault will be 50 by 50 feet. The walls, floors and roof are to be of flint concrete, 48 inches thick, reinforced by an armor mat of high grade cold drawn steel fabric.

The huge door will be of circular type, two feet thick, of drill proof steel, equipped with a time lock and opened and shut by a concealed electric engine.

There will be one carefully guarded entrance to the vault and only credited representatives of the various state departments will have access. To make sure, there will be a triple check on identities by means of photographs, signatures and finger prints.

TRUCK KILLS BOY

NEW PHILADELPHIA, O., Sept. 17.—Frank W. Gillis, 12 years old, son of Frank W. Gillis, a local salesman, was killed at an alley intersection here when he rode his bicycle into the front wheel of a truck driven by W. H. Barker, a local plumber. His skull was fractured. Police said a board fence had concealed the view of both as they approached from different alleys.

State Capital Given Picture

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Pa., Sept. 17.—A work of art in their possession and no place to put it today was a problem confronting Pennsylvania state house officials.

The work is a portrait by Vilinski, painted some years ago in Paris, showing George Gray Barnard, sculptor of the marble groups at the capitol entrance here, at work on "The Two Natures," a massive group that has been at the Metropolitan Museum, New York City, for thirty years. Accompanying the portrait which shows the sculptor life size are several marble benches for those who desire to gaze at the painting in ease.

Pennsylvania fell heir to the work through provisions of the will of the Rev. Joseph H. Barnard, father of the sculptor, who died last April. The will states that the portrait must be put in a prominent place at the capitol. But as the bequest complete weighs more than a thousand pounds and the portrait is eight by ten feet in size capitol officials have a locating problem on their hands.

British Swimmer Also Swims Across Channel Mystery Woman Quits

(International News Service)

DOVER, Eng., Sept. 17.—Leslie Dereham, a British swimmer, dealt the English channel another buffet today when he plowed his way across the turbulent waterway in the fine time of 13 hours and 7 minutes.

A few months ago, before the advant of the Ederles and the Michels, this would have been hailed as a record for all time.

A less lucky compatriot, Jane Darwin, described as the "mystery swimmer," was forced to give up this morning after being in the water 13 hours and coming within 4 ½ miles of the Dover coast.

Dereham now becomes the channel-swimming champion of Great Britain. He is the first Englishman to succeed since William Burgess swam it in 1911.

Dereham finished strongly with a powerful breast stroke. He walked ashore easily and after dressing went to the Green Man, an inn, for a bath and breakfast.

Pennington Rules Against Granting Of Alcohol Permit

Application Of Allegheny Chemical Company Denied By Dry Chief

SCORES UNNAMED COMPANY OFFICIAL

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Sept. 17. — Application of the Allegheny Chemical Company of Pittsburgh for renewal of industrial alcohol and denaturing plants permits today stood denied in a ruling by John D. Pennington, district prohibition administrator, in which the dry chief scored the company as being of substantially the same personnel as that of the Logansport Distilling Company, of New York, Chicago and Pittsburgh.

The Logansport concern, and its alleged subsidiaries, the Ford Drug Sundries Company and the W. W. Smith company, had previously had their distilling and denaturing licenses revoked by prohibition administrators of all three districts.

In a five-page decision made public today Pennington scored the officers of the Allegheny Company for alleged attempts "to conceal and cover up transactions which it is the right of the government to inquire into."

Scores Unknown

There was not sufficient evidence, Pennington ruled, to substantiate charges of conspiracy. The administrator bitterly scored an unnamed person "holding himself out as a representative of the Allegheny Company," with the charge that "shortly before the trial of these cases sought to bribe an official of the government to betray his trust and violate his oath of office by binding himself in advance to a favorable decision for the respondent."

In so doing, and in consideration of subsequent evidence, Pennington ruled, the company "forfeited the confidence of the prohibition administrator," and therefore, the licenses were denied.

The case, which comes to a close after months of legal sparring, attracted widespread attention because of its alleged relations with cases pending before prohibition officials in New York and Chicago, and was closely watched in Pittsburgh after witnesses brought out that Henry Townsend, City Property Custodian and prominent politician, was one of the stockholders in the company.

Educational Art Society Bringing Great Course To New Castle

Sousa's Band is more than just a musical organization in America, it is an institution. And any time John Phillip Sousa and his hundred musicians are booked for a city, one can expect a capacity crowd.

He was here two years ago, and perhaps you remember the throng that filled the Benjamin Franklin auditorium. This year the Educational Art Society has booked him again, the date being Wednesday, October 6.

It will be the first concert of the Educational Art Society's program for this season and the first taste of what promises to be a musical feast.

Following Sousa will be Kathryn Meisle, the Chicago Opera contralto who comes on November 12, and Miss Meisle's appearance here will be her introduction to New Castle, in a personal appearance.

Friday, January 21, Albert Spalding, the American violinist comes here, and in Spalding the committee has picked the outstanding American master of the violin.

Thursday, February 3, Percy Grainger the pianist comes here.

There is but one Percy Grainger and his appearance here is an opportunity.

Friday, March 18, the Russian Symphonic Choir is scheduled and these musicians from the snowy steppes of Russia have a musical message they bring.

The final concert upon the course will be the Eight Popular Victor Artists, who appear in April, the date to be decided later. Who hasn't heard of Billy Murray, or Henry Burr or the Peerless Quartet. Who didn't enjoy "Cohen On The Telephone?" Monroe Silver, the man who is "Cohen" is among the eight.

Stadium Classrooms Aid In Relieving Acute Congestion Of Last Year

Up on Cunningham avenue there is a city within a city. In this inner city are 1,743 citizens, governed by 58 more citizens, some times known as teachers. And in addition a corps of janitors.

The city might well be termed "The City of Ben Franklin" for here is the Benjamin Franklin Junior high school, one of the finest institutions of its kind in the entire United States.

Last term the school was over crowded, so much so that any room at all, whether it were a stock room, a teachers rest room or what not, was used as a class room.

This year, thanks to the five class rooms under the stadium, the school is not so crowded, in fact is just comfortably full, but the time is not far hence when more room will be needed.

The 1,743 students are being well taken care of from a class room standpoint this year, but on February 1st, there will be 200 more added to it.

If a like number is promoted to the Senior high school, then the condition will remain unchanged. If the Senior high school is unable to take care of them, Franklin will be crowded again.

Manslaughter Charge In Booze Case

WESTON, W. Va., Sept. 17.—A warrant charging G. T. Kincaid with manslaughter was obtained by Sheriff Roy V. Chidester here Kincaid is alleged to have sold poison liquor to W. P. Shock, lumberman, who died within an hour after taking the first drink.

An analysis of the liquor revealed a large amount of poisonous copper. The chemist making the analysis stated that the amount of copper was more than could be expected to come from a still. Kincaid is in the Lewis county jail, having been arrested a few hours after the death of Shock. A. E. Lewis, who took one drink of the liquor, recovered after a brief illness.

Missing Hunter Is Found Dead; Woman Is Shot

CLEVELAND, O., Sept. 17.—One Ohio hunter died as the result largely of exposure after he had become lost and a woman was shot on the second day of the squirrel hunting season yesterday.

John C. Young, 71, of Batavia, was found dead by Sheriff John McCollum of Brown county after a posse of some 400 men had spent a night and a day looking for the hunter.

The woman who was shot was Mrs. Laura White, 35, of Canton. She was seriously wounded by her husband, who mistook the movement of her arm behind a tree for a squirrel.

The accident occurred on a farm of Mrs. White's brother near Bernice, south of Newcomerstown. She was taken to City hospital at Coschocton.

Young, a stone contractor and township trustee, was found dead near Fayetteville. He was said to have been a victim of a paralytic stroke, brought on by overexertion and exposure.

His body was taken to Batavia for burial.

Charged With Attacking Thelma Taylor, Fourteen Year Old Girl

Herbert Hake, charged with attacking Thelma Taylor, aged 14, was placed on trial before Judge James A. McLaughry at court this morning. Former Judge S. P. Emery represented the defendant and Charles R. Davis, appointed special district attorney, the commonwealth.

It is claimed that Hake met the girl at Cascade Park and took her for an auto ride out into Slippery Rock township, where they drove down a lane. Last 'Confederate Mother' Not Dead Says North Carolina Woman at 103

(International News Service)

DUNN, N. C., Sept. 17.—The last "Confederate Mother" is not dead. Writers of dispatches from Virginia recently giving accounts of the death of the "last Confederate Mother" perhaps did not know Mrs. Jilia Anne Pridgen, who is now nearing her hundred and third birthday.

Mrs. Pridgen, whose long gray locks of hair and wrinkled forehead are unmistakable marks of her many years, lives down in Pender county and wants to tell the world that her son, M. B. Pridgen, was a member of General Lee's ranks.

Despite her 103 years, Mrs. Pridgen still enjoys good health, can walk about the house and yards unassisted. She is the mother of twelve children, six of whom are still living, the youngest being sixty years of age.

Mrs. Pridgen has outlived her soldier-son who has been dead over twenty years. He was her oldest son and her second oldest was preparing to enlist and march away to battle when the Civil War ended.

Mrs. Pridgen was born the third day of November, 1823 and has been a contemporary of all the presidents of the United States ex- She was the age of three when John Adams and Thomas Jefferson died in 1826.

"I have always eaten what I wanted and as much of it as I wanted," replied the elderly woman when asked about dieting for a long life.

Mrs. Pridgen is as old as the Monroe Doctrine and was born during of the "era of good feeling."

"Andrew Jackson was governor of Florida when I was just a baby. Monroe was president of the United States. Abraham Lincoln was an untutored youth at the age of fourteen and harly old enough to split rails about then, I guess," said Mrs. Pridgen smilingly.

Andrew Johnson was fifteen years old and lived in Raleigh, N. C., and Mrs. Pridgen knew him, or at least, knew his people, or her people knew his people, she says.

"I remember the first buggy that ever came to these parts," she says. "When I was a little girl we all rode on horseback. I also remember the first two steamboats that sailed Cape Fear river."

"Naw, you don't want my picture," she told a newspaperman, "better take one of some of these up to date flappers with pretty legs."

Mrs. Pridgen remembers all the events of the Civil War and remembers things of long ago better than up to date happenings.

DOCTOR RESTORES MAN'S HEART BEATS

ERIE, Pa., Sept. 17.—Coming in contact with a 32,000 voltage wire 35 feet above the ground in McKean borough south of here, Clifford Peterson of Union City, is in St. Vincent's hospital in a serious condition. Quick action by Dr. Guy Clapper of McKean, revived the youth after his heart stopped beating.

FALSE PRETENSE CASE

Lawrence Barto, charged with obtaining goods by false pretense, was placed on trial this morning before Judge Hildebrand. The prosecutor is Ralph G. Gaspere, a tailor. The charge was brought in connection with a suit of clothes which was taken out of the Gaspere shop.

Is a nation's currency inflated? Rest assured an inflated ego deserves the blame.

Mr. Insull likes one party as well as another, but you can say that about some senators.

Alas, depriving Italians of spaghetti may destroy the peculiar dexterity of the race.

Sir Henry Thornton In Marriage Ceremony At Philadelphia Also

(Special To The News)

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Sept. 17.—Sir Henry Worth Thornton, president of the Canadian National Railways and former University of Pennsylvania gird star, said here today that he considered his second marriage in Philadelphia Monday "a somewhat unnecessary precaution but one which was thought advisable."

Sir Henry is spending part of his honeymoon in this resort with Lady Thornton, who was Miss Martha Watriss, of Westbury, L. I., daughter of Mrs. Charles Delavan Wetmore, New York.

The couple were married last Saturday at the summer home of the bride, near Jamestown, N. Y. Sir Henry is somewhat older than his bride, who is 27.

Going to Philadelphia, Monday, the couple were again married by Judge J. Willis Martin of Common Pleas Court. They then came to the shore in Sir Henry's private railroad car, and will remain for several days before leaving for Montreal, where they will live.

Sir Henry denied a report that the second marriage was necessary because under the New York state laws regarding divorce, the ceremony there was invalid.

"The marriage in New York," said Sir Henry, "was perfectly valid and there was really no reason for the second ceremony, but legal advisers said the second marriage would not do any harm and might do some good."

Japanese Army Officer Refuses To Marry Heiress

TOKIO, Sept. 17.—Tokio society is greatly interested in a report that Lieutenant Masayuki Kozawa, a young army officer, has refused to wed Yacko, the beautiful daughter of General Baron Giichi Tanaka, one of the wealthiest and most influential men in Japan.

Lieutenant Kozawa, it is reported, has refused because he is of too humble origin to aspire to the hand of the high-born Yacko. The lieutenant was the son of very poor parents and early in life he became a servant in the home of General Tanaka. He attracted the attention of his employer, who educated him and fitted him for a military career. As a boy he was the playmate of Yacko.

Recently General Tanaka, it is said, sought to bring about a wedding, the intimation being that Yacko, herself, had something to do with instituting the marital negotiations. Lieutenant Kozawa's humility, however, spoiled the plan.

General Tanaka is retired from the army and is now the head of the Seiyuki, a powerful political party. It is not improbable that he may be the next premier of Japan. Had Lieutenant Kozawa accepted the marriage proposal he would have been General Tanaka's heir.

Attorney General Files Demurrer In Philadelphia Sunday Ball Suit

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Pa., Sept. 17.—A demurrer was filed by Attorney General Woodruff in the Dauphin county court today in the state's action to prevent the Philadelphia baseball club of the American League from playing Sunday baseball in its home city.

The demurrer admitted the facts cited in the American League club's answer to the state suit, but disputed the matters of law. The action of Woodruff will make unnecessary the taking of testimony. The case will be submitted to the court on points of law only. A date of argument will be set by the court.

Somewhat similar to the Sesqui-Centennial suit decided here yesterday, the suit hinges on the right of the Athletics, under their state charter, to play Sunday baseball in Pennsylvania.

Resume Excavating On The Castleton

Work Held Up Some On Thursday Due To Muddy Condition Of Ground

Following a short lay-off Thursday when the mucky condition of the ground due to the rain storm Wednesday evening made it impossible for the trucks to drive in and out, excavation on "The Castleton" on North Mercer street was resumed today.

The steam shovel being used in the work by the contractors will have all of the surface debris cleaned away by this evening and "finishing" cuts will be started at once.

Bricklayers are making good progress on the construction of the reinforcing wall under the foundation of the adjoining property which it was found necessary to brace as the digging progressed.

Uncover New Clue In Murder Mystery

Blood-Covered Man Seen Near Scene Of Rebuck Crime, Autoist Reveals

TO QUESTION AUTO DRIVER

(International News Service)

SUNBURY, Pa., Sept. 17.—The weird story of a blood covered man who was alleged to have hailed an autoist along a lonely road near Rebuck, Pa., on the night of Sept. 4, when Daniel J. Ferster, 27-year-old farm hand, met his death, was being investigated by county and state officials today.

The story, which County Detective Charles Densevich today admitted had been given him by a resident of the vicinity, has thrown Rebuck section into a new state of excitement after 12 days of fruitless investigation.

State police, however, adhere to the story that Ferster, whose body, with the head almost severed, was found in a lonely spot near his home, was a suicide. County Coroner J. K. Fisher is insistent that Ferster could not have inflicted the wounds which caused his death. A small rusty pocket knife found near the body, the coroner said, could not have been used in the deed.

The man alleged to have driven the car in which the "blood covered" man left the scene of the tragedy, was to be questioned today by authorities.

Suit Is Entered To Tie Up Purse In Dempsey Bout

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Sept. 17.—Suit has been filed here which has its purpose the tieing up of the purse of the Jack Dempsey-Gene Tunney heavyweight championship bout next week. The suit was brought by Sol Wittenberg, an employe in the law office of John R. K. Scott.

Scott, who will appear as counsel for Wittenberg at the hearing of the case tomorrow, said today that an "inside" story containing hints of a "fake" will be revealed at the hearing.

Wittenberg brought the suit as a taxpayer and ticket holder.

Although Wittenberg is named in the action as plaintiff and Tex Rickard, promoter of the fight, as defendant it is reported that an enemy of Dempsey's is really behind the suit and that it is aimed at the champion.

See No Change In Mexican Policy

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Sept 17.—While strong representations have been made to the Mexican government over the wanton slaying by bandits of Jacob Rosenthal, there was nothing to indicate here today that any appreciable change in the administration's Mexican policy is forthcoming.

On the contrary, the meagre advices which the state department has received from the American embassy in Mexico City indicated to officials, it was admitted, that the Mexican government apparently did everything in its power to avert the tragedy and is now taking energetic measures to avenge it.

The American case is also somewhat weakened, it was learned, by the fact there is now in the state department a strong protest from the Mexican government over the slaying of three Mexicans in Raymondville, Texas, some days ago.

SOPHS WIN CLASS RUSH

New Wilmington High School Under Classmen In Annual Flag Battle

(Special To The News)
NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., Sept. 17.—Annual flag rush of the freshman and sophomore classes of New Wilmington high school was an event of 8:30 o'clock this morning in front of the school and in the presence of most of the residents of this community. It ended in a victory for the older classmen.

There had been unusual excitement in the community since the close of school on Thursday evening. Freshmen and sophomores could be seen going about in a mysterious manner.

About three o'clock this morning the sophomores placed in position on the school property a pole about 40 feet in height, at the top of which were the class colors, blue and white. The pole was greased for a distance of ten feet from the bottom and the bark peeled off for the balance of the height of the pole. The boys went to the trouble of cutting down a tree for the purpose.

The rush was staged at 8:30 a. m., under the supervision of the upper classes of the school. The contestants, about 20 in all, 10 sophomores and 10 freshmen, lined up, the sophomores about their pole and the freshmen at one side. At a given signal the freshmen rushed the sophomores, seeking to get a member up the pole to tear down the flag.

The contest lasted 20 minutes, there being two 10-minute periods with a five-minute intermission for rest.

At the close of the contest the sophomore flag was still flying in the breeze. No one was injured.

Chief Clerk Is Witness Today In Daugherty Case

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, Sept. 17. — Charles E. Stewart, chief clerk in the Department of Justice during the administration of Harry M. Daugherty, was called to the witness stand today in the Daugherty-Miller conspiracy trial in Federal Court.

Daugherty, formerly attorney general, and former alien property custodian Thomas W. Miller are accused of not having given their best services in connection with the return of $7,000,000 of property of the German-controlled American Metals Company seized as alien property during the war.

Stewart, questioned by United States Attorney Buckner, told of the relationship that existed between Daugherty and the late Jesse Smith. Richard Merton, German financier who came to this country to effect the return of the seized alien property, had testified that the late John T. King of Connecticut introduced him to Smith when he was trying hard to have the property returned to the foreign owners.

KIWANIANS COME HOME

New Castle Delegation Back From Convention At Conneaut Lake

Attorney Thomas W. Dickey, president of the New Castle Kiwanis club and the members of the club who attended the state convention of the organization at Conneaut Lake are home, and according to them, the convention this year was the biggest affair of its kind Kiwanis has ever held.

In all, there were some 800 delegates in attendance. New Castle had about twenty-five present, in addition to the delegates. During the progress of the convention, President Dickey was appointed as a member of the transportation committee governing the international convention to be held in Memphis, Tenn., in 1927.

President J. Hayden Oliver of Scranton, Pa., was re-elected. Several outstanding addresses were heard in the convention, among them being those of Rev. John L. Davis of New York city, Judge Reidder of Beaver county and Charles Brandon Booth, national field secretary of the Big Brother and Sister movement.

Greenville and Meadville clubs acted as hosts to the convention delegates and on two days served lunch in the Temple of Music.

Good Year For Bessemer Company

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Sept. 17.—The current 12 months is expected to prove another good year for the Bessemer Limestone & Cement Co., in an earning way, according to reports on developments to date.

While the results may not be so good as in 1925, when net for common after all charges and preferred dividend was in excess of $31 a share, they will likely be well above the expectations earlier in the year when the outlook was uncertain and to warrant payment of an aggregate of $10 a share again on the common stock.

The stock is on a $6 an annual basis, meaning that a $10 payment for the year will involve a heavy end-of-the-year extra. There are reports, too, that Bessemer common may be placed on an $8 basis next year.

That the company is amply able to do this is indicated by the fact that aggregate earnings the past five years, including 1926, available for common, have been in excess of $125 a share.

Bessemer is in a strong position in the industry as regards production costs, quality of product, raw material reserves and management. These considerations make the outlook for the company highly favorable.

Bessemer will shortly retire or convert the last of its $750,000 note issues made five years ago, placing outstanding common at something in excess of $1,600,000. In addition there is $1,000,000 of preferred stock. The current position is exceptionally strong.

BALTUSROL GOLF CLUB, Short Hills, N. J., Sept. 17.—Bobby Jones, the Atlanta wizard, finished the first 18 holes of his semi-final round match in the national amateur golf championship this morning with a lead of 3 up on Francis Ouimet, his ancient enemy and former champion. Jones was defending the title he won in 1924 and 1925, and seemed to realize that he must play his best golf against a man of Ouimet's calibre.

All square going to the 14th Bobby won that hole and also the 17th and 18th, leaving the tenacious Ouimet in the rear for the first time. Previously they had halved every hole from the third to the 13th inclusive, 11 in all.

President Not Worried Over Demand For Additional Reduction In Tax

Rank And File Of Voters Are No Longer Paying Any Income Tax

Next Congress Will Be Conservative And Will Accomplish Little

By GEORGE H. MANNING,
(Washington Correspondent of The News)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—Neither of the two great parties will control the next Senate, it is indicated. The balance of power will nominally be in the hands of the Insurgents, all of whom, however, will probably pay enough attention to the party label to help the Republicans to organize the Senate. That is the way to get good committee assignments and to hold them.

Off-years produce off-Congresses. Men get elected on local or personal grounds and only in presidential years is there anything resembling a referendum on national issues. The old saying is: "Good Congresses are elected in leap years." The Babel Congresses intervene every two years.

Playing Politics

Again, a president seldom expects very much from the second Congress in his term. Most of the patronage has been distributed by that time and, unless a president is a candidate to succeed himself, those who like to get on the band-wagon—their number is legion—are looking ahead and jumping to new chariots. Off-Congresses are too busy playing politics and manufacturing issues to formulate and enact constructive legislation of importance.

Besides, some of the most astute republican leaders have been arguing for months that a break in the unprecendented prosperity is bound to come within the next two years. They do not give any economic reasons except the platitude that whatever goes up must come down. They think that a period of hard times and slack business could readily be blamed on a congress that declined to follow the Coolidge leadership, in which case Mr. Coolidge could be renominated and elected on a platform calling for a return of the Coolidge prosperity. The argument seems a little far-fetched, particularly to those who remember how the late Senator Penrose made much the same argument in 1920.

Conservative Or Radical

The fact is that there are no party lines, except for election purposes. A Senator of the United States today is either a conservative or a radical. By some tests Bruce of Maryland is one of the best Coolidge Republicans in the Senate, while by other tests there is no better Jeffersonian democrat than Borah. In the House the great protagonist of the Hull amendment, in the National Bank bill, is the Democrat Wingo, while the sturiest exponent of the Administration opposition to the Hull amendment in the Senate is Mr. Glass.

It is doubtful if there is a single major national issue on which there is unanimity in either party. A large bloc of republicans have become lukewarm on the tariff, but another large bloc of democrats have become enthusiastic protectionists, for products of their own states. The South is booming along industrially and the industrialists have something to say about how Southern representatives shall vote, whatever their party traditions.

The only way to get the complexion of the Senate, therefore, is to test its membership for radicalism or conservatism. It is that test which makes Mr. Coolidge and his advisers smile. Laughter, of course, would not be in keeping with the dignity of the presidential office. Has the Administration actually needed a few democratic votes in recent years and not got them? Not so that it could be noticed. If there were but forty "regular" republican Senators, still the Administration could muster another eight votes on almost any vital national economic program.

The Senate will be conservative. It may give a pretense of radicalism now and then, on unimportant matters that loom large in the public eye, such as a proposal for a smelling committee or something of that sort, but on essentials it will be against experimentation.

Coolidge's Vote Worth 15 Senators

Moreover, Mr. Coolidge's vote is worth that of 15 Senators, at a minimum. For instance, if 49 voted to pass a bill it would require 15 more, or 64 votes, to pass it over the presidential veto. There is no possibility, even were there an anti-republican landslide, of the opposition having a two-thirds majority in both Houses. So there will be no law passed between now and March, 1929, of which the president does not approve. He has the next Congress in the hollow of his hand, even before it is elected. If it wants to follow his leadership he will use it; if it wants to go in the other direction he will fence it in with vetoes.

It is probable, too, that the president is not much worried over Senator Simmons' militant demand for additional tax reduction. That was the sweetest sort of political molasses in the last campaign, but now hardly one in four of those who vote pay any income taxes. The last two revisions separated the sheep from the goats. Additional reductions would relieve the well-to-do and there is not much political capital in that. Besides, a campaign, organized from one end of the nation to the other, is already under way to allocate a large part of any reduction to the corporations, by lowering their profits taxes. A cut in automobile taxes might win popular approval. But the truth is that most of the sap has been sucked from the tax tree, politically speaking.

Coolidge For Thrift

When, however, the democrats charge the Administration with being morally bankrupt it causes some palpitation of the heart. Woodrow Wilson led the peoples of all nations up to the very mountain tops of idealism. Then they went down into the deep valleys and they are there yet. Mr. Coolidge is the exponent of thrift, not of soul-stirring ideals. He and those about him speak the language of economics. Any one of them could compose a sonnet in Greek or a hymn in ancient Syrian more readily than he could voice such thoughts as Lincoln spoke at Gettysburg. But this sheer matter-of-factness which characterizes the Administration is not alone a republican prerogative. There is no great spokesman for liberalism in any high place in Washington and the banners of the cult have drooped since the restless body of one man was interred at Oyster Bay and the emaciated form of another made of the Cathedral at Washington a national shrine.

Yet one man, not long ago, dared in a mixed meeting of important men to quote these words from Roosevelt:

> We, here is America, hold in our hands the hope of the world, the fate of the coming years; and shame and disgrace will be ours if in our eyes the light of high resolve is dimmed, if we trail in the dust the golden hopes of men. If on this new continent we merely build another country of great but unjustly divided material prosperity, we shall have done nothing; and we shall do as little if we merely set the greed of envy against the greed of arrogance, and thereby destroy the material well-being of all of us.

It is not much a question of moral bankrupty with either party, but leaders in both recognize that when a champion arises who can voice in deep-throated notes the spiritual aspirations of America he may well be a Pied Piper to the voters of all classes, few of whom are so bound as they used to be by party ties.

The present election campaign is thoroughly commonplace and may be expected to have commonplace results.

San Pasqual Battle Will Be Re-Enacted

(International News Service)

SAN DIEGO, Sept. 17.—The battle of San Pasqual, the famous engagement which resulted in the transfer of California from Mexico to the United States, will be reenacted by 1,500 Marines under the command of Brig. Gen. Smedley D. Butler, it was learned at the Marine Base here today.

The mock battle will be staged three times, on Navy Day, October 27; the birthday of the Marine Corp, November 10; Armistice Day, November 11.

"The brigade needs training afield," Butler declared. We will bivouac at San Pasqual valley for three weeks. War conditions will be copied, and every effort made to reproduce the battle along historical lines. We may be forced to substitute automobiles for horses; but the cavalry didn't figure prominently in the original conflict."

San Pasqual valley is 45 miles inland from San Diego. It was made a state park two years ago and a monument was erected on the site of the battlefield.

Movie Congress To Convene Soon

(International News Service)

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 17. — H. B'Abbadie D'Arrast, Paramount director, will represent the United States in the first international Motion Picture Congress to be held in Paris, September 27 to October 4.

The conference, which is sponsored by the League of Nations, will devote itself to the influence of motion pictures upon art, education and social welfare.

D'Arrast, who is now on his way to Paris, will act as proxy for Jesse L. Lasky, who was unable to attend.

"—it can be done"

—said Christopher Columbus, dreamer who dared the threat of the unknown to make a dream come true.

"It can be done," has echoed down the years, the watchword of the land he found.

Of this land, Hendrik Willem Van Loon tells us in his "America, An Episode in the History of the World," beginning in the October Companion.

The brilliant author of "The Story of Mankind" and "Tolerance" makes plain to us by word and picture that history is no stirring of the dull dust of ages, but a re-creation of living men and women; of the hopes and fears; of the vision and sacrifice; of the bitter failure and glorious achievement that have all gone into the building of this land we proudly call our own.

More absorbing than fiction, more dramatic than the theater are the tragedy and comedy of a nation in the making—America!

Three outstanding serials by Margaret Deland, Mark Lee Luther and Grace S. Richmond. Brilliant short stories by Sherwood Anderson, Zona Gale, Elsie Singmaster, Victor McClure and Grace Torrey.

Feature articles, gravure pages, and all the fashion, beauty, service and home departments which have made the Companion the most distinguished and authoritative publication in its field.

Iowa Plans Shaft, Cummins Memorial, At Old Homestead

CARMICHAELS, Pa., Sept. 17.—Iowa soon will begin erection of a bronze and granite memorial at the site of the old Cummins homestead, on the Carmichaels-Masontown pike, near Carmichaels, commemorating the birthplace of the late United States Senator Albert B. Cummins who served Iowa for almost 40 years, first as governor, then as United States senator. Mr. Cummins was born near Carmichaels and passed his early boyhood here. The town is planning to erect a memorial in the public square.

Move Started For Burbank Monument

CUERO, Tex., Sept. 17—A movement among farmers and residents of the rural sections of the United States to erect a suitable monument to the late Luther Burbank, famous plant wizard, has been started by the DeWitt County Farmers' Luncheon Club here, the only similar organization of farmers in the country.

A resolution of respect to the memory of Burbank was passed by the club, and the secretary, J. C. Carrington, was instructed to take the matter up with the proper authorities. Communications have been sent to the secretary of agriculture at Washington and ground has been laid for an appropriation to aid in establishing the memorial.

Plans for the memorial, location to be desided, also were placed before William McAdoo of Los Angeles, Calif., who has been supporting a move to transfer the Burbank nurseries, etc., at Leland Stanford University, at Palo Alto, Calif. In a letter to the club here, McAdoo indicated he was in favor of the suggested memorial.

Woman Fails To Win Back Child

Cleveland Mother Gave Up Girl Seven Years Ago

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Sept. 17.—A mother's demand for her daughter, adopted seven years ago by a family, have placed City Judge L. B. McKelvey in the traditional role of Solomon. Judge McKelvey let the child decide. She favored the foster parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bishop.

While the Bishops had made no formal adoption, Judge McKelvey ruled that as Mrs. Georgianna Albright of Cleveland, the mother, had once been satisfied to give up the child, there was no reason why the Bishops should return her.

Mrs. Albright seized the girl, but court officials gave her to her foster mother.

(Special To The News)

GROVE CITY, Pa., Sept. 17.—W. M. Lockard was the selection as superintendent of the Sunday school of the Grace Methodist church of this city. His election took place this week. C. M. Slater and E. C. Hoyt were elected as assistant superintendents. As head of the adult department was selected George Marquand; department A., A. M. Winder; department B., Miss Rebecca Washabaugh; intermediate department, Miss Gertrude Bowden; junior department, Mrs. Mayme Burrowes; primary department, Mrs. J. A. B. Albin; beginners' department, Mrs. Oren Carner; cradle roll, Mrs. C. M. Slater. Miss Josephine Coulter, the popular secretary of the school, was again selected for this position. L. G. Blythe was the treasurer selection. Eugene Taggart was elected librarian. Mr. Lockard will represent the school at the state gathering of Sunday school organizations, held in October at Reading. The Grace church school totals 1,500 and is one of the largest in Mercer county.

Advice from Jerry Fay, with the Frankfort Yellow Jackets, is to the effect that he is working hard and likes the location. Fay is working with the eastern squad for a week now in preparation for a season that opens this week. Fay, a three letter man here, completed his course this spring. For four years he played the left tackle position on the varsity football team of Grove City College. He has a host of friends and admirers among the undergraduates and alumni body who will wish him success in this new venture.

Of the budget for benevolences in the Butler Presbytery of the Presbyterian church in 1925 one-fourth the sum of $19,000 was paid by the local Presbyterian church is announced. When it is considered that this sum was paid along with a current church expense and also the payments of large sums promised for the church building fund, it is an unusual contribution and concrete of the spirit that prevails in this exceptional denomination of 1,400 persons.

A warning of the crisis in the mission work of the United Presbyterian church that is impending was broadcasted from his pulpit by Dr. Homer Henderson, pastor of the First United Presbyterian church of Grove City in an appeal made at the prayer meeting service of the church last evening to rally to the cause of foreign missions.

Dr. Henderson told his audience that unless something was done at once that 50 missionaries of the denomination in foreign fields would have to be withdrawn. There exists, says the churchman, a deficit of $400,000, both of the year 1925 and for 1926. In each instance the amount of money raised has been short of the year's expenditures in this work. Clergy and laymen who attended the closing session of the assembly of the church at Sharon in May will remember the very earnest discussion given this matter by the assembly leaders.

The date of September 15 was set aside in the denomination for the sounding of a warning of the danger ahead. The mission work, as it is now carried on in foreign fields, is a division of the territory among the churches. The failure of one denomination to function would affect the whole plan. In particular the mission work of the United Presbyterian church in the Nile valley of Egypt has been very successful.

Memorial windows to Dr. J. C. Ketler, founder of Grove City College, and Dr. W. J. McConkey, for many years pastor of the First Presbyterian church, are being put in at the First Prersbyterian church The Worthwhile Bible class also is erecting a memorial window at the church. It is said that other windows are being considered by relatives of deceased prominent members of the denomination.

Prof. and Mrs. George Fundenberg have arrived home from a summer spent in European travel.

Laborer Inherits $9,000,000 Estate

(International News Service)

GALESBURG, Ill., Sept. 17.—From an iron worker to owner of a $9,000,000 estate, of coal lands in the Shenandoah valley is the good fortune which has befallen John Cooper, Kewanne, who formerly worked here at day labor for his sustenance.

Cooper is leaving for Virginia, but he is not stingy with his good fortune. For with him will go several Kewanee families, all in moderate circumstances, to share in his wealth. They are selling out their property and will join Cooper in his auto caravan to the valley of wealth and affluence in 'Ole Virginny'.

Cooper has approved plans of architects for a mansion of thirty rooms, to be built of the finest marble, about 30 miles from Roanoke, Va. Less pretentious homes will be built for the families making the trip with him. Mrs. Lorette McReady Nelson, Cooper's mother-in-law, an aged woman, will have a home in the new palatial residence.

Cooper will be 33 years old September 18 and on that day will come into possession of the vast fortune. Due to a break with his family over religion, the legacy came unexpectedly to him as he believed he would be disinherited.

When younger, Cooper rejected the girl his parents wanted him to marry, and then following this renounced the religious faith of his father. That act, he believed wiped away his chances of inheriting the fortune of his grandmother, Mrs. Mary Bradford. He went to Kewanee in 1911 and later married Opal McReady, joining another church, in which he became a pillar.

Frank Cooper, his father, married Francis Bradford, daughter of Mary. John was the seventh son. Cutting the father from the will the rich old lady made John the chief beneficiary when he was 7, but as he left home when he was 21 over religious trouble he believed that he had lost all chance of inheriting the estate. The old lady's will will be read September 18 in the offices of Cooper and Bradford, Wilmington attorneys, and will disclose the reasons for her leaving the fortune to John.

Cooper has promised the Christian church at Kewanne a new building to cost $250,000.

Begins Drive On Barn Dances

MAYVILLE, N. Y., Sept. 17. — As a part of his determination to clean up many of the dance halls in the county, particularly barn dances, Sheriff Axel Levin, Deputy Ralph Levin, and Troopers Nelson and Hubbard visited a grist mill at Smith's Mills, Friday night. They arrested Harland Gens, charged with a technical violation of the labor law. He was fined $20 when he pleaded guilty before Justice of the Peace F. S. Stewart at Silver Creek, Saturday morning.

Europe Armies Have Been Cut 1,500,000 Men

Statistics For Three Years Show Only Few Nations Have More Soldiers

Russia Is Only Country Where Reliable Figures Are Missing

By CHARLES A. SMITH
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, Sept. 17.—Europe's military forces have been reduced by one and a half million men in the past three years, statistics published here reveal. It is shown that only in the Eastern part of the European Continent are armies substantially higher than they were in pre-war days.

The statistics show that the Scandinavian nations have made very substantial cuts in their armies, partly owing to the fact that they have generally adopted the militia system of Switzerland, under which the men are not kept in barracks, but are called up for training for a limited period.

Scandinavian Reductions

Sweden has reduced her permanent establishment from 120,000 in 1922 to 35,912 in 1925; Norway from 60,000 in 1922 to 4,405 in 1925; and Denmark from 33,000 to 9,092 last year. These figures exclude the men who are trained on a militia basis.

Contrary to the general impression, France has made a step in the reduction direction, the number of Frenchmen serving being 300,000 less than in 1913. If a Bill at present before the Chamber is passed there will be serving only 97,000 white troops and 100,000 Native troops.

Great Britain has reduced her army by just over 2,000, in addition to a very substantial reduction of the number of soldiers in India. Belgium has reduced her peace establishment from 118,969 in 1922 to 81,720 in 1925; Spain, in spite of the Riff war, has reduced from 215,949 to 123,851.

Italy Shows Increase

Italy shows an increase from 210,000 in 1922 to 259,848 in 1925, but this represents a decrease of over 30,000 if the comparison is made with the Italian figures for 1913. Germany has her establishment fixed by treaty at 100,000, Austria at 30,000 and Hungary at 35,000 and Bulgaria at 33,000.

The Republics of Poland, Lativia, and Lithuania have increased their armies due it is stated to fears of aggression from Soviet Russia. Absence of official and reliable figures from Moscow have made it impossible to give an accurate comparison of the Russian armies of yesterday and today, but unofficial estimates show that with the possible exception of France, Russia has far and away the largest peace establishment.

Longer Mules Are Needed By Army In Panama Campaign

(International News Service)

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 17.—The United States army today faces a serious dilemma, according to artillery officers at the San Francisco Presidio, famous western army post.

The army either has to bet a supply of mules with a chassis design like that of a German daschund or it will have to change the length of its cannon.

The problem arose in the Canal Zone where transportation of the standard 37 mm. gun is a problem because of lack of roads and impenetrable jungles.

Transporting the 37 mm. guns on wheels is out of the question in Panama.

The army has decided that the well known mule shall be the means of going hither, thither and yon for the cannon.

Upon experimentation it was found that the trial of the gun was too long when packed on the present governmental issue of mule.

When packing this gun on muleback, the packer is faced with the problem of either tickling the mule's ears or his rump, two admittedly sensitive centers.

Since the length of the trails of the 37 mm. gun has been scientifically designed, army officers are wondering which will be the easiest to change, the wheelbase of the mule or the length of the gun.

Must Build Catacombs To Increase Capacity Of Library At Oxford

(International News Service)

LONDON, Sept. 17.—The famous Bodleian Library at Oxford, which is growing at the rate of 25,000 volumes a year and which now contains 1,500,000 volumes, will have reached its capacity in a decade, according to Sir Michael Sadler, master of University College.

Sadler has drawn up a number of plans for enlargement, one of which provides for the construction of miles of catacombs underneath the main library building for the housing of thousands upon thousands of books which the library will have to find space for during the coming years. A plan is also being discussed at Oxford for the building of an entirely new library at a cost of nearly $3,000,000.

The first library at Oxford was founded in 1320, and the present Bodleian Library in 1598. Like the British Museum, the Bodleian is entitled to claim a copy of every book published in England.

Famous Antiques Sold For Song

(International News Service)

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Sept. 17.—Attended only by a few gloating antique collectors, assembled in a tall, beamed ceilinged room, the fous old W. A. Wilson collection went under the hammer here, almost unheralded, and at prices that brought tears to the eyes of collectors not fortunate enough to have been aware of the sale.

Imitation gold chairs that once glittered bravely in the palace of the doge at Venice went under the hammer at prices that brought twenty-five cents on the dollar, estimated value.

Louis XIV chairs, collected by painstaking effort by Wilson during his many trips thrqugh Europe went as low as $12.50 each, and a portiere, woven in France in the early fourteenth century was knocked down at $100.

The Wilson "mansion," once one of the show places of Kansas City, was sold recently to E. P. White, a contractor, and his plans called for the razing of the building, which made necessary the sale of the collection, brought together during Wilson's lifetime, and valued at over $80,000: Somewhat under $20,000 was the gross result of the auction.

Japan Film Industry Lacks Money To Make Pictures Epual To America

BY LUTHER A. HUSTON
International News Service Staff Correspondent

TOKIO, Sept. 17.—Japanese motion picture actors and actresses are just as good as those in Hollwood, but Japanese films are inferior to American films because of lack of money to spend in their production.

Hollwood stars and directors who talk about their "art" are talking through their hats. The only real "art" in the movie comes from France, Germany and Russia.

Such is the opinion, at least, of Chikushi Midzutani, stage director of the Shochiku Studio, one of the largest film plants in Japan. Midzutani and his sister Miss Yaeko Midzutani, who is called the "Mary Pickford" of Japan, have just returned from a three months' visit to the United States.

"My sister and I," said Midzutani, "were struck with the fact that everything in American studios was done on a large scale, the studios we visited being equipped with everything necessary to turn out a really high-class film. Japan, unfortunately, has not the same amount or quality of equipment, hence the pictures produced cannot be compared with those of the United States. I believe that our artists are quite as good as those at Hollywood and the matter of cost is largely at the back of Japanese inferiority of production.

"I was asked by Americans what I thought of American comedy. I replied that it was extremely questionable if a comedy can be considered as art. Comedy is intended to be laughter-provoking, but it has no depth. It is my opinion that there is not much of stage art in the United States or England. The types of film that require real artists for their production are those manufactured in Germany, France and Russia. Films made in those countries are not exported because Americans do not care for them. In that respect Japan is more fortunate because many of these films are imported here."

Midzutani also spoke a little scornfully of the American preference for the romantic film with the happy ending. He intimated that he regarded this American characteristic as a deterrent to artistic achievement. That is one of the fundamental differences between the Japanese theater and the American theater; the Japanese are most pleased when the play ends with the unhappy lovers committing the "shinju", or double suicide, so they may find happiness together in another world.

Flexible Dollar Rate Introduced

(International News Service)

BERLIN, Sept. 17.—The last barrier erected to protect the German mark from fluctuatons will fall, after all. The Rechsbank decided to introduce, shortly, the flexible dollar rate, so that the United States dollar will be subject to fluctuations here just as in all other countries of the world.

As a matter of fact this measure will not materially change conditions on the money market because the American dollar is practically a standard currency in Europe. The demand for American dollars decreased considerably since the German mark has been stabilized. Only a limited number of exporting firms and certain banks take an interest in it.

With the introduction of a flexible dollar rate here the German mark, abroad, will automatically become subject to fluctuations like any other currency rate. Financial experts hold that the Reichsbank measure is another proof of the soundness of German finances and the steady, though slow, economic recovery of Germany.

Germans Eager To Get Crown At Amsterdam

Hope To Win Laurels In 1928 Olympic Games By Defeating Americans.

Papers See Uncle Sam As "Pricking Up His Ears" At Teuton Athletes.

By WALTER DIETZEL
International News Service Staff Correspondent

BERLIN, Sept. 17.—"Will the Germans be able to tear the crown off the heads of the American Olympic team at the 1928 Amsterdam games, will they mean serious competition for the Americans at all and break the American world hegemony in sports?"

This is the question on the lips of thousands of German sportsmen and it is being ventilated by numerous sporting editors in view of the undoubtedly great success German sportsmen had in the national British championships and the three-country games at Basel where the Germans beat the elite of the Swiss and French athletics to a frazzle.

Almost every day the papers carry some story about "Uncle Sam pricking up his ears" or, "Americans fearing for their athletic hegemony," which shows that they are all looking to the United States for praise or criticism. Most editors warn against premature rejoicing pointing out that the "Americans will double their efforts to make it hard for the Germans."

Two Years Away.

Also stress is laid on the fact that "two years are a long time," that the Amsterdam games are out of measurable time in the sporting sense. "Plenty of water will go down the rivers before that time," some critics say, "and it is to be shown yet whether the Germans will keep up their good record and be well prepared for the battle."

This, indeed, is one of the weakest points in German sporting life; endurance and keeping fit for a prolonged time. It is one of the drawbacks in German amateur sport that the German "cracks" are not being sufficiently supported by their clubs and by private people. The result is that they are compelled to make a living in the very sense of the word, for the German amateurship regulations are very stringent in that respect. Consequently most of the German stars lack a proper systematic training, with the exception of a few student athletes who are financially independent as they are living on "father's pocket". The "sporting fever" has not yet seized the Germans to an extent that "bosses" and superiors will shut their eyes on their sporting employes' extra holiday on the occasion of big sporting events in Germany or abroad.

Systematic Training.

Anyhow, under the leadership of the Reich coach, the German American Waitzer, the German team already started systematic training for the Amsterdam games and the results, so far, have been beyond expectation.

Many critics doubt the German ability to compete successfully with the Americans because Germany has not yet fully developed the type of the "all around" athlete, in which the Americans are excelling and who scored many, many points for their team in all Olympic games. True to his individualistic nature, the German rather developed half a dozen "specialists" who doubtlessly may be counted among the best athletes of Europe, if not the world.

Among these are Dr. Peltzer of Stettin, the man who won the English mile championship in a world record time and several short distance sprinters including the young students Koernig (Breslau) and Corts (Stuttgart). Also, Hubert Houben, who failed to achieve any notable success while in the states, "is coming back" and ran a life and death race in the German relay team at the three-country games at Basel, Switzerland.

That the Germans are trying hard is shown by the fact that a German jumper of 1,68 meter heighth scored 1,87 meter in high jump that is he jumped about 20 centimeters more than his own heighth, which is certainly not the rule with high jumpers.

MAJ. GEN. C. P. SUMMERALL.

A native of Florida, Maj. Gen. Charles P. Summerall, may be the next U. S. army chief of staff. The present chief of staff, Maj. Gen. John L. Hines is to leave the service in December. Of the seven major generals who are in line for this blue ribbon post of the army, the name of General Summerall appears to lead all the rest.

MAJ. GEN. CHARLES SUMMERALL

Major General Summerall distinguished himself during the closing months of the world war as commander of the First division of the A. E. F. He was in command of the First at St. Mihiel and in the Argonne when the First took the heights of the Aire and forced a wedge into the German line. He also led the division through the hot fighting at Soissons.

Charles Pelot Summerall was born at Lane City, Fla., March 4 1867. He was graduated from the U. S. Military academy in 1892, and was commissioned a second lieutenant of infantry. He served in the Philippine campaign, 1899-1900 and was with the China Relief expedition in 1900-1. He joined the A. E. F. in France in October 1917. He became a major general in 1920.

At present he is commander of the second U. S. Army Corps area, with headquarters in New York city. His home is at Eustis, Fla.

RAYMOND T. BAKER

Nevada Democrats have placed in nomination for the U. S. Senate to succeed Tasker L. Oddie, Republican, a former director of the U. S. mint, Raymond T. Baker. While the state is normally Republican, Baker is admittedly popular and his party is hopeful that this popularity will result in the reduction of Republican strength in the upper house of congress.

RAY. BAKER

Baker was born in Nevada, and for many years has been prominently identified with mining development in his state. Yet he has taken time off for government service. He was secretary to the American Ambassador at Petrograd, Russia, 1914-16, and was director of the mint from 1917 to 1922.

He is president of the Scheeline Banking and Trust Co. of Reno, and vice president of the Anglo and London Paris National Bank of San Francisco. He is also a member of the Gold Commission, appointed by the Secretary of the U. S. Treasury in 1918.

JOHNSTON AND TILDEN LOSE NET MATCHES

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Sept. 17.—William T. Tilder II, king of American tennis for six straight years was toppled from his throne Thursday by a stripling from France in as sensational a struggle as any national championship tournament has ever witnessed.

Henri Cochet 24-year old French star who was not considered formidable enough to play for his country in the Davis cup singles accomplished the downfall of the famous titleholder in five sets after a spectacular, pulse-stirring battle that was in doubt until its closing moments. The scores were 6-8, 6-1, 6-3, 1-6, 8-6.

Borotra Beats Johnston.

Jean Borotra the colorful Bounding Basque and holder of the Wimbledon championship brought about the closing upset with a smashing rally that carried him to victory over the tiring Johnston in five sets decided by scores of 3-6, 4-6, 6-3, 6-4, 6-4.

Altogether it was as dark and gloomy a day as American tennis ever has known for Rene Lacoste, third of the major French threats, forbew his way to the semifinals by overcoming the United States Davis cup captain, Richard Norris Williams in straight sets 6-0, 6-3, 8-6.

Vincent Richards, youngest of America's "big four" was the only one of the quartet to escape defeat in the French onslaught and now stands out as Uncle Sam's sole hope of keeping the national tennis title on home shores. The convincing a manner in which Richard disposed of Jacques Brugnon, however at 6-2, 6-1, 6-2 convinced observers he is at the top of his game for the fight against the French invasion.

Spain May Build Tunnel To Africa

(International News Service)

MADRID, Sept. 17.—With the Moroccan problem settled for the time being Spanish officials are again studying, on the suggestion of King Alfonso, the project of building a railroad tunnel under the Straits of Gibraltar, uniting Spain with her Moroccan colony. The plan was first considered in 1918 but abandoned because of the state of finances of the Spanish treasury and the uncertainty of the Moroccan regime.

The tunnel would begin at the Spanish town of Tarifa but the African terminus has not been decided upon.

It is estimated that the cost of constructing such a tunnel would be about $75,000,000. It would be sixteen miles long, making the crossing, which now averages two hours by boat, not longer than twenty minutes.

If the tunnel is ever constructed the entire Spanish railway system guage, permitting international cars to make the trip from Paris to Casablanca and more distant points.

British Mining Faces Trouble For Long Time

Coal Industry Can Never Recover Under Present System, Says Owner

Overproduction Is Called Root Of Difficulties As Labor Sulks

By CHARLES A. SMITH
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, Sept. 17.—The British coal industry will never be free from its present troubles until the whole system of output is regulated and production decreased, in the opinion of Sir Alfred Mond, M. P., former cabinet minister and a director and owner of some of the biggest coal, iron and steel companies in Britain.

Over-production is at the root of the whole trouble, according to Sir Alfred, who favors the amalgamation of the dozens of small coal-producing concerns into one large corporation, thus cutting out the numerous overhead and other charges which each of these small companies have to meet.

"I believe the solution lies in decreased output," Sir Alfred said in an interview. "At the present moment Britain is suffering from slaughtering of prices and has led to the present economic situation.

Regulate Production.

"Unless the production is regulated to accord with consumption we will never get out of the difficulty. We will have alternate periods of boom and slump, such has been known in the British industry over a long period. It is bad for the coal industry and its development and detrimental to industry generally.

"What we should aim at is to stabilize prices by properly controlling production and sales. It is practically the experience of every great industry in the world, and the whole tendency of industry today is to get together both nationally and internationally in an endeavor to avoid unnecessary waste of capital and expenditure. In fact, the tendency should be to make coal mining an industry and not a gamble."

To Encourage Men.

Remarking that many owners have found that even after installing up-to-date plant and machinery in their works their production had not greatly increased nor their expenditure diminished, Sir Alfred said:

"What is necessary is that a profit-sharing scheme should be devised to encourage the men to take a greater interest in their work. What is wanted is that a man on a particular job should get a more direct result of his action.

"I do not hold the opinion that oil will oust coal from its position of pre-eminence," Sir Alfred said, "for, apart from the fact that it is too expensive there is not enough of it. Coal will still be the dominant fuel and power factor."

Foreign Farmers Take Up Methods Used In America

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—Sturdy American hoes, rakes and plows—similar to those used to till American farm lands for a score of years are now wearing blisters on the hands of tens of thousands of farmers in foreign lands, the Department of Commerce announced today.

The preference of foreign griculturalists for American made farm implements, it was stated, has caused a tidal wave of export trade in these lines. The exports of farm implements for the first six months of 1926, it was added, smashed all preceding records and surpassed even the total annual exports for a dozen pre-war years.

The exports, valued at $48,906,565, it was stated, were 33 per cent higher than in the same period of 1925 and 45 per cent more than during the first six months of 1924.

"Approximately 83 per cent of exports were shipped to ten countries," the department announced. "The largest percentage was taken by Canada, Argentina, Russia and France, the other countries included in the first ten being Italy, Australia, Mexico, British South Africa, the United Kingdom and Sweden."

Austrian Churches Sell Art Treasures

(International News Service)

VIENNA, Sept. 17.—Most of the churches and monasteries of Austria are being supported nowadays by the sale of their treasures. Particularly in the country districts the people are unable to support their parishes as before the war and large sums are needed to repair the buildings which in most cases have not been touched for a decade.

The Bishropic of Mattsee is now offering its greatest treasure, the original volume of the "Annales Ferdinandei", for sale. The book contains an account of the private and political life of the Hapsburg Ferdinand II from 1615 to 1637 and is the most authentic history of the events leading up to the Thirty Years War.

The money obtained by the Monks of the monastery at Melk for the famous Guttenburg Bible sold to an American already is being spent on repairing the old church and buildings.

San Antonio Is Making Bid For Movie Business

(International News Service)

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, Sept. 17.—Hollywood and environs better watch out for their laurels. San Antonio boosters say this Texas city is "after" the movie industry.

Blessed with clear balmy weather practically the year round without the discomforts identified with a coast climate the Alamo City of Texas history is giving every encouragement to the movie industry.

As a result one cast is on location here now and arrangements are being completed for entertaining another conglomeration of stellar lights of the cinema profession. The second company is expected to snap into action with the yell of "camera" any day.

A crew of 1,200 workmen are making location near Camp Stanley here for the filming of "Wings" The cast is expected to number 100 from the Famous Players-Lackey lot in California. The production is reported to be another world war drama.

With several days work behind them a company already is at work for Paramount here. They are refighting the Spanish-American war for the benefit of a picture to be called "The Rough Riders."

Locals of both companies were made here because of ideal weather conditions and possibly primarily because of the natural settings furnished by the government army, aviation and other camps in the vicinity. The "Wings" production will require a ten mile square "battlefield."

Simultaneously with establishment of the film lots movie magazines and other writers following the industry have established headquarters here to get the usual amount of advance dope and what have you to help make the coming pictures successes.

In The News Here And There

'TISN'T DONE.

VENICE, Italy—Lady Diana Cooper and a bevy of her aristocratic English friends have just about frightened the romantic sweetness of this amphibian metropolis. In good old London style they organized a treasure hunt with St. Marks as the center of operations, and in no time at all they contrived to work themselves and the populace in general into a state of high excitement. That's one of the aims of treasure hunting. However, the Fascist police neither understood nor appreciated the affair, and, just when things were going their merriest, stepped in and put a quietus on the whole business One result of the evening's fun may be that King George will be asked to administer a royal reprimand to his skylarking subjects. In the meantime, Lady Diana and her friends are wondering what next to do.

LONDON—Summaries of accidents throughout the British empire reveal the fact that last year 21,841 of the population of India were killed by wild animals. Of that number 19,308 met death by snake poisoning or constriction. . . . After all, there are worse things than trying to cross Main Street during the traffic rush hour.

REAL FOLKS.

NEW YORK—Mrs. C. A. Dawson Scott, eminent in English literary life as an author and founder of the P. E. N. movement, which aims to unite writers of all nations in a mutual fellow-feeling, arrived for an American visit on the Olympic. But unlike most, if not all, distinguished British visitors, Mrs. Dawson Scott landed as a third class passenger. She made the experiment to see what conditions immigrants have to meet at Ellis Island. While she found much that was pure nuisance, she is of the opinion that her third class venture was profitable in that she met many "real people"—people whose real human interest was as high or higher than that of the usual run of first class passengers.

Borah And Reed Are Termed Ready Timber For Presidency Job

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—The names of Senator Wiliam E. Borah, of Idaho, and Senator James A. Reed, of Missouri, were proposed as "available for the presidency" in 1928 by Dr. Hiram W. Evans, imperial wizard of the Ku Klux Klan.

Granting a political interview for the first time in the history of the Klan, Evans endorsed both Reed and Borah as "first class, upstanding Americans," whom Klansmen would be glad to suport. He served notice too that the Klan would take an "active part" in all future elections, particularly the November congressional elections and two years hence in the presidential campaign.

As anticipated, Evans declared Governor Al Smith, of New York, had "no chance" to win the presidency. The ruler of the "invisible empire" in fact made it plain that Klansmen would desert the Democratic party, leaping across party lines into the Republican ranks if Smith were nominated by the Democrats.

Reed Is Wet

"Who are available for the Presidency?" he was asked.

"There is Senator Reed," replied Evans. "He is one of our greatest citizens. He is a champion of the constitution and American institution."

"But he is wet," it was suggested.

"He's a great American just the same," Evans replied. "Some times a Klansman will support a wet when prohibition is not an issue and when the candidate measures up to our standards in other respects."

Evans cited an instance where in a recent election, the Klan supported a "wet Catholic against a "dry" Protestant, because the membership did not feel the Protestant was worthy of election.

"The Klan will never elect a thing instead of a man," Evans added. "We always vote for a man whom we believe is qualified to serve our nation best and whom we believe will give the nation his best service."

Evans declared Borah was "available" because he was "one of our greatest living Americans." The Idaho senator, he added, while playing a lone hand has won the support of millions by his policy of "America-First" in international affairs.

As for issues in 1928, Evans said it was "far too early to tell what will decide the next presidential campaign.

"It may be economic and again it may be something else," the Wizard said, and smilingly added: "There may even be a war with Italy."

"What are Al Smith's chance?" he was asked.

"No Kansman will support a nullifier," Evans said spiritedly. "No man can ever be elected president in this country who does not give undivided allegiance to the federal constitution."

Donahey On Horizon

Governor Vic Donahey and former Senator Atlee Pomerene are also on the "presidential Horizon", Evans said, if they win their elections in Ohio this fall.

Evans declared the United States must demand full settlement of foreign debts. He endorsed the proposal of Senator T. H. Caraway, D., of Arkansas, that France should be given the choice of "paying in full" or "repudiating the entire debt."

Evans also declared the American government should show a "firm front" toward Mussolini.

"The American people don't like sword-shaking or dictatorships," Evans said. "And America isn't going to be dictated to by any Italian man of war."

FOOT EXPERT SUCCESSFULLY TREATED OVER 300 NEW CASTLE PEOPLE ONE WEEK

Startling results were obtained by nationally known Specialist. Bunions, Callouses and Sore and Inflamed Joints particularly, yield to treatment.

During his recent visit to New Castle, Paul Viteto, famous foot specialist, actually treated over three hundred people of this city. These represented many who had suffered for years from foot troubles. The splendid results obtained were laid by Mr. Viteto to the use of the recently perfected preparation of Dr. Bower's, known as Dr. Bower's Bunion Paint.

Mr. Viteto says of this preparation, Dr. Bower's Bunion Paint without question marks a great discovery. Painful bunions, foot callouses of all descriptions and sore and inflamed joints yield quickly to its healing powers. People no longer have any excuse for suffering from these afflictions when for a small amount they can get Dr. Bower's Bunion Paint. Einstein Plans California Visit

(International News Service)

PASADENA, Cal., Sept. 17. — Southern California scientific circles were greatly interested in the recent announcement that Dr. Albert Einstein, noted German scientist and the discoverer of the complex theory of relativity, may visit here next winter.

His visit here is contingent upon his health, Dean F. W. Hinrichs of the California Institute of Technology declared.

Einstein was invited to come to Pasadena and make use of the institute's facilities. Einstein planned to work with scholars at Mt. Wilson observatory, near here, and at the institute, who are conducting researches into Einstein's theory.

Flood Of Capital Flows To Europe

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—American money continued to flow into the rehabilitating countries of Europe particularly Germany, during the first six months of the year. The Federal reserve board's monthly review, made public today, showed that approximately $200,000,000 in European securities were disposed of in this country during this period.

A new record for capital flotations was established during the period, $3,500,000,000, or about $500,000,000 more than for the preceding six months. Nearly half the total issues were offered by public utilities companies, which in April, May and June, issued more new securities than all industrial companies combined.

Is there carbon in your car?

—then fill your tank with Sterling Ethyl Gasoline and turn the carbon into power.

STERLING Ethyl Gasoline puts carbon to work. It turns the carbon deposits now in your cylinders into an agency of service—a source of greater power and smoother running.

The first tankful of Sterling Ethyl will stop all "knocking" and you'll notice how the carbon pulls for you when you take a hill on high — or crawl in a traffic jam.

Sterling Ethyl Gasoline was developed by the great Research Laboratories of General Motors. It has no substitute. No other fuel is comparable. Fill your tank today.

STERLING ETHYL GASOLINE
Knocks out that "knock"

NOTICE: Dilution of Sterling Ethyl Gasoline with other fuels decreases its effectiveness. Therefore it is important to drain your tank before filling it with Sterling Ethyl Gasoline for the first time —and to use Sterling Ethyl Gasoline exclusively thereafter.

Remember also that no motor fuel will "grind valves." While Sterling Ethyl Gasoline makes carbon an agency of service, you must keep your valves in good condition.

U. S. Tourists Spent $226,000,000 With French Last Year

(International News Service)

PARIS, Sept. 17.—Figures just published by the French National Tourist Office, compiled in collaboration with the United States Department of Commerce, show that 220,000 Americans visited France during 1925 and spent $226,160,000, an average of slightly over $1,000 each.

Figures for 1926 are not yet available but it is estimated that there were at least 50,000 more American visitors and that they spent correspondingly more money.

Four thousand four hundred of the Americans visiting France last year were millionaires, spending, it is estimated, an average of $5,000 each. Students, teachers and employed persons on vacations numbered 61,600 and spent $425 each. Merchants, industrialists and professional men made up the most important class of tourists, numbering 96,800 and spending $850 each. Thirty-nine thousand six hundred tourists were classed as wealthy and spent $1,760 each while 17,600 persons combined business with pleasure and spent $1,500 each.

English tourists were by far the most numerous in France, totalling 760,000 to 685,000 Spanish, 38,588 Dutch and 13,545 Swiss.

World Coal Market Is Showing Decline

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—The consumer's winter prayer, that coal may become a drug on the market, may some day be realized—if he lives long enough—according to a Department of Commerce announcement that the world coal markets has shown a sharp decline.

Increased consumption of fuel oil, hydro-electric developments and increasing coal production in nations, which formerly were large imports of American coal, have caused a loss of trade to American coal exporters, the department stated. The same conditions apply both to Great Britain and Germany, which rank with the United States, as the leading coal exporting nations of the world.

If this situation continues, it was broadly intimated, American coal companies may have nothing else to do with their product except to sell it to American consumers. If such a condition ever occurs, the prices undoubtedly will decline.

The United States meanwhile shows the smallest decline of the three coal-exporting leaders in the tonnage exported. The loss of coal trade by this country, the department announced, was a reduction from 21,000,000 long tons in 1913 to 19,000,000 long tons last year. The British loss was a drop from 73,000,000 tons in 1913 to 51,000,000 in 1925 while the German reduction was from 34,000,000 tons to 14,000,000 in the same period.

Ohio Investigators Still Puzzled Over Don Mellett Murder

International News Service Staff Correspondent

CANTON, Ohio, Sept. 17.—Although three men have been indicted for first degree murder in connection with the murder of Don R. Mellett vice-fighting Canton newspaperman, there are many questions still puzzling the investigators.

First among the enigmatic questions stands the query:

Who attempted to telephone Mellett at the Canton Daily News Office about 45 minutes before he was slain?

That such a call had been made was first revealed by International News Service three days after the murder.

The call was received by Earl Shaeffer, press foreman of the Canton Daily News about 11:30 p. m. on the night of the crime.

A fluent speaking man excitedly asked for Mellett, asked where he lived, and demanded his telephone number.

Perhaps that man tried to warn the unfortunate editor; if so, his attempt was futile—Mellett did not arrive at his home until a few minutes before he was killed.

A Warning Caller

The man to whom all evidence points as the warning caller—a world war hero, friend of Mellet's yet related by marriage to a suspect in the case—denies all knowledge of the mysterious telephone message.

Another question that is worrying the investigators:

Where is Patrick Eugene McDermott, alleged hired-triggerman and key witness?

McDermott, one of the indicted trio has not been seen since 12 days following the murder.

Where is the "ivory handled" revolver of Spanish manufacturer that shot copper-jacketed bullets?

That is another question confronting investigating oficers.

It is known by investigators to have changed hands several times since the murder.

The investigators learned that it was first gotten by a Canton policeman from a "gun-toter."

The policeman sold it to a suspect in the Mellett case.

Immediately after the murder it was again seen in the hands of another policeman.

Now it has disappeared completely.

Mellett was killed by a copper-nosed bullet.

Who really plotted the crime?

Several Plotters

Evidence points to several men as possible plotters—and any one of them may later be included in other indictments.

But, investigators admit, all of their evidence is circumstantial and that it would be hard to convict an alleged plotter on circumstantial evidence.

Who will confess or 'squeal'?

The entire case in now based upon purely circumstantial evidence, authorities state, and either an eye-witness or a confession involving others, is of high importance.

Louis Mazer and Ben Rudner are being held in jail here pending trial.

Peggy Cavanaugh and Steve Kascholk, material witnesses, are also being held under heavy bond.

Meantime the investigation into the contributing causes of the murder, with a view to ensnaring the higher-ups, continues under the direction of county prosecutor C. B. McClintock.

Vienna Citizens Eat Lots Of Eggs

(International News Service)

VIENNA, Sept. 17.—War has changed the Viennese taste in food. The population of the city now eats less veal and pork than before the war but consume amost 50 per cent more eggs. The reason is of course that the restricted diet of the war period lessened the desire for meat which Austrians used in excess when it was plentiful.

In 1913 there were 47,000,000 eggs sold on the market and last year 68,000,000. Teh veal and pork sold in 1913 amounted to 1,100,000 kilos and 6,500,000 kilos while in 1925 the figures were 200,000 2,300,000 kilos in order, A kilo is about two and one-fifths pounds.

BOROUGH IS UPHELD IN GIVING CERTAIN STREET TO COASTING

BEAVER, Pa., Sept. 17.—Borough authorities may set aside certain streets for coasting for boys and girls, according to a decision given yesterday by Judge William A. McConnel in fining Clifford Wagner of Westmayfield $25 and costs on a charge of reckless driving.

It was charged that Wagner had driven down a street where boys and girls were coasting. He was fined by Burgess Harry Ridings of Westmayfield, but appealed the case. The opinion of the court was that the borough authorities had the right to regulate traffic on the municipal highways.

TWO FIGHT TICKETS SOLD FOR $1,295

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 17.—One speculator here sold a pair of Dempsey-Tunney seats in the sixth row at ringside for $1,295. These are priced at $27.50, so one can figure out his own premium percentage on that particular pair of seats.

And the most peculiar slant of that sale is the fact that the Cleveland millionaire who bought them is known not to be a fight fan. But his purchase is a very good tip-off on how "the battle of the sesqui" is revolutioning attendance at boxing bouts.

Boost U. S. Goods In Europe's Market

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—In an effort to improve the European market for American-made goods, Dr. Julius Klein, director of the Foreign Commerce Bureau in the Department of Commerce, is now abroad conducting an economic survey.

Dr. Klein sailed September 1 to visit 27 European cities in search for additional trade information, which will tend to promotoe the American export trade. His tour includes Hamburg, Copenhagen, Vienna, Budapest, Bucharest, Constantinople, Sofia, Belgrade, Milan, Frankford, Cologne and Paris.

With Europe furnishing the largest foreign market for American goods, Dr. Klein planned his trip with a view to strengthening the Department of Commerce's trade outposts throughout the continent. The export trade to the nations on his tour was $2,000,000,000 alone in 1925 and authorities expect this figure to be exceeded this year.

"The prime purpose," said the department announcement, "of Dr. Klein's trip is to assure to American business the continued receipt of timely and practical trade information by the department from the twenty trade offices which it maintains in Europe."

In a mammoth plant near New Orleans, gigantic machines are producing boards of Celotex that are shipped to all parts of the world. A single day's output of the Celotex plant equals the amount of lumber that could be cut from a seventy-five acre tract of pine timber.

Amazing Lumber
that isn't cut from trees!

Celotex stops heat and cold many times as effectively as wood lumber . . . is stronger in walls . . . yet costs no more to use. Year after year, it will save from 25% to 35% of your fuel money.

FIVE years ago, a way was found to make lumber that possesses structural advantages plus insulating properties that wood alone can never offer.

It was a complete new building material: a heat-stopping lumber that banished cold draughty rooms and wasted fuel in Winter . . . hot, stuffy rooms in Summer.

How Celotex is used in both old and new houses

AS SHEATHING
Celotex supplies the insulation needed back of brick, wood or stucco exteriors.

UNDER PLASTER
On inside walls and ceilings, plaster is applied directly to the surface of Celotex.

IN THE ROOF
Celotex applied over or under roof rafters gives protection where it is most needed

This amazing lumber is Celotex. It is not cut from trees, but manufactured in broad strong boards from the tough fibres of cane. It is enduring . . . scientifically sterilized and waterproofed. Celotex is stronger in walls than wood lumber and many times better as insulation. Wind and moisture can not penetrate it. It quiets noise.

ACTUALLY saves money. Unlike ordinary insulation, Celotex is not an extra item in building. Wherever used, it replaces other materials, adding insulation at little or no extra cost.

With the walls and ceilings or roof of your house covered with Celotex a smaller, less expensive heating plant and smaller radiators will keep you comfortable. And year after year, Celotex will save from 25% to 35% of your fuel bill!

NEW COMFORT for old houses. In houses already built, a big measure of this comfort and economy is being secured by lining attics and basements with Celotex.

Let us tell you more about Celotex before you build or buy.

Plan For Paris Legion Convention Next Year Will Probably Be Dropped

Indications Are That American Legion Convention Will Turn Idea Down

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—The whole ambitious project of chartering a fleet of steamers and transporting the 1927 convention of the American Legion to Paris next summer is tottering.

Opposition to the Paris pilgrimage, which has been growing steadily since the boulevard crowds first began to hoot and attack American tourists, has now attained such proportions, it was learned today, that it is not unlikely the legion itself will abandon the undertaking at its forthcoming Philadelphia gathering.

Trip Is Opposed.

Several state organizations have already gone on record as opposing the trip. The Illinois and Iowa legionnaires by convention action are the latest to grow cold on the project.

If the legion does decide at Philadelphia to abandon the plan, the decision will meet with the quiet—if unexpressed—approval of government officials. They have been contemplating the pilgrimage with some trepidation ever since it was first broached. The picture of some thousands of ex-doughboys returning to a Paris that is totally unlike the Paris of their memories in 1917 is one that has given the diplomatic part of the government no little concern.

Serious Concern.

The events of the summer, the attacks on Americans by Parisian crowds, the tensity of the feeling over the war debt, and the general unpopularity of Americans abroad, reported by almost every incoming traveller, have not acted to allay this concern. On the contrary, it has enormously increased it.

Since June there has been a steady stream of officials returning to Washington from European jaunts, and nine out of every ten have expressed doubt as to the advisability of the legion's going to Paris next year "in view of existing conditions."

Senator Caraway (D) of Arkansas, the latest returning member of the senate, feels so wrothy about the reception of Americans abroad that he is openly advocating an appropriation by congress to bring back America's war dead from their resting places in half a dozen French cemeteries.

Senator Pat Harrison D) of Mississippi, who preceded him, urged an "embargo on American tourists" until such time as public feeling abroad, and particularly in France, has had a change for the better.

Canned Fruit Idea Popular In Hungary

(International News Service)

BUDAPEST, Sept. 17.—The American idea of preserving fruit and vegetables for winter use has become popular in Hungary. During the relief work of the Red Cross and other organizations in the country several of the workers demonstrated to housewives how to save surplus fruit by canning it.

The government has now taken up the idea and the Department of Agriculture has sent out women to teach the country folk this new idea.

This year the fruit crop of the country is bountiful and should furnish sufficient preserved goods to last throughout the winter months.

Egg Championships Start In Thirteen States And Canada

(International News Service)

ATHENS, Ga., Sept. 17.—Leading poultrymen of thirteen states and the Dominion of Canada have entered champion hens in the national egg-laying contest which will be held at the Georgia State College of Agriculture, beginning November 1, and continuing for 51 weeks.

White Leghorns will predominate in the contest, but there will be many Wyandottes, Black Minocas, Rhode Island Reds, Anconas, Kiwis, and Plymouth Rocks from Alberta. The list of competitors includes entries from Alabama, South Carolina, Florida, Virginia, Michigan, Wisconsin, California, Washington, and the District of Columbia.

Modernizing Of Castle Done To Queen's Taste

LONDON, Sept. 17.—Ladies-in-waiting to Queen Mary no longer shiver miserably while on duty at Balmoral Castle, as they did in the days of Queen Victoria. The castle has been modernized, and the minister in attendance to the King needs no longer to use his bed as a writing table and his chimney as a smoking room.

The task of bringing the castle into line with modern ideas of comfort and sanitation started in King Edward's reign, has just been completed. Though the interior furnishings are quite simple, the castle is homelike, and this year for the first time is not the uncomfortable, draught-riddled home which Queen Victoria regarded with such affection.

Mounted Police Get Cheer By U. S. Radio

(International News Service)

DENVER, Sept. 17.—Radio programs from stations in the United States go a long way toward alleviating the loneliness of the famous mounted police in the icy Northwest, according to a letter received at KOA, Rocky Mountain broadcasting station, here.

Though the Aurora Borealis—Northern Lights—affects radio reception at times, the sunless months of November, December and January afford splendid reception.

"As the green and gold lights sweep across the blackened sky during the activities of the Aurora", the letter states, "there is a corresponding rise and fall in radio reception. An unusually brilliant flash of flaming red and yellow lights puts the instrument out of commission."

The letter, from Sergeant Frank A. Barnes of the Royal Northwest Mounted Police, states that the howling blizzards of the country apparently had little effect upon the ethereal waves.

"Stationed on the frozen outposts of the earth", Sergeant Barnes wrote, "radio is our only contact with a white man's world."

MacMillan To Make Extended Scientific Study Of Labrador

NEW YORK, Sept. 17. — A five-year scientific study of the far north will be started next summer, Donald MacMillan, Arctic explorer, made it known today. A scientific station, he said, would be established at Kowk, near Nain, Labrador.

MacMillan plans to remain at the station 15 months and then return to civilization for fresh supplies. He will be accompanied by five scientists to study the inhabitants, birds, fowl, rocks and vegetation and also the excavation of Norse ruins.

200 Men Work On Big Fight Stadium

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 17.—Ten carloads of lumber containing 300,000 feet was received by the contractors, who are putting the mighty sesqui horseshoe in shape for the coming Jack Dempsey-Gene Tunney fight, September 23. If placed in a straight line this lumber would reach from the Sesqui-Centennial to Jack Dempsey's training quarters in Atlantic City, it was said.

More than 200 carpenters have begun work to construct seats which will close up the north end of the horseshoe shaped arena and thereby make it a complete oval.

In this section, Tex Richard declared 22,000 seats are expected to be placed, with prices ranging from $3.00 to $11.00 to enable the fight promoter to supply the ever increasing demand for seats at those prices.

From present indications it is said the ring will be pitched in the center of the space which will afford the best possible view for the entire seating capacity.

Other details in connection with the seating capacity for the permanent stands of the structure are being completed. Large signs are being installed over all sections to denote at a glance just where each reservation in that particular section is located. This will afford a great convenience, Rickard declared, to the patrons on the night of the bout and it is intended to avoid as much as possible any chance of confusion.

What Are You Studying?

HISTORY, mathematics, literature, languages, science? In your whole curriculum, there is no lesson more important than how to guard your health. Long after your hard-won French vocabulary is forgotten, you will be putting into daily practice—if you are wise—the rules of health.

School work, with its continual studying, its sports, dances and social affairs demands a vigorous body. How discouraging it is to miss the good times. And sometimes, how unnecessary.

First of all, then, learn the lesson of health. Find out what fresh air will do, exercise, sleep and proper food. Many school girls have learned that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has helped them to find the health they needed and has made their school days happier.

"I gave my fifteen year old daughter, Louise, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it did her a wonderful lot of good. She had been out of school for four months. I read the advertisements of the Vegetable Compound, and since she has taken it she has improved and has gone back to school again. I recommend the Vegetable Compound to other mothers with girls who are not as strong as they should be."

American Automobile Association Says Wife Is Tour Boss

Some Amusing Incidents Come Before Touring Bureaus In U. S.

(Special To The News)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 17.—Mere man is in the majority of cases accorded the privilege of driving the car while en tour, but when it comes to deciding where the tour will be, how long it shall extend, where to stop and where to eat, the women of the nation exercise all but supreme jurisdiction.

This, according to a statement issued from the National Headquarters of the American Automobile Association today, is one of the most interesting sidelights developed by the daily contact of 841 touring bureaus of A. A. A. clubs with the motor caravanserie of the nation.

For some unexplained reason, the attaches behind the touring counters are admitted into the inner circles of the family and stand by while the issues of the tour are being decided. Experience has taught these attaches that they will save time by giving the routing originally requested by the woman.

The Woman Wins

"The man or men of the party may for half a dozen reasons want to get back home, but the women usually decide when and how," the A. A. A. statement observes.

" 'I've got to get home,' " Mr. Husband declares bluntly.

" 'But we haven't seen near all of it yet, dear,' "his better half protests, calmly but firmly.

" 'I'm sorry, but we can't go much further,' friend husband rejoins, a trifle irritated. 'The tires are going fast. Besides, I can see the baby's getting sick. He can't stand this sort of thing. And my business will go to rack and ruin. You'll get all worn out, yourself. And I'm running low on money. It just can't be done, that's all.'

"The wife, who perhaps knows better, ignores all these reasons. Perhaps, she took pains not to hear them. In any event, she comes back with the emphatic:

" 'Well, we'll go ahead anyhow. I want to see the scenery. There's lots of it around.'

" 'Tell her the roads are impassable,' the husband whispers. If he adds, 'or by the Lord I'll break your neck!' he may get what he wants. But this rarely happens."

Some Incidents

Some amusing incidents revealing the very human characteristics of the 36,000,000 who spend part of the summer on wheels, are recorded:

"Four college boys who toured east from Kansas fell into a dispute at Washington as to where they would go next," the A. A. A. statement continued. "It was time to get back to school, but they wanted to see Florida. They appealed to the touring bureau clerk of the District Division to decide for them, and he temporized.

"Then, while a quickly gathering crowd looked on, they rolled dice on the touring bureau's floor. Florida won, and the boys will be an extra year finishing college as a result.

"One of the favorite night calls on the service department of the average bureau is this, by telephone:

" 'I've run out of gas. How soon can you get some out here?'

" 'Where are you?'

"There is a gasp at the other end of the wire. The gasless motorist is deflating. Finally he says:

" ' Why—er—I don't know.'

How Far Back

"There is the record of one woman, going from Cleveland, Ohio, to Hagerstown, Md., who asked how far the journey to the Maryland city was. When told, she asked naively:

" 'How far is it back?'

" 'How long can I keep a marriage license before I use it?' is another query, and a sweet innocent thing has been known to stand at the counter in the Richmond, Va., touring bureau and ask: 'Can you tell me, please, if it's raining now in Pittsburgh?' "

But for each of all these questions, foolish and otherwise, the A. A. A. disclosed, there is one that is asked 20 times:

"What is the shortest and best route from here to some place?"

Usually, there are other requisites. The road must be paved and in the finest condition. It must not run through too high hills. And it must have the best scenery possible.

"There could be no better training for the road engineer than a few weeks behind a touring bureau counter," the A. A. A. added. "He would learn precisely what the touring public wants, and if he could devise ways to fill the bill he would occupy a favored niche in the hall of fame."

Landlady Accused Of Burning Boarder

Soaked Clothing With Benzine Then Applied Match

NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—Charged with pouring benzine on the clothing of a boarder, when he announced he had decided to move, and then touching a match to it, Mrs. Mary Sliczynski, thirty-seven, of No. 33 Boyd street, Newark, is held on an open charge. Peter Saladka, the boarder, is in City Hospital, Newark, in a dying condition.

Saladka, before lapsing into unconsciousness, said he had lived in the Sliczynski home eight months, and that Mr. Sliczynski has been in the Newark City Hospital for several weeks. There are four children, all boys, aged thirteen, eleven, nine and seven, respectively. Yesterday Saladka found a more desirable room, he said, and announced his intention of moving.

"Is that so?" he quoted his landlady as saying. "Well, if you move anywhere, you'll move to your grave."

He took the remark lightly and went to his room, where he dozed on his bed. He was awakened by tricking of liquid over his face. Mrs. Sliczynski stood before him he said and lighting a match, touched it to his clothing. Instantly he was a mass of flames.

He rolled himself in a rug and managed to beat out the flames. His screams attracted other tenants and he was taken to the hospital. Police arrested Mrs. Sliczynski, but she denied the charge. One of her sons, however, was said by police to have corroborated Saladka's story.

Ananias Is Not Liar In Syria

DAMASCUS, Sept. 17.—Every American who comes to Damascus is told: "Don't fail to visit the house of Ananias."

Although after three weeks in Syria, visiting Beirut, and other large cities, and listening to some of the tales that are being related by the various sects and parties, one begins to feel that Ananias was greatly overrated and were he living in these days, in these parts, he could not have held down a berth in Class D of the Liars League, one feels that he cannot leave Damascus without calling on the patron of prevaricators.

He occupied a fine house, as houses in Damascus go, and must have been a prosperous old gentleman.

"Did he have any other profession besides that of a liar?" a guide was asked.

"Lawyer, he was not a lawyer, there were no lawyers in those days," the guide who learned his English in England, replied reprovingly.

"Liar! Liar!" was the emphatically repeated query.

"Aoh! a fibber, you mean," came back the Anglo-Syrian with a look of intense surprise. "Why this man is not known because he was a liar but he is the man who converted St. Paul."

They had never heard of Ananias, the liar, in this part of the world.

Plan Drastic Moves To Check Advance Of Japanese Beetle

By GEORGE H. MANNING
Washington Correspondent of The News)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 17——An emergency call for a conference to determine what drastic measures must be taken to protect the lawns, gardens and farms of Pennsylvania from the ravages of the dreaded Japanese beetle has been called by the Department of Agriculture for September 25.

This pest, which eats any growing plant and which has resisted all efforts to exterminate it, was thought to have been confined almost exclusively to New Jersey, but it has recently been discovered in Pennsylvania as far west as Harrisburg; in the Connecticut valley and up the Hudson as far as Albany.

Most Destructive

The Japanese beetle is the most destructive and the most feared of all insect pests in the United States. It feeds on almost any living plant, and is not checked by ordinary sprays. Lawns, golf courses, shade trees, gardens and farms have been utterly ruined by the beetle. Ripening fruit, leaves and bark of orchards have been eaten, leaving only the naked trees and the fruit pits.

The pest was discovered in New Jersey in 1916 and it has since developed rapidly and done incalculable damage. By means of strict quarantines, requiring a force of about 300 men to inspect every shipment of plants out of the infested area, it was hoped that the beetle could be confined to a comparatively small section. Now that the beetle has broken through the quarantine lines, however, new measures must be adopted at once.

Extend Quarantine Area

A very much larger quarantine area must be established by the Department of Agriculture, involving inspection of all produce moving out of the New York City commission markets. More rigid inspections must be given also, and total prohibition of certain plant shipments may be proposed. State agriculture departments of New York, New Jersey, Connecticut and Pennsylvania are aiding the federal government in its fight on the Japanese beetle in the hope that it will not become established in new areas.

In Japan the beetle is not a serious pest, as natural enemies keep it down; but in America it has no natural enemies. Scientists are now in the Orient collecting parasites to introduce in America to fight the beetle, and several are now being raised here which promise success.

Automobile traffic is held to be responsible for a good deal of the spread of the beetle through the quarantine lines. Tourists are watched to see that they do not carry out infected plants in ignorance of the quarantine regulations, but it is thought that often the beetles become lodged on automobiles which are not carrying plants or leaves, and in this way get past the inspectors and are transported long distances from the infested area.

It is the fear of the federal and state entomologists in charge that the Japanese beetle, now that it has broken through the quarantine to such an extent, may soon reach the Allegheny mountains. This would mean actual devastation of large areas of farming country in eastern United States, before effective parasites or combative measures are developed, and all suggestions for preventing this possibility are to be considered at the conference here September 25.

Celebrate Centennial of Historic Erie Canal

NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—A commemorative river pageant which promises to be the most picturesque and colorful New York City has witnessed since the Hudson-Fulton celebration, will be presented on Tuesday, October 7, to mark the 100th anniversary of the opening of the Erie Canal, now the State Barge Canal.

Aside from the spectacular features of the celebration, it will have a historic and commercial significance. There are to be educational exhibits and a banquet at which President Coolidge, Governor Smith and former Governors Nathan L. Miller and Charles S. Whitman are expected to speak. Mayor Walker will speak for the city.

The plans for the event are in the hands of the Erie Canal Centennial Commission of the state of New York, of which George Clinton of Buffalo is chairman. This commission, because of the historical importance of the occasion, was created by the legislature.

Chairman Clinton is a grandson of Governor DeWitt Clinton, who had the Erie Canal built despite great opposition and pessimism both in state and federal circles. Those who did not think the canal ever could be built called it "De Witt Clinton's dream" and "Clinton's big ditch." It has long since been admitted that the canal, bringing New York harbor in direct water connection with the Great Lakes and middle west, took the old commercial supremacy away from Philadelphia.

A mural decoration by Turner in the De Witt Clinton high school entitled "The Marriage of the Waters" will play an important role in the planning of the event. It shows Governor Clinton standing on the deck of the vessel Seneca Chief pouring into the Atlantic Ocean at Sandy Hook a bucket of water carried by the governor's party from Buffalo through the newly opened Erie Canal and down the Hudson River, where the voyagers were greeted from the Manhattan and Jersey shores.

By following the Turner painting, the committee will endeavor to reproduce the Seneca Chief and will place aboard her a group representing Governor Clinton and his staff. They will be attired in the garb of the time.

Florida Race Track Operators Are Planning For Rich Winter Season

FLORIDA—4

(International News Service)

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., Sept. 17—The race track operators of Florida evidently have a "fast one" up their sleeves, and are planning on a lucrative season this winter in spite of the state laws prohibiting pari-mutuel betting at the tracks or gambling on the races.

With appeals which were taken to the state supreme court by one horse track club and one greyhound track club dropped on the motion of counsel for the track owners, and with another club preparing an appeal to the supreme court from a circuit court verdict against track owners, announcements have been made recently that a new greyhound track will be opened in Miami this winter and a new horse track will be opened at Jacksonville.

The new Miami dog track, to cost upwards of $500,000, will be the third circuit of that type in the Magic City. The new horse track at Jacksonville, if placed in operation will be the first to function there for a number of years. An additional horse track also is being planned at Miami.

Appeal Withdrawn

Withdrawal of their appeal to the supreme court, by the West Coast Jockey club and the Tampa Kennel club, both of Tampa, caused considerable surprise recently. Owners of the clubs had been enjoined by lower courts from operating their tracks under a certain system of alleged betting. More recent reports from the racing world in this state are to the effect that both the greyhound track and horse track in Tampa are to be reopened this winter, and conducted under a different system than that outlined in the injunctions issued against them.

Owners of the Jacksonville Kennel club, operating a greyhound track near Jacksonville, requested a verdict of guilty against themselves, when haled into court on a charge of gambling in connection with operation of their track. The verdict was sought in order to open the way for an appeal to the state supreme court to test the validity of the anti-betting statute as it affects operating of race tracks.

Gambling charge cases are pending against more than a score of officers and employes of the Seminole Kennel club, operating a dog track at Orange Park near Glen Cove Springs and Jacksonville. Prosecution of the first of these cases resulted in a mistrial.

It had been expected that the supreme court would rule on the Tampa injunctions before its summer recess now in effect, but that expectation was blasted by withdrawal of the appeals.

Court May Act

It is possible that the supreme court may act on the Jacksonville case appeal before the opening of the racing season in the state, which will be about December 1. Officers of the Jacksonville Kennel club said their attorneys would file the appeal in the high court within the next month.

The greyhound tracks in Florida early became brilliant centers of colorful gatherings; night races under bright lights being featured. Dogs and their trainers are gaily bedecked; jazz bands add to the life of the meetings, and the spirit of carnival dominates the fleet greyhound races.

The kennel club plants cost from $250,000 to $750,000, or more, to construct and equip, and their payrolls are large. Yet, it is authoritatively reported that the dog race track at Hialeah, near Miami, was paid for in full within a few days after it opened. The Seminole Kennel club at Orange Park used an armored express truck to carry receipts of each night's meeting into Jacksonville for safe-keeping, when that track was functioning last spring.

PRISONER REVEALS TORTURE DISCIPLINE IN CANTON PRISON

YOUNGSTOWN, Sept. 17.—Prisoners sent from this city to the Canton workhouse are being quizzed to prove, or disprove, charges of alleged torture at the institution. Attorney Max E. Brunswick has been named by Judge Joseph L. Hefferman to conduct the probe. Meantime no more Youngstown prisoners are being sent to Canton.

One witness testified he was strung up for three days, eight hours at a stretch, hands manacled, and fastened to rings above his head, and kept on a bread and water diet.

HIT-AND-RUN KILLS MAN.

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Sept. 17—An unidentified man, about 40 years old, died in Memorial hospital after being struck by an automobile. He was found lying on the Minersville-Coopersdale road and picked up by passing motorist. Police are making an investigation.

About a dozen children from three to 12 years old died in the border district of East Prussia as a result of an epidemic of spinal paralysis. The population of these districts were seized by a panic and hundreds of families fled with their children to relatives in nearby villages or cities. Some experts held that the disease spread through stings of a certain species of gnats, but this theory has been contested. While the cause of the disease has not been ascertained Prof. Dr. Moritz Katzenstein, head of the surgical division of a Berlin municipal hospital, announced that the disease can be cured by an operation, but this operation can be only performed after certain orthopedic exercises or electrical massage have failed. Katzenstein replaces part of the paralyzed muscles by parts of unaffected muscles. Katzenstein asserts that he applies his method with good results.

Artistically designed "congrats" telegram forms of hand-made paper are the latest innovation of German postal authorities. Special care will be taken in writing the messages in ink and the message will be delivered in special envelopes. An extra charge of ten cents is raised for these messages, which can be sent from any telegraph station of the Reich.

Commercial radio service will be introduced on the Hamburg-Berlin express train for passengers desirous of listening in to the latest stock exchange quotations from Berlin, or Hamburg. Interested persons will be able to make use of these quotations by means of radio telephones with which this train is to be equipped.

Seek New Salute To Honor Unknown English Soldier

(International News Service)

LONDON, Sept. 17.—Leading British women are endeavoring to find a special salute to be used in passing the Cenotaph in Whitehall, England's most famous war memorial.

It has now become a universal custom of men to raise their hats in passing the Cenotaph and the suggestion is made that women too should make some sign of homage or respect to the war dead.

Miss Ellaline Terriss the well-known actress has proposed that women should raise their left hands at the Cenotaph turning the palm toward the monument.

"The Romans raised their hands to Caesar" says Miss Terriss who is the wife of the actor, Seymour Hicks, "and I would suggest that as we pass the lovely thought that Whitehall holds we should raise our left hands to it. There need be nothing extravagant in the sign we make, but a sign it will be and one of which our children will ask the meaning of and they in turn telling those who follow after them, this symbol of gratitude will go down through all the ages and live perhaps even longer than the stone from which the Cenotaph is hewn."

Butterflies Make Annual Shore Trip

(International News Service)

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 17.—Bored with their homes in the Sierra mountains, thousands of brown monarch butterflies have completed their annual pilgrimage to the sea shore. Every year the horde of butterflies go to Stinson beach, north of here, to spend the winter and enjoy the mild climate, only to die in the spring.

The trek of the butterflies is unending, however. Next year a new flight will complete the same tragic cycle.

Cleveland is the first American city to own and operate a complete system for the collection and disposal of garbage. Something like 150,000 tons a year are collected and treated in the municipal reduction plant.

Convict Invents New Box Car Lock

(International News Service)

SAN QUENTIN PRISON, Cal., Sept. 17.—Elmer Gloss, serving a four-year term for robbing box cars, came to the conclusion that there was a need for such things, so in his spare time he invented and perfected a lock for box car doors that is said to be the most ingenious lock of its kind ever to be made.

Frank Smith, warden of the prison, announced that representatives of a large car building company had inspected the lock and had approved it. He said he would ask the Prison Board to authorize a sufficient sum of money to enable Gloss to build a model.

"The invention," Smith said, "may net Gloss thousands of dollars."

In commenting on his invention, Gloss said, "It is a good lock, and I know a lot about box car door locks. Of course it could be opened but it would be a hard job to do it."

Gloss has already served 18 months of his time.

Construction Costs United States About Six Billion Yearly

By ROBERT S. THORNBURGH
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—United States is spending about six billion dollars annually for construction work, according to John M. Gries, chief of the division of building and housing of the department of commerce.

After a survey of the construction situation Gries declared that its importance is hard to emphasize.

"In value of product it ranks considerably above the automobile industry, the largest in the manufacturing class, and is open on par with railway operating receipts," Gries said.

"Variations in construction activity from year to year have a large share in determining the prosperity of other major industries and bears some relation to retail trade and to the individual incomes of practically every family in the country."

Existing construction was described as underlying the whole economic organization of United States today.

Gries pointed out that the volume and character of new construction is of great importance. The million and a half to two million increase in population each year requires new dwellings, increased manufacturing facilities, increased public utilities and other types of construction.

Structures worn out or destroyed must be replaced. If living standards are to improve and people are to occupy better houses, continued large construction programs are needed.

"In general progress depend largely on the nation's devoting a due proportion of its energies to construction," Gries declared.

"As Secretary of Commerce Hoover has stated, 'our national savings are accumulating at an unparalleled rate and it is especially desirable to have them invested in domestic permanent capital improvements, which contribute directly to the well being of our people, for by such devotion of our savings we both encourage thrift and raise the standard of living.'"

Half the construction in United States today, measured in value, is less than 30 years old, and another 30 years hence a backward look to the present is likely to show a similar situation, according to Gries.

In spite of the vast program it is only recently that the building of houses and construction of buildings, roads, canals, bridges, harbor works, subways, tunnels and other work that produces a more or less fixed structure or alteration of the natural topography have been clearly recognized as a single industry.

"The production of its manufacturing industries is carried on mainly in buildings, of course, but depends even more on the physical network of railways, highways, telephone and telegraph systems and lines for the transmission of power and water, all of which are in a large measure the products of construction," Gries said.

"Living standards of the people depend very largely on the character of dwellings, on the availability of water, sewerage, gas and electricity, and the accessibility of varied recreational facilities, and on the streets and roads which enable them to get from place to place. There is a measurable relation between the character of dwellings and health. The schools require a great number of buildings in order to do their work effectively."

Girl, Eleven, Wins Spelling Title In New York State

(International News Service)
SYRACUSE, N. Y., Sept. 17—Irene Gansill, of Liberty, Sullivan county, is the New York state spelling champion.

She earned that title in the annual spelling bee at the State Fair when she spelled more than 1,000 words with but a single mistake.

The only word that Irene failed on was "deferential" which she gave two f's and she failed on that after the 55 other contestants had bowed in defeat.

By her victory Irene won the cash prize of $50 for the winner of the contest.

Irish Census Shows Population Decrease

(International News Service)
LONDON, Sept. 17.—The large number of Irish men and women killed in the Black and Tan wars and other Irish fighting of recent years is given in a preliminary census of the Irish Free State as one of the main reasons for the decline in population.

The census shows that the population of the Irish Free State is now less than three million, having fallen from 3,139,688 in 1911 to 2,972,802 in late 1925.

There are only 973 females for every 1,000 males in the country. Emigration and the withdrawal of the British Army of Occupation and their dependents are given as the decline.

Over 100,000 New Automobiles On State Highways

(International News Service)
HARRISBURG, Pa., Sept. 17.—Pennsylvania highways today were traversed by 110,000 more state licensed passenger automobiles than they were at this time last year, according to a report made public by the state department of highways. The state department has issued 1,222,349 licenses so far in 1926 compared with 1,112,650 licenses issued for the first eight months of 1925.

Numbers of trucks in use also are running far ahead of last year. During the first eight months of this year 192,700 were licensed while only 181,613 were recorded for the same period last year.

The eight months' passenger car fees this year reached $12,259,151.20 and truck fees $5,589,790.84.

Abandon Efforts To Salvage Gold

(International News Service)
SEBASTOPOL, Sept. 17.—From $2,000,000 to $8,000,000 in hard gold coin awaits the American or other foreign diver who finds the nerve and resources to dig it from its grave in the shallow waters of the Black Sea off Balaclava in the Crimea. Soviet divers have just abandoned the effort to recover the money, which went down with the British cruiser "Black Prince" during the Crimean war.

They located the ship, having no trouble in discerning its outlines in the clear water. But their apparatus was not equal to the task of raising the whole vessel, nor were they able to penetrate to its interior where the money is concealed.

The sum in question represented the payroll for the British army in the Crimea and a large amount for purchase of war supplies. When the ship sank, in 1855, there was no diving apparatus in existence, and since the time when underwater exploration has become common, no Russian government was sufficiently interested to pursue the project until the Soviets. Their need of money led them to make the effort, but now that it has failed, they are willing to consider foreign aid in recovering the treasure.

Military Experts To Make United States Army Best Educated

By WILLIAM S. NEAL
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—Uncle Sam's military experts have a new goal—to make the American soldier the best educated in the world.

From the highest officer to the lowliest private school days have taken on a real meaning under the new scheme. The West Pointer who used to represent the last word in military preparation now grabs his sheepskin and starts for another Army School.

"Join The Army and Go To School" exclaims the veteran, hard-boiled doughboy in derisive tones. But the highest officers in the Army take the matter more seriously.

The World War brought into play scientific forces on a scale never dreamed of by military experts, and many predict the next war will see the complete triumph of science over brute strength.

The Army War College, housed in an imposing building overlooking the Potomac river, with a "campus" as trim as any to be found throughout the country, has opened its fall term with the same sort of exercises to be found in any other institution of learning.

Grizzled general officers are among the seventy-six to reach the college for a final determination of their eligibility to the general staff. They listen to lectures and they are called on to "recite."

Scores of other Army schools throughout the country and in the Philippines call the lesser officers, the non-coms and the privates. The War Department is now detailing to many state universities a limited number of officers whose tuition is paid in order that they may develop their knowledge of some particular subject and become an expert in time of war.

Every private is being urged to take advanage of wide opportunities presented for increasing his general learning, and all sorts of trade instruction is offered. Some school are required but many are voluntarily.

An Army captain who commanded a cavalry troop tells of a bright, young chap who had been employed by a telephone company as a laborer and after he entered the Army refused to listen to suggestions for volunteer schooling. After patient argument he was induced to take up the study of electricity. Now, says the captain, he is boss of the telephone company outfit in which he used to be a laborer.

The largest Army schools are to be found at Fort Leavenworth, Kansas, and Camp Benning, Georgia, devoted chiefly to military subjects. But general instruction is included there as well as in school conducted at many army posts.

Selfridge Says Mussolini Wise

(International News Service)

LONDON, Sept. 17,—H. Gordon Selfridge, the American owner of London's largest department store, places no credence in reports that Signor Mussolini has decided to standardize the fashions of Italian women.

"The whole thing is probably a joke," Selfridge said, "for no doubt Mussolini, as well as the rest of us, learned a long time ago that the only way to manage women, from a very early age upwards, is to let them have absolutely their own way. Not only are we more tactful in doing this, but very much happier, for do they not, by following out their inclinations in dress and in all other matters, produce that result which charms the masculine portion of the community.

"Signor Mussolini has demonstrated that he is a man of blood and brain—and I assume that that blood is red blood—in which case he, too, enjoys the atmosphere created by the last word of fashion and the manners and ways which accompany it."

New York Crime Commission To Urge New Laws

Criminal Statistics Will Show Extent Of Offenses In The State

Next Legislature To Get Reccommendations By The Experts

By RAYMOND I. BORST.
International News Service Staff Correspondent

ALBANY, N. Y., Sept. 17.—The New York state crime commission which was authorized by the last legislature is making a thorough study of crime with a view of submitting important recommendations to the 1927 legislature it was announced today at the capitol

Senator Caleb H. Baumes of Newburgh is chairman of the commission. Senator Baumes was chairman of a crime commission which secured the passage of a score of anti-crime laws at the last session of the Legislature.

Effect of Laws.

One of the Baumes crime laws which went into effect the first of July has just resulted in the sentence of a New York youthful bandit to prison for life.

The work of the present crime commission is divided into an inquiry into the causes and effects of crime; visitation of penal institutions; inquiry into polishing; a study of court procedure and also into the nature of the punishment meted out to those convicted of criminal offenses.

"The inquiry into the causes and effect of crime" said a statement issued by the commission today, "will embrace a study of environment of people as conducing to the development of criminals through lack of home trainig, lack of proper recreational and educational facilities, the influence of spare time or unemployment upon the potential criminal and the benefits of social agencies, including welfare organizations. boys clubs, churches, moving pictures boy scout organizations and kindred agencies in curbing delinquency.

Will Investigate,

"An investigation will be made of a large number of cases of inmates of state institutions and their histories traced back to childhood. A study will be made of the children's courts and also of commercial recreations to determine their influence upon the youth. A survey also will be undertaken of certain areas in New York city and other cities, and in some rural sections to determine the state of crime among the youths and the influences that prevent crime as well as the things that encourage it."

For perhaps the first time in the history of the country the commission expects to have a comprehensive system or criminal statistics which will show the extent of criminal offenses, the number of criminals, their age, sex, nativity and mental and physical status.

Another thing the commission hopes to determine is whether crime is more prevalent in the country or in the city when compared with the population of cities and country towns and villages.

The commission expects to be ready to report early in 1927 to the lawmakers.

SQUIRE WHO KILLED SELF SHORT $10,551 IN ACCOUNT, REPORT

ST. CLAIRSVILLE, O., Sept. 17.—According to a report filed by J. E. Patterson, state examiner, Louis M. Shores, former justice of the peace of Richland township, Belmont county, who ended his life August 2 by shooting himself, was $10,551 short in his accounts. This amount, according to the examiner, Shores had collected since last November but failed to turn in to the state.

As a result of finding the shortage, an effort will be made by the state and authorities of Richland township and Belmont county to collect the money from the Shores estate. The examiner in his report, which he filed yesterday at Columbus, said that no record of civil cases had been kept by Shores since last November.

SNAPPY RECOVERY

"Hello! Hello! Is this you, Mac?"

"Ay."

"Is this MacPherson I'm talking to?"

"Ay, speakin'."

"Well, Mac, it's like this: I want to borrow $10—"

"All right. I'll tell him as soon as he comes in."—Kansas City Star.

Seek Increase Of Salaries For Federal Judges

NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—Realizing the necessity of having a strong federal judiciary for the reduction of commercial crime, the legislative committee of the National Association of Credit Men will seek the cooperation of several business organizations in an effort to induce congress to pass the bill for the increase of federal judges' salaries, Curtis R. Burnett, chairman of the committee, said today in an announcement issued to the association's 30,000 members.

"To insure the continuance of the service of the valuable men who sit on federal benches throughout the country and to remove discouragements to future jurists, the government should provide judges with salaries that will permit them to live with less anxiety as to their personal finances," the committee says.

"The salary increase is not proposed to place judges above temptation or is it sponsored by this organization as a means of recruiting better men to the bench. The association believes that the federal judiciary is above reproach and that its members are of the highest type. Believing this and knowing that the judges themselves cannot ethically complain and have not complained in their own behalf, the National Association of Credit Men considers that the improvement of the situation is up to these business associations which depend so much on a strong and intelligent judiciary."

England To Smash Altitude Record

By F. A. WRAY
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, Sept. 17.—Plans are being made for a British attempt to beat the world's altitude record, at present 42,000 feet and held by a Frenchman.

The proposed attempt is the outcome of satisfactory tests made with a super-charged engine at Martlesham Health Experimental Station by Flight Lieutenant W. S. Bulman, known as the "Blondin of the air" who has conducted many daring aerial experiments. His engine was an ordinary service type Napier-Lion, but the principle could be applied, with certain modifications, to any aeromotor.

The apparatus in use is being kept secret because that a height of well over 50,000 feet, or more than nine miles could be reached, if satisfactory arrangements could be made for the pilot.

The advantage of the use of super-charging apparatus, which has been used successfully in racing car engines, is that a machine is not only able to climb rapidly to great heights but, having reached them, is able to travel just as speedily through the rarefield atmosphere as when only a few hundred feet from the ground.

AUTOIST HELD FOR DEATH.

ALTOONA, Pa., Sept. 17.—Glenn Gosnello of Williamsburg, who drove an automobile on the sidewalk in Hollidaysburg, September 7, and killed Valah M. Wilt, was arrested on a charge of manslaughter. His defense is that the steering gear of the machine became locked and beyond his control.

Maharajah of Tiny Indian State Plans U.S. Visit

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 16.—Four years ago a dark and smiling young man called on President Harding at the White House and was received as befits a visiting monarch. This year the young ruler, the Maharajah of Rajpipla, is to repeat his call and will again, it is expected journey to Washington to pay his respects to the President.

The Maharajah is at present in London, to which he recently brought a sacred white elephant. It is not yet determined whether or not he is to bring the same elephant or another, equally sacred, to America.

The Maharajah's domain is the smallest of 600 native Indian states. In America it would be considered a fairish sized county—and about as important as the average county.

A "National Geographic" bulletin says: "Rajpipla is about 200 miles north of the city of Bombay, in the northwestern part of India.

The state is slightly larger than Rhode Island and has about two-thirds the population of Providence. The Maharajah is King and boasts family supremacy since 1470. He is entitled to be addressed as "Your Highness" and to a salute of eleven guns when approaching any possession of the British empire.

"Except for a British agent who resides in these Indian states, the Maharajah has unrestricted power over his subjects. Through tribute to neighboring states his domain is protected, and protective forces within the borders of Rajpipla apparently are unnecessary, considering the size of its 'army' which consists of 111 men.

"Two native tribes—the Bhils (bowman) and the Kolis—make up the greater portion of the population of Rajpipla. The Bhils once were in power in India. Under the rule of the Moguls they were submissive and occupied the lowlands, but other tribes treated them so cruelly that they rebelled and fled to the hills, whence few of them returned. They used the bow to defend the mountain fastnesses and repel invaders. In 1818 the British tried to subdue them without success. In 1825 through the use of milder methods a British agency was established in the state. In many of the central Indian states the princes on succession, have their foreheads marked with blood from the thumb or toe of a Bhil. They believe that this is a mark of Bhil allegiance, but it is more probably a relic of days when the tribe was in power in India. They have binding oaths. The most sacred is that sworn by the dog, the Bhil praying that the curse of a dog may fall upon him if he breaks his word.

"For centuries Henuman, the monkey god, has been the chief divinity of these people. Offerings are also made to the much-feared goddess of smallpox, and stone-worship is still found among them. Many have become Moslems and Hindus."

The Maharajah of Rajpipla.

Takes World's Tonic—Now Eats Baked Beans

James D. Miles, 203 Milton street this city, employed at the Carnegie Steel Co., says: "In a short time after I started to take World's Tonic, I was able to change my diet from one extreme to the other. I was living on a liquid diet consisting of milk, broth, orange juice, soft boiled eggs and foods that are easily digested. I am eating pie, baked beans, fried potatoes, steak and other things that only a healthy stomach can digest. That proves how quickly World's Tonic relieved me.

"Before I took World's Tonic I had a severe case of stomach trouble. My system was run down from the effects of it. I was so nervous that I couldn't sleep soundly. I felt tired and worn out. There was a soreness around my heart that hurt me when I took a deep breath.

"Since taking World's Tonic I feel like a new person. The soreness around my heart has disappeared. I am much stronger and can eat whatever I want. I am so glad to recommend World's Tonic.

Scarcely a day passes in which dozens do not voluntarily come forward with written statements indorsing World's Tonic in terms similar to the above. World's Tonic is an appetizer. To the nerves and glands it is a tonic; it cleanses and enriches the blood; it encourages kidney action and enlivens the liver. World's Tonic is made from concentrated herb juices.

Backless Evening Gowns Are Prediction For Fall

By SONIA LEE

International News Service Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—Backless evening gowns and skirtless afternoon frocks.

A revision to black.

A continuance of matching accessories.

These were the predictions today of designers along garment row and of caterers to woman's fancy.

Specifically, styles vary little from those of the past season. The skirts are still 14 inches from the floor, or shorter, legs permitting. The silhouette is slim, tailored and compact.

Frills and furbelows, while attempted, are finding but little favor in feminine eyes. Pleats are used either in front or back or at the sides of the skirt.

Collars which have displayed a tendency to be high, have again dropped, and the deep V-neck, with a fancy tie at its side, is favored.

For afternoon year, green of the hunter shades, deep wines, with purple shades, and the wood tints are popular. However, the very smart woman, again as in the war days, chooses black from top to toe, with the exception of her hose, which are of sun-burnt tints. Colors have palled on the lady of fashion, and she is reverting to the somber but very chic black. Materials are velvets, twills and a preponderance of silks.

"It is in the evening clothes that startling style is observed," pointed out Hattie Carnegie, the designer. "Evening clothes are very low—some even are backless. They are heavily beaded and spangled."

Man Near Death In Etna Shooting, Another Wounded

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 17.—One man is near death and another is slightly wounded as a result of an attempt of an automobile driver to escape from a motorcycle policeman here today.

Michael Vitosh, Etna policeman, was arrested on a technical charge. He admitted firing into the speeding car when he chased it and the driver refused to halt. The wounded men and the driver of the car were arrested later when they stopped to have the injuries to the two wounded dressed.

Sonny Baumgard, 24, is probably fatally wounded; John Madden, 21, has a scalp wound and Edward Riley, 18, driver of the car, is under arrest. Madden admitted he was speeding.

To Establish Grade On Street

Councilman Davies today in council session presented a motion instructing the city solicitor to prepare the necessary documents for the grading of William street between Lathrop and Acorn. The property owners want a grade so that they can lay sidewalks. Five feet it is said will be taken from the east side of the street to make a 45 foot cartway.

There's a bright side. The next war may be more awful but the next peace can't be any worse.

PETER'S ADVENTURES IN ANIMAL LAND

RAT FREES PAT.

Nobody in the world enjoys being tricked, least of all a Rat. Whiskers bristling with disgust at himself for being so easily deceived, Ratty walked toward the corner. His tail was just disappearing into the shadows when Pat the Dog found his voice.

"Mr. Rat, oh, Mr. Rat please come back!" barked he, and so distressed was his voice that Ratty stopped short in his tracks.

"What for?" squeaked he. "To be fooled for the second time?"

"No, to hear the truth."

There was no doubt but that now Pat was honest. Ratty in spite of himself was forced to believe the Dog. Slowly he turned and came back.

"Well out with it" commanded he sharply, and Pat began the words tumbling over themselves in his hurry to explain.

"Days and days have I been shut up in this box until 'tis cramps in my legs I'm getting! And though I've traveled miles and miles sure 'tis precious little of the world have I seen! Lie down sit down, stand up! Nothing else at all can I do, and I'm growing sick with longing, longing for my freedom! I close my eyes and 'tis myself I see rolling on the grass, kicking up my heels, scampering down the road! Night comes and do I sleep? Never a bit! 'Tis too lonely—I am wanting my mother!"

Ratty's looks belied him. Sharp were his teeth and fierce his expression, but his heart was as soft as a chicken's.

"Poor dog, I'm sorry for you," sniffed he.

"Then please Mr. Rat, help me to escape from this horrible prison!" pleaded Pat. A tear dropped from the eye at the opening. Mr. Rat saw it and sympathy got the better of his caution. He forgot everything but his desire to help some one in trouble. Without another word he set to work again. Nibble, scratch, claw! Pat encouraged by aid from the outside did what he could to help and little by little the hole grew larger. After a long, long time Mr. Rat stopped to catch his breath and to look at his work. Pat poked his head through the hole, found he could get his paws out, tested the width to see if his body would get stuck. It didn't.

"Bow wow, wow!" A joyful bark, a bound and Pat the Dog was out of the hateful box and on the floor of the baggage car.

Authorities Are Particular About Cider Vinegar

Two merchants in western Pennsylvania were recently prosecuted and heavily fined for selling artificially colored and distilled vinegar as "pure cider vinegar," according to an announcement made by Dr. James W. Kellogg, director, Bureau of Foods and Chemistry, Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture.

"The State vinegar law prohibits the sale of any vinegar as pure apple or cider vinegar, which is not the legitimate product of pure apple juice and which does not contain at least 4 percent of acetic acid," Dr. Kellogg explains. "All other vinegars which are not pure cider vinegar but which are made by distilling grains are required to be labelled 'distilled vinegar' in which case artificial colors are prohibited.

"Retailers making purchases of vinegar for the purpose of sale at retail should only purchase from responsible parties with guarantees that it is pure cider vinegar if it is to be sold as such."

A campaign is being made by the State pure food agents and any additional violations of the vinegar law will be dealth with vigorously.

1926 FOOTBALL SEASON OPENS HERE SATURDAY

COUNTY SERIES TO BE RESUMED

New Castle High To Play Mars In Opener

New Castle High Ready To Start Fight For W. P. I. A. L. Honors; Expect Hard Fight With Mars High In Lid-Lifter; Mars To Bring Veteran Team To New Castle Is Prediction; Captain Harry Robinson Has Recovered From Recent Injury And Will See Action In Opening Game; Turk, Promising Halfback, Declared Ineligible By School Officials; Tommy Harper To Be Found At Fullback; Team Issued New Uniforms.

By "BUGS" WALTHER

Ben Franklin field, adjoining the spacious Ben Franklin High school, stands today as one of the real beauty spots of New Castle, with her enormous stadium, bleacher seats, and last of all, her verdant greensward, but at 2:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon, or tomorrow, to be exact, this same picture will be changed with countless thousands of people who will be on hand to assist the New Castle High football team in their opening game of the season with Mars High.

Football talk has filled the air in this city for the past several months, almost with the first sign of spring, and now that the time has arrived, the fans are on edge, awaiting the signal that will lift the curtain, and the blow of the whistle that will send the two teams into action.

Teams on Edge.

Both teams are on edge for the opening game just as much and even more so than the average fan. The teams have trained hard for the past two weeks, and now they are ready to offer to the citizens of this man's domain the first gridiron struggle of the present season. To even attempt to select the winner of this important battle tomorrow afternoon would be horse-play, mixing common sense with better judgment it is thought wise to omit sleeves from vests, and for that very reason it is thought best to withhold all predictions until such a time as the game might be in the bag tied with heavy cord. New Castle is not facing a green team on Saturday afternoon, that much can be taken for what it is worth and diluted with carbolic acid; on the other hand Coach Phil H. Bridenbaugh, whose business it is to train football teams for football games, knows just like everyone who has two ears that New Castle high school has a tough nut to crack in Mars high, and it's not walnut either.

Light Workouts.

Coach Bridenbaugh, who is rated as being wise and a man that bars all fake stock promoters from his office, has held the New Castle team in reserve, one might say, for the past two days. Wednesday afternoon and again Thursday the boys indulged in a rather light and snappy workout, and really to one not well versed along football lines it would seem that the coach is making a big mistake by not giving the boys a harder session, but Bridenbaugh pulls a dumb trick once in so many years and it is safe to say that he is rather well satisfied that the New Castle high team has reached almost to the limit of their perfection and that his course is justified.

With the opening game not many hours away at the present time, the squad will undergo a light drill this afternoon, a sort of rehearsal of what has been given them for the past two weeks, and then the boys will sit back, take a good big breath of the pure atmosphere and calmly await the time and word that sends them scampering over the green turf in quest of new honors.

Faculty Manager Ralph H. Gardner, ever on the alert to satisfy the wants and needs of the gridders, had 24 new spic and span uniforms waiting at the dressing room Thursday afternoon for the boys to feast their eyes on, and then they were passed out to the following members of the squad: Captain Harry Robinson, Klaber, Richards, Dickson, Melder, Harper, Thomas, Burns, Ostrosky, Millison, Ulrich, W. Mott, Kirk, Christman, Sillman, W. Smith, Sandifer, Jones, McIntosh, McGrath, DiThomas, Sherer, Haydon and Mooney. The new uniforms are something a little different than the boys have been used to, but they are modern and up to the minute in football regalia.

Turk Ineligible.

The New Castle team was dealt a severe blow on Thursday afternoon when it was announced by the high school officials that Earl Turk, last year letterman and slated to fill a regular halfback berth this year, would be ineligible for the opening game of the season due to scholastic difficulties in his studies. Turk's place on the first string team was taken over by Johnny Melder.

Captain Harry Robinson, who has hobbled around for the past several days with a badly wrenched knee, reported to Coach Bridenbaugh on Thursday night that the injured member was responding to treatment and that he believed that he would be in shape for the Mars game. Robinson, rated as one of the best defensive centers that has donned a Red and Black uniform for the past several years, is playing a bangup game this year and in addition to looking after the boys in the capacity of leader, has shown a marked improvement in his style of play and will be invaluable to the team from numerous standpoints.

Four New Players.

On the team that takes the field for New Castle tomorrow afternoon will be found four new faces. The newcomers this year who have earned varsity berths are Burns and Ostrosky, ends; W. Mott at right guard and Tommy Harper at fullback. Harper is playing a smashing, crushing game at fullback and is being counted on to do the bulk of line plunging for the locals this year. The former Schenley high product is a hard man to stop, and Mars will do well to keep her eyes open when Harper grabs the ball, because Tommy with a football under his arm is as hard to stop as a runaway tractor.

Burns and Ostrosky have taken up the terminal positions this year and they give promise of developing into a fine pair of ends. Both boys realize the full importance of their job and in the workouts to date have shown a marked ability for doing exactly what ends are supposed to do. W. Mott, filling a guard berth left vacant by the departure of Leonard, is filling the bill very nicely and will develop with more experience.

Everything is in readiness for the season to be ushered in, and Saturday afternoon between the hours of 2:30 and 4 o'clock there is going to be a football dish of the choicest morsels at Ben Franklin field.

Pennant Races In Both Leagues

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—The Cardinals, who ran amuck and scored 33 runs in two games with the Phillies, were tied with the Reds for first place again today in the National league race.

Pittsburgh lost again and trails the leaders by four and one-half games. If the Pirates win all of their ten remaining games, however, either St. Louis or Cincinnati must take six out of nine to beat them.

Cleveland's double victory over the Yankees, cutting New York's lead to four and one-half games, revived interest in the American league race. The Yankees can clinch the flag by winning seven out of 11, even if they win the three remaining games of the Cleveland series, however, they can be tied if they lose eight games to the White Sox and Browns.

First Scrimmage At Ben Franklin

The first scrimmage session of the season for the Ben Franklin football team was held on Thursday and considering that most of the boys had never been in a scrimmage before the results were highly pleasing to the coaches.

Light workouts have been held for the last two weeks dealing with fundamentals and the coaches decided that it was about time to have a little touch of the real stuff and hence the scrimmage. Few players were used but instructions were forthcoming on how to take out the opponents and to open up holes in the line.

Coach Norton is taking his boys along easily and they showed the results of the training that they have received and a strong combination will be whipped together to furnish a little opposition in the class league.

The Ben Franklin elevens are quite well known and if one looks up the records he will find that they have been crowned the champions for the last three years and have lost but one game in that period, and the team this year is anxious to keep the record of games marked up in the winning column going right along.

Single Reserved Seats Available

Faculty Manager Ralph H. Gardner announced today that it will be possible for those who do not care to purchase season reserved seats for the football games to secure single admission reserved seats.

There are many fans here who will be unable to attend all of the games played in New Castle and for that reason they have refrained from buying the season reserved seats, but through the efforts of Mr. Gardner it has been made possible to place on sale a block of seats for single games.

The Engineering News-Record says speed limits will be abolished and this will be sad news for the telephone companies.

Coaches Announce Probable Lineups

Coach Phil H. Bridenbaugh of the New Castle High team, and Coach "Ham" Hudson of the Mars High squad today submitted the following probable starting line-ups for the game here Saturday afternoon:

Patton To Run In Philadelphia

MEET SCHEDULED AT SESQUI GROUNDS

Harold Patton of Milton street, one of the fastest runners in the city, left for Philadelphia on Thursday night to take part Saturday in the national meet of the entire Pennsylvania railroad system. The meet will be staged at the Sesqui-Centennial field and will bring together the fastest men from all divisions in the United States.

Patton will enter three events at Philadelphia, the 100-yard dash, 220-yard dash and hop, skip and jump event. At the national meet held in Altoona in 1923 Patton took second place in the 100-yard dash. The local man won the right to represent the E. & A. division by capturing first places in meets held at Columbus and Dennison, O., this year.

The local runner has not lost a race this year and hopes to return to New Castle the latter part of next week with this record unblemished.

Patton will remain over in Philadelphia for another week and will also be an interested spectator at the Dempsey-Tunney fight scheduled for next Thursday night at the Sesqui grounds.

Dempsey Will Defeat Tunney, Stars Reveal

(International News Service)

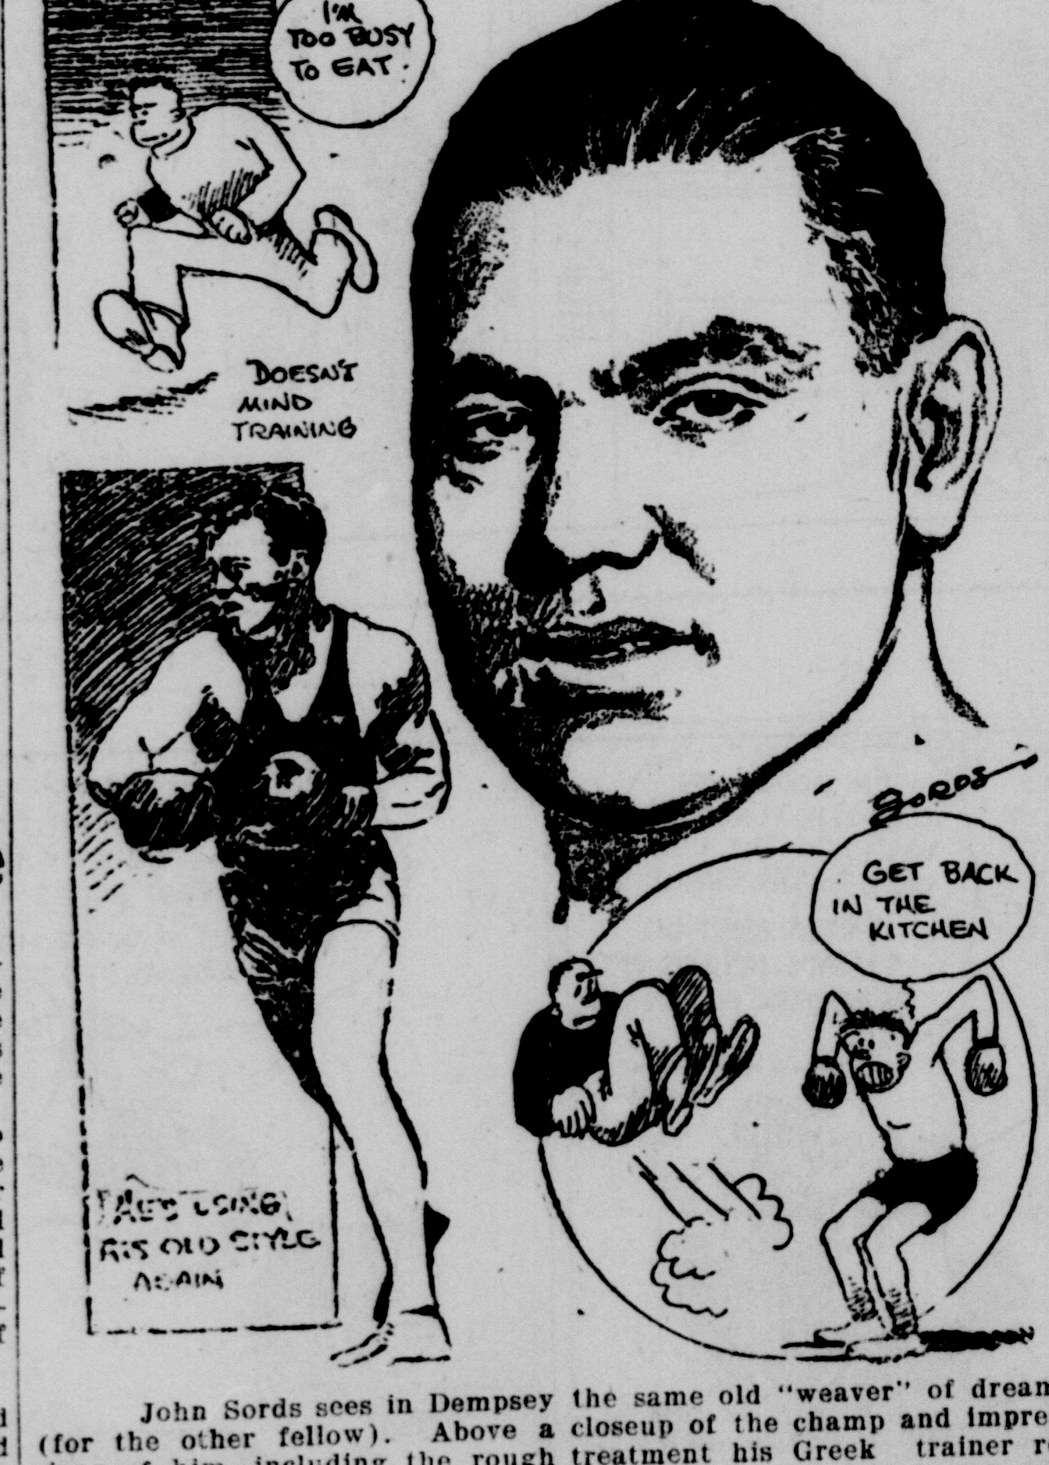
NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—Jack Dempsey will win this fight with Gene Tunney. The stars say so. Professor Gustave Meyer, Hoboken astrologer and spokesman for the stars, says so.

According to Professor Meyer, Estelle Taylor, actress, wife of the champion, is Jack's guiding star and her happy influence over him combined with his love for her will cause him to send Tunney flying through the ropes in pursuit of other stars, in either the fifth, sixth or seventh round.

"I am the astrologer who foretold Dempsey's marriage," professor Meyer said today. "Instead of being a hindrance his marriage will be a potent factor in keeping the crown on his head next Thursday. Mrs. Dempsey is under a sign most congenial to her husband's sign, hence she will prove to be his guiding star towards happiness, prosperity and success. She will create in him fortitude, courage and the will to win."

With the completion of its new city planning projects Kenosha, Wis., will have a wide boulevard around the outer edge of the city while in the center will be a community center consisting of a spacious plaza bordered by a group of handsome public buildings.

As Artist Sees Dempsey



John Sords sees in Dempsey the same old "weaver" of dreams (for the other fellow). Above a closeup of the champ and impressions of him, including the rough treatment his Greek trainer receives.

Pitt Season To Open Soon

GAME SCHEDULED FOR SEPTEMBER 25

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Sept. 17.—Allegheny college is the opening football attraction against the University of Pittsburgh in the Pitt stadium, the game being scheduled for Saturday, September 25. Allegheny has not been met in football for some years, but the University athletic records show that the Methodists have been played a number of times and have always been hard to beat.

The presence of "Mel" Merritt, Dartmouth celebrity, as head coach of Allegheny adds spice to the combat, as Merritt is known as an exponent of the wide open game. Coach Jock Sutherland, of Pitt, is looking for a forward pass attack and is drilling his proteges accordingly. That Allegheny will give trouble with this system of play is the forecast at Pitt has a rather green team and one that might become a little flustered with such opposition. The only 1925 regulars who will start the game are Captain McMillin, Andy Cutler, Andy Salata and "Gibby" Welch. Cutler will likely start in the backfield rather than at center, the position he played last year. Dick Goldberg looks good at the center berth, and Cutler, who is very fast and weighs over 190 pounds, has been sent to the backfield.

"Tiny" Linn, of Carnegie, will be one of the guards. Linn weighs up around the 200 mark and is of a fighting disposition. He is one of the Pitt star weight men on the track team. Linn is playing his last year of football at Pitt. "Luby" Demolio, of Coraopolis, who learned the game at Bellfonte Academy, looks pretty good at the other guard. He is speedy and has dogged determination, which is winning him a place on the varsity.

Andy Salata will be at one tackle, and either Jim Getts or Bill Kern at the other. Kern is a strapping big fellow who has been handicapped in the early season training due to an injury. The coach experts expects him to be available for all the big games at least. Whether he will be started in the Allegheny game is a question. Getts, who hails from Jeannette, Pa., and who was coached by "Pie" Williams, former Pitt end, stands six feet two and weighs around the double century marks, was on the freshman team last year and gave a good account of himself. Felix Demoise and "Honey" Guarino, of Greensburg, are having a stiff fight for one end position, Captain McMillin having the other end cinched. Guarino is showing splendid form and is a sure varsity prospect before he gets through.

The backfield to start the Allegheny game will probably be Jim Rooney, at quarterback, "Gibby" Welch and Joe Schmitt at halfbacks and Dick Booth at fullback. Welch is expected to be one of the season's sensations. Booth was a close understudy to Andy Gustafson at fullback last year. Jim Rooney is one of last year's freshman who is sure to break in. He is a phenomenal kicker. Joe Schmitt is playing his last year on the varsity and is going like a house afire.

Allegheny College alumni will be out in force at the game. A special train will bring the crowd down from Meadville, and Western Pennsylvania alumni numbering 500 or more will be out to cheer for their team.

Tagging All Bases

(International News Service)

After setting a season's record by overwhelming the Phillies 23 to 3, scoring 12 runs in one inning the Cardinals booted the Phils again 10 to 2 and tied the Reds for first place. The cards got 41 hits, Hornsby and Haffey collecting six apiece, but curiously enough no triples or homers were made.

Cincinnati made it eight straight as Donohue uncorked a four hit game and won a 3 to 0 duel from Virgil Barnes of the Giants. Not a Giant reached second.

Having acted as doormats for the Cardinals and Reds, the Dodgers turned and licked the Pirates 2 to 1 putting those worthies out of the race. The Bucs could do little against Jess Barnes.

The Yankees got only two hits in each game as Levson and Buckeye pitched Cleveland back into the American league race with two scintillating victories, 2 to 1 and 5 to 0. Levson won his own game with a single while the Indians knocked Pennock out of the box in the nightcap.

The Braves won their fifth game in a row downing the Cubs 4 to 1.

A 6 to 4 triumph over the Red Sox put the White Sox in fifth place.

Washington trounced Detroit twice 3 to 2 and 5 to 4 by late rallies.

After beating the Athletics 1 to 0 on Sisler's triple and Schang's single, the Browns lost the second game 5 to 1. Zachary and Gray were the winning twirlers.

Two of the men most responsible for the success of the Cincinnati Reds this season are Carl Mays and Hugh Critz. They have been vital members of that all-important meridian line that goes from the home plate to center field and along which, so they say, a team must have strength if it is to become a penant factor. Of course, Hargrave, behind the bat, and Roush, in center field, and the other members of the Red pitching staff have done their bit, but Cincinnati players will tell you that little Hughie Critz has been an inspiration to the team as a whole, while Carl Mays has been their most consistent winner of late.

It's the old combination of Age and Youth again. When Critz was graduating from Mississippi A and M. College in 1920, Mays was a veteran of five and a half seasons in the majors and was busy rolling up twenty-six games in the win column for the Yankees, to whom he had been sold by the Red Sox the year before for $75,000. Four years later Critz was making a name for himself as one of the most promising rookies in either league, while Carl, now with the same team, having been waived out of the American League, was startling the baseball world with a most successful come-back winning twenty games and losing nine.

How interesting it would be if Carl Mays got a crack at his old Yankee team-mates (such of them as are left) in the 1926 world series! Mays pitched in two post-season classics for Boston and two for New York, winning three games and losing four altogether. His hot temper makes him hard to manage at times, for Carl is a fighter in every sense of the word. Jack Hendricks, in fact, had to go to the extreme of asking for waivers on him early in the summer, in order to make him snap out of it and do some good pitching.

A fine pair of "Dutchmen," these two—youthful, brilliant Critz and elderly, crafty Mays.

Feg Murray Says—

Where there's a Wills, there's a way. For, just as Helen Wills was forced to leave the courts on her doctor's orders, Harry Wills, in order to get a fight with Dempsey, was discusing ways of going to court.

Select Date For League Banquet

County League Banquet To Be Held In Elks Club Monday, Sept. 27

AWARD PENNANT TO ELLWOOD CITY

At a meeting of the managers of the County League teams, and officials of the circuit held in the Sporting Goods Store on Thursday night, it was definitely decided to hold the annual banquet at the Elks Club on the evening of Monday, September 27, at 7:30 o'clock.

It is probable that the Twilight League players will be invited to attend the banquet, the Twilight loop being run here as a supplement to the senior circuit.

The managers and officials automatically voted last night to secure a pennant for the Ellwood City team, winners of the league, and also to purchase watch fobs as tokens of victory for the Ellwood City boys.

A banquet committee was selected last night to arrange the necessary details of the feed, and the boys will get together soon to arrange something nice in regard to the annual feed.

BOBBY JONES DEFEATS EVANS AT BALTUSROL

SHORT HILLS, N. J., Sept. 17.—Bobby Jones carried on yesterday through another bitterly fought duel to triumph over stout-hearted Chick Evans of Chicago in the drive toward his third successive national amateur golf championship.

For a time during the 34-hole struggle between the veterans of many links campaigns and the 24-year-old master from Atlanta, Bobby's crown swayed uncertainly For hole after hole a rejuvenated Evans played such superb golf that it seemed to a record gallery that the champion of ten years ago was about to bring off one of the most sensational upsets in links history. But in the end youth, power and confidence triumphed to give Bobby a great victory at 3 and 2..

North Street High Has Good Outlook

After a week of extensive training the football squad of North street junior high school is beginning to show signs of developing into the strongest team that has ever represented that institution.

The squad, which numbers close to 45 men, has been working out daily at Boyles field under the direction of Coach Ralph Liengerman, and although no scrimmage sessions have been indulged in it looks as though North street is to have a banner year on the grid. Coach Liengerman has been instructing his boys in the important fundamentals as most of them have never played the game before and the heavier work will probably come next week.

The boys that reported average between 135 and 145 pounds in weight and some of the chaps who are trying out are pretty speedy, so little trouble will be had in rounding up a fighting aggregation for the first game, which will probably be played about the first of October against some opponent yet to be selected.

Two veterans are available from last year's team, namely, Dick Thomas, ex-captain, and Bob Hoose, both of them holding down positions in the backfield. These two lads are slated as regulars and the rest of the team will be chosen from the following: Jack Stevenson, S. Manos, James Sotas, Art Alexander, Merle Hart, Bot Hitrick, James Lagender, Bob Chamberlain, Bill Houck, Bill Perotta, Fat Cosgrade, George McKentosh, Kenneth Shell, Paul Whatkins, Ken Dougan, Ed Marvin, George Klaber, Ezna Farrow, James Beedle, Rus O'Neil, Jack Moffett, Jack Marlin and Bob Shultz.

Third Game Is Scheduled Here

GAME CALLED AT SIX O'CLOCK

By "BUGS" WALTHER

Manager "Bill" Steen will send his New Castle O. & P. league team into action tonight against Ellwood City in the third game of the county championship series. Weather permitting, the game will start at 6 o'clock.

The skies are overcast today and there was a slight possibility early today that the game would be called off here tonight, but both Sacco and Doughtery declared that the game would be played if possible and barring a hard rain this afternoon. Paul DeCarbo inspected the grounds today and found them somewhat drier than yesterday, which speaks well for the game being played tonight.

Ellwood City will more than likely send Jamison back to the knoll tonight to try to snatch the third game of the series, while Manager Steen has Coen, Hospidore or himself in trim to take up the burden.

New Castle with two games already under cover will fight hard to wind up the series tonight, while Ellwood Ctiy has the position as underdogs. The first two games of the series were crackerjack ball games with every indication that the game tonight will be just as fast.

In event the game here tonight is called off on account of rain, the third game of the series will be played in Ellwood City on Saturday afternoon, and should a fourth game be found necessary it will be played in New Castle on next Tuesday night, was the indication today.

Cravath Elected Justice Of Peace

(International News Service)

LAGUNA BEACH, Cal., Sept. 17. C. C. "Gavvy" Cravath, also known in baseball lore as "Cactus" Cravath, former manager of the Philadelphia National League team and one-time home run king of the National circuit, is the new Justice of the Peace at Laguna Beach.

Entering the race against L. V. Murphy, the incumbent, Cravath polled 327 votes to 167 for his opponent.

Cravath formerly played with the Los Angeles team of the Pacific Coast League and at that time had a third nickname. The fans of that day called him "Wooden Shoes" because of his sluggish sprinting on the bases.

The new job will pay "Gavvy" $150 a month, and he will take office the first of the year. He is now in the real estate business here.

Dempsey Loafs Again Today

Champion Apparently Taking Things Easy With Bout Fast Approaching

By GEORGE BARRY
International News Service Staff Correspondent

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Sept. 17.—Jack Dempsey loafed again today—his sixth day of vacationing since he established his emporium of swatology here.

All of which comes under the general heading of record smashing for him. For at no time in any of his other training days since achieving a championship, has Dempsey punctuated activities with so many periods of idleness at a time so close to battle night.

When he was asked if he wasn't doing a little too much of the "taking it easy" stuff, the champion answered:

"A month ago, with the exception of speed and the timing of punches, I was in shape to take on Gene Tunney or any other living man. I was in that condition because for nearly a year I have been in daily training almost as hard as most men perform a week or two before their fights.

"I did some tough work in Hendersonville, N. C.—trained there at a stiff enough pace to keep fit for any ordinary fight. After that I went to Colorado Springs and I trained hard there. Then I came east and went to Saratoga and ripped along for more than ten days at that spot. I was here for nearly ten days with but one day of rest.

"I really reached fighting condition along about Labor Day. If I had gone on that same pace I would have been dead stale now."

Church Series Game Tonight

The First Methodists and Central Presbyterians will clash tonight in the second game of the church league championship series at 6 o'clock on the Croton field.

It was announced by Walter E. Kirker today that Hamilton and Black would handle the umpiring jobs.

The Methodists will bank on Leonard to bring them through while the Presbyterians have Melder ready for action.

ALONE DOESN'T AVERAGE SO GOOD AGAINST BRAWN
GENE TUNNEY
Sors

By NORMAN E. BROWN

Gene Tunney is an interesting challenger of the heavyweight championship— regardless of the merits of his claim on the right to meet Dempsey.

Here we have a man of peaceful habits—a desire to follow artistic or literary pursuits—rushed into the fight game, and that by an odd route.

The challenger had no thought of becoming a professional boxer when Uncle Sam called on the youth of the country to throw its strength and virility into the great melee abroad. Tunney found himself laying aside his books to don a tin helmet and a rifle—as a marine.

It was while abroad that he found himself drawn into boxing matches and eventually found himself figuratively shoved into a light heavyweight tournament in Paris, which left him champion of that division in the A. E. F.

Back home his fame had spread—and a ready fortune lay ahead of him should be choose to continue his efforts in the ring.

Purely a made fighter—a pawn of fate.

He doesn't like fighting.

The feminine members of his family will not see the fight—will not even get round by round flashes from the battle. "It is a man's game and not a nice one for them," he says.

Likes Philosophy, Good Fiction.

He would rather discuss philosophy, would rather read the works of H. G. Wells, discuss the magnetic fiction of Joseph Conrad or mull over Freudian theories than talk boxing.

And yet he finds himself training diligently for a crack at the greatest honor in fistiana—the heavyweight championship of the world.

How can his intellectual complex be considered an asset or liability in his efforts?

I once held to the illusion that brains could triumph over brawn in the ring, as in any game. But frequent glimpses of the exponent of brain and science stretched full length on the floor with the primitive man shaking the flecks of blood from his battered lips and grinning eagerly for more have changed my mind.

I had that view when Dempsey and Jess Willard met. Here was the biggest heavyweight the game has known, the man who met the crafty Johnson, going into a championship battle, an experienced fighter, a mature man whose association with persons of various wealth and breadth of vision about the world had seemed to broaden his vision and thinking powers.

Dempsey The Roamer

And going in against him was a man who knew nothing but the desire to lower his head, start a weaving, shifting waddle towards his opponent and hammer his way through said opponent. His travels had been aimless ones of "the road."

Willard's successes in the oil fields, his sophistication, his very sang froid, meant nothing to Mr. Dempsey, the killer.

Then I saw Dempsey against Georges Carpentier, well educated, member of the social elite of France, friend of the big men of his country, actor, student of art and literature and master of boxing as it might be studied by learned professors.

And I saw Carpentier's aides carry him to his corner after a valiant but futile effort to stop the killer.

Carpentier was then one of the fastest, cleverest men the ring has known. And he carried a wallop.

As I say Corbett, young refined, well educated bank clerk, marked up on "hit" for brains in the heavyweight division but the percentage is the other way.

Philosophy, psychology, psychoanalysis and all the other psychos and advanced degrees in arts and sciences seem ordinarily to carry the professor up to and inside the ropes but apparently cannot be laced inside the glove with the knuckles. And it is the stuff put in and behind the gloves that counts.

Tunney may emerge from the ring Sept. 23 as heavyweight champion of the world. This article is not meant to disparage his chances. But the point is that it will still be a debatable question as to what part philosophy and what part the old John "sock" in his trusty left played in the victory.

Uniontown Man Is Held For His Part In Prohibition Raid

(International News Service)

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Sept. 17.—Further developments in Prohibition Administrator John D. Pennington's action in dismissing Earl Farner and Smith Moore, dry agents, on charges of entering the homes of three Greensburg farmers without warrants, were expected here today with the announcement that O. M. Day of Uniontown was being held for action of Fayette county authorities.

Day, although not connected with the prohibition forces, was alleged in charges filed by Edward Krobok, C. G. Beistel and J. M. Douglas to have taken part in the raids.

Krobok alleged that he was handcuffed to his premises.

Pennington said in dismissing Farner and Moore that he would recommend to Fayette county authorities that the men be held for possible prosecution under state or county statutes.

Says Dempsey Will Win In Three Rounds

(By NORMAN E. BROWN.)

I ASK YOU:

Can Tunney halt Dempsey in 10 rounds? The challenger took 12 to stop Tommy Gibbons and 15 to win a technical k. o. over Carpentier.

"Doc" Bagley the man who managed Gene Tunney for three years and steered him cleverly through the pitfalls of pugilism, steps to the front with the statement that Dempsey will knock out the challenger in three rounds at the most.

Jack Kearns, former manager of Jack Dempsey, says in his daily writings that Dempsey is only a fair fighter and Tunney can lick Jack if the former adopts the right tactics (Kearns being needed in Gene's corner to direct those tactics.)

It's a bit late to suggest this. But why not match Bagley and Kearns for the semi-final?

There never has been staged a heavyweight championship battle during the preparation for which so many side issues and irrelevant conditions befogged the main issue at hand—the question as to which was the better fighter.

Tunney's war record.

Dempsey's war record (dug up by the same fans.)

Dempsey's fight and break with Kearns.

Political wrangling of the New York state boxing commission in the early weeks.

Dempsey's failure to meet Wills.

These and a half dozen other matters are brought up in most any levee in which the fight is the piece de resistance.

Why?

Tunney did go through "that hell over there." This is gladly said to his credit. But Dempsey's gameness in the ring never has been questioned. And this is to be a ring battle—not a trench warfare.

I heard some 80,000 fans cheer Georges Carpentier to the echo because of his war record the afternoon he walked into the ring to fight Dempsey. The other 15,000 fans cheered Dempsey. The moment Carpentier dropped to the floor 95,000 fans cheered Dempsey. So this means little.

The presence of Jack Kearns in Dempsey's corner is of secondary importance to his physical condition. If he is but a shell of his former self the advice of a hundred wise boys, yelled from his corner or shoved into his ear will not aid him. Condition is the main thing.

The furore created by the New York boxing officials has died out. The commission might will be classed as dead also. The aspersions they cast at Dempsey, his unwillingness to fight Wills and all that tommyrot has been forgotten by Dempsey.

And by no stretch of imagination can Dempsey's willingness to meet Tunney rather than Wills be laid to his fear of the negro. What has Wills done to make Dempsey fear him? Tex Rickard made Dempsey a satisfactory offer to meet Tunney. The public reacted favorably. Which is proof enough that there is no great following which carries the belief that Dempsey sidestepped Wills.

The original purpose of pitting two men in the squared arena was to determine which was the better man. The purpose of the coming heavyweight holiday is the same.

It is idle chewing of the fat, therefore to bring in these outside matters in weighing the worth of the two men.

There is but one thing that might be considered aside from the relative condition and ability of the fighters. That is the fact that fighting is Dempsey's game. He was born to combat, reveled in it as a youth, depended upon it for a living and climbed to the title over a row of unconscious forms placed horizontal by his fists. Tunney is a made fighter—tailor made and gently so.

You might ponder on that a moment.

Lincoln and Douglas.

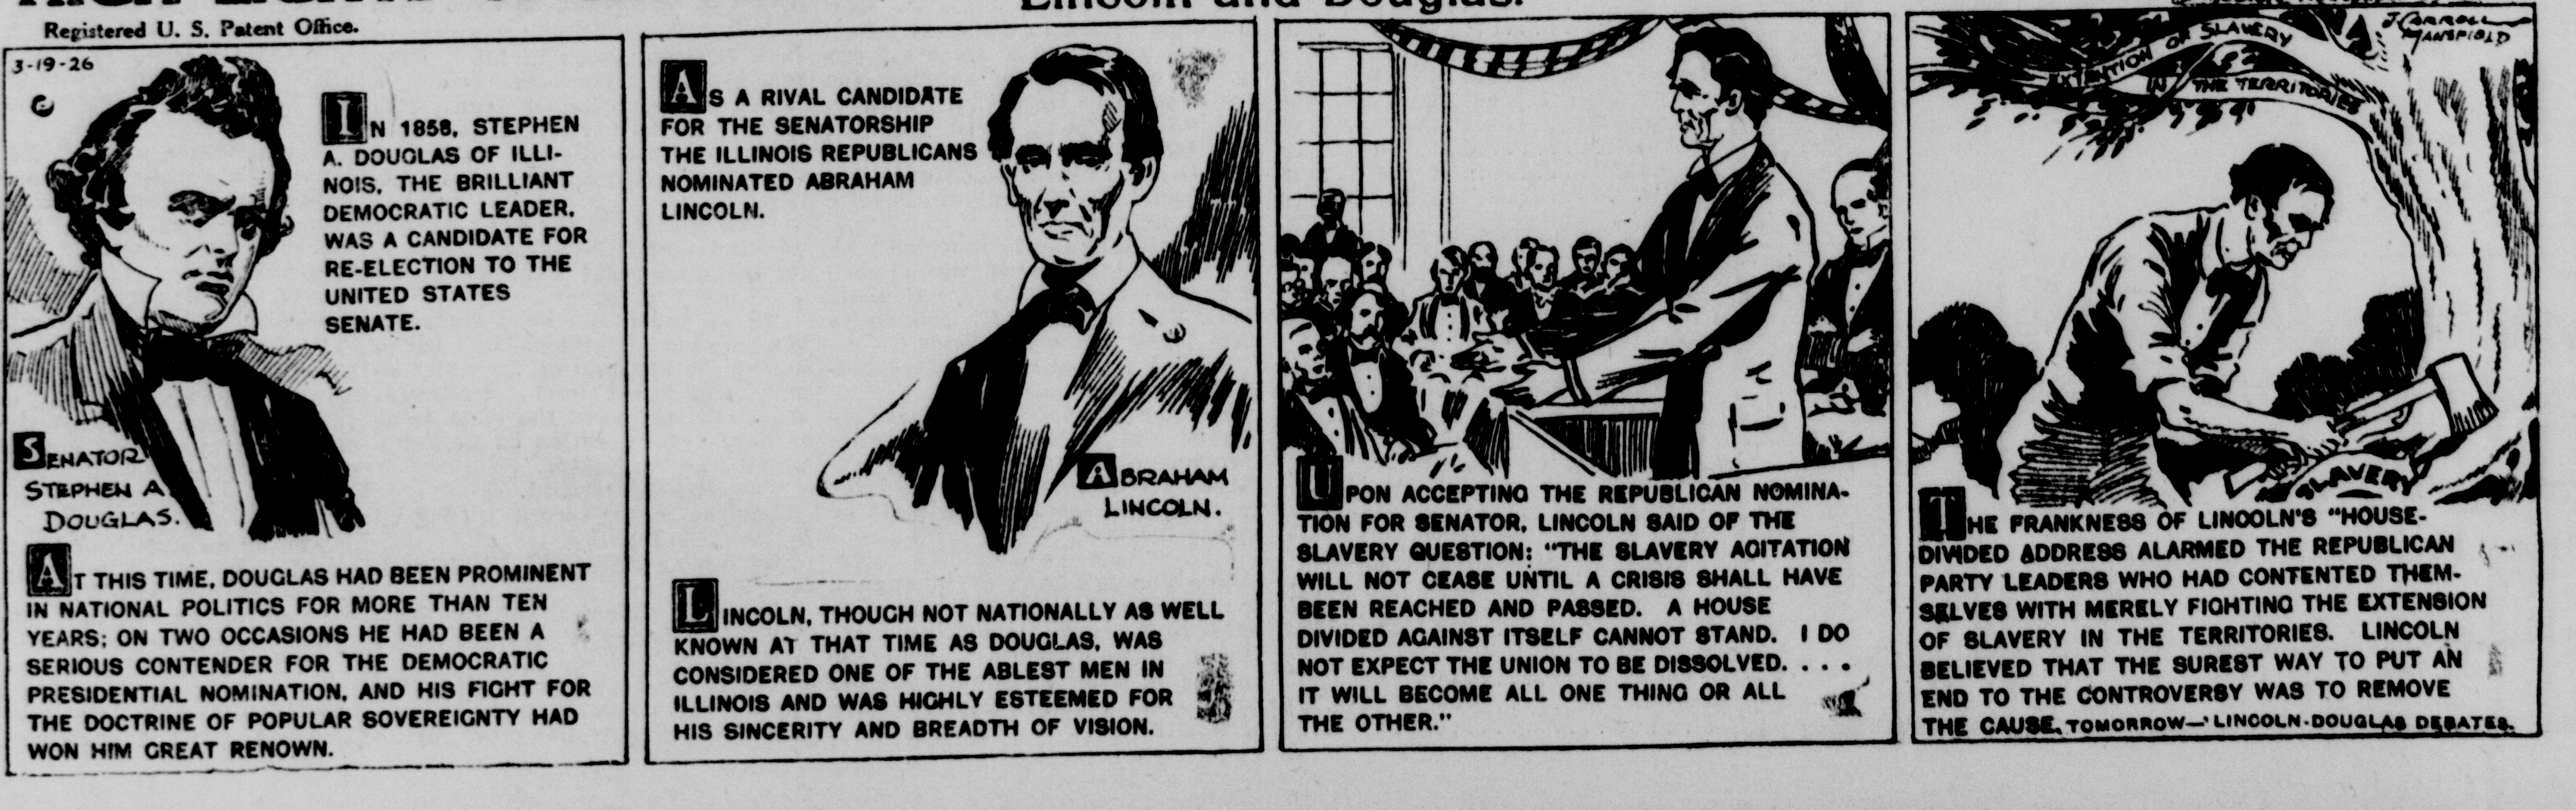
© McClure Newspaper Syndicate



3-19-26
IN 1858, STEPHEN A. DOUGLAS OF ILLINOIS, THE BRILLIANT DEMOCRATIC LEADER, WAS A CANDIDATE FOR RE-ELECTION TO THE UNITED STATES SENATE.
SENATOR STEPHEN A. DOUGLAS.
AT THIS TIME, DOUGLAS HAD BEEN PROMINENT IN NATIONAL POLITICS FOR MORE THAN TEN YEARS; ON TWO OCCASIONS HE HAD BEEN A SERIOUS CONTENDER FOR THE DEMOCRATIC PRESIDENTIAL NOMINATION, AND HIS FIGHT FOR THE DOCTRINE OF POPULAR SOVEREIGNTY HAD WON HIM GREAT RENOWN.
AS A RIVAL CANDIDATE FOR THE SENATORSHIP THE ILLINOIS REPUBLICANS NOMINATED ABRAHAM LINCOLN.
ABRAHAM LINCOLN.
LINCOLN, THOUGH NOT NATIONALLY AS WELL KNOWN AT THAT TIME AS DOUGLAS, WAS CONSIDERED ONE OF THE ABLEST MEN IN ILLINOIS AND WAS HIGHLY ESTEEMED FOR HIS SINCERITY AND BREADTH OF VISION.
UPON ACCEPTING THE REPUBLICAN NOMINATION FOR SENATOR, LINCOLN SAID OF THE SLAVERY QUESTION: "THE SLAVERY AGITATION WILL NOT CEASE UNTIL A CRISIS SHALL HAVE BEEN REACHED AND PASSED. A HOUSE DIVIDED AGAINST ITSELF CANNOT STAND. I DO NOT EXPECT THE UNION TO BE DISSOLVED. . . . IT WILL BECOME ALL ONE THING OR ALL THE OTHER."
EXTENSION OF SLAVERY IN THE TERRITORIES
J. CARROLL MANSFIELD
SLAVERY
THE FRANKNESS OF LINCOLN'S "HOUSE-DIVIDED ADDRESS ALARMED THE REPUBLICAN PARTY LEADERS WHO HAD CONTENTED THEMSELVES WITH MERELY FIGHTING THE EXTENSION OF SLAVERY IN THE TERRITORIES. LINCOLN BELIEVED THAT THE SUREST WAY TO PUT AN END TO THE CONTROVERSY WAS TO REMOVE THE CAUSE. TOMORROW—LINCOLN-DOUGLAS DEBATES.

N. Y. STOCKS

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—Industrial stocks displayed a firm tone on early trading today, but considerable uneasiness resulted from the sharp decline in the reserve ratios of the principal reserve banks as well as the reserve system as a whole. This situation was utilized by the professionals as an aid to their campaign against stock values. Stocks were poured into the market and with few exceptions the trend of prices was again definitely downward.

Not much satisfaction was taken from the fact that discounted bills for the reserve system as a whole declined $48,732,000. The financial districts saw the infallible signs of approaching higher rediscount rates and the bullish forces in some sections of the market were in full retreat.

Heavy selling was resumed in stocks which have displayed a reactionary tendency in the last few sessions of the market. These included Mack Trucks, which was swept backward 3 points to 109 in the first hour; Hudson Motors, which declined 2 to a new low.

Selling pressure spread to all of the important industrial groups in the second hour. Numerous losses of a point or more incurred by the well known steel, oil, copper, equipment and specialty stocks. Rails were firm and generally inactive, though New York Central, Missouri Pacific and other active shares sustained fractional declines.

Curious Beliefs Held By Trinidad Natives

"Port of Spain is the principal city of the island of Trinidad in the West Indies and is the most colorful cosmopolitan city in the world," says an American citizen, who has returned to his native land for a visit after an absence of two years, according to the Detroit News. "The streets of Port of Spain," he says, "present the appearance of a strange pageantry, so varied are the people. Strangest of all are the native black people. Here you will see nose rings and all sorts of weird styles in hairdressing. They are so fond of bracelets that their forearms, from wrist to elbow, are completely covered with all sorts of metal circlets. Nor is it unusual to see their lower limbs adorned in the same fashion.

"All our servants are these black people. They are excellent servants, but their many taboos and superstitions are very trying, unless you have a good sense of humor. They go by the moon and stars in everything. They refuse any sort of an undertaking unless the aspect of the moon is propitious. They also have special taboos pertaining to things hot and cold. None of them will, under any circumstances, put their hands into both hot and cold water on the same day. They believe that if they do this they will die in three days. By the moon they reckon time and forecast the future. By the moon they hold their pagan ceremonies and one might say that by the moon they live and by the moon they die."

The last days of the presidential vacation at White Pine Camp find the Coolidges well rested for the year's stay in Washington. And the new presidential fedora is being broken in. The Coolidges, mother, father and son, are seen walking across the bridge to the tea house, with Rob Roy, one of the White House collies, trotting ahead.

DIRIGIBLE WILL START LONG TRIP

(International News Service)

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Sept. 17.—A final overhauling was given today to the army's RS-1, largest semi-rigid dirigible in the world, preparatory to taking off from Scott Field tonight on a 1,200 mile trip, the largest flight of the huge airship since it was put into commission last January.

The trip will take the RS-1 to Detroit and Chicago and then back to its home port, arriving at Scott Field next Tuesday morning under the schedule worked out by Lieutenant- Colonel John A. Paegelow, commanding Scott Field.

Weather permitting, the ship will take off about 6 o'clock tonight and arrive in Detroit early tomorrow morning.

Grant Permission For Sewer Connection

After Weeks Of Delay Wheels Are Finally Started On Sewer Project

After several weeks' delay, city council today referred to the city solicitor a request by the National Radiator to be allowed to connect with the city sanitary sewer system at the plant.

The city solicitor will prepare the necessary documents which will result in the company receiving permission to make the connection.

The request was presented August 27. When Engineer Miller presented his report to council it lacked a recommendation.

Today R. W. Boisinger requested council to furnish a definite reply.

Councilman Genkinger said that the company should be allowed to make the connection and he believed in making a concession, if necessary.

Mayor Dunlap said he believed that action should be taken and that he favored granting the permission.

Council next referred the matter to Solicitor White.

Officer Rescues Frightened Dog

When a man, who declined to give his name or address appeared at the police station this morning and reported that there was an airdale dog at one end of the West Side bridge, which was barking and growling and would not permit any person to get near it, Officer D. T. Nelson, to whom the report was made, had visions of a possible drowning of the dog's owner.

Detective C. C. Horner and Officer Pete Hillers were detailed to the scene post haste and they discovered their airdale dog without much trouble.

It was a mere pup in the first place and in the second place, the officers discovered that it had evidently slipped from the bank to a ledge just above the water. Being young, it was frightened and for that reason could not be approached with ease.

Officer Hillers let himself down on another nearby ledge and lassoed the poor frightened puppy and brought it to the river bank. It was without a collar or license tag, indicating possible ownership.

Texas Maidens Fail To Snare Bachelors

By MILLER HOLLAND
International News Service Staff Correspondent

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 17.—"Bachelorhood is the insignia of superiority. Bachelors are not fooled by silk stockings, henna hair or lipsticks. It is far more enjoyable to have a strong drink with twenty women than to sip tea with one woman forever. What we need is more girls and less wives."

William H. McCarthy, Pacific Coast baseball magnate, bachelor de luxe, was talking. He was replying to the lady down in Texas who said that men ought to get married as soon as possible and not permit women to pass into miserable and disillusioned spinsterhood.

The lady is Miss Jane Harley of Abilene and she recently unloaded a piece of her mind at a meeting of the Bachelors' Club in Slaton, Texas.

"How do you men get that way," the lady is quoted as having addressed herself to the bachelor gentlemen of the Slaton club. "By what right do you assemble here to organize a bachelors' club with statewide ramification to perpetuate upon the young men of Texas an insidious organization that seeks to put away forever all human happiness. Have you considered the happiness of womankind?"

San Francisco Fights

Just how Miss Jane's effusion was taken down in Texas was not reported but the lady certainly did not make a hit in San Francisco.

McCarthy was among the first to come to bat for the men. He went on thusly:

"Girls should remember that bachelors just happen. They are made, not born. Most have been badly frightened in their youth. This particularly virulent Texan probably scared the wits out of the entire membership of the Texas Bachelor's club, and instead of converting them, confirmed them in their misbeliefs. You cannot 'Carrie Nation' a man into a lucky wedding ring.

Don't treat the bachelors rough. Be kind to them. Girls should remember that you can tame almost any kind of an animal with gentle words. After all, a bachelor is only a lonely brother stranded by the wayside."

George Sterling, famous California poet and another much angled for bachelor, agrees heartily with McCarthy.

Something Must Be Done

"I don't blame the men for organizing," Sterling said when told about the war in Texas. "Something must be done for self-protection and preservation. But at the same time I don't blame the lady for her attempt to foil their safeguard. After all, she is only following the feminine perogative and proclivity of looking for a man. My sympathies? — Well, they're with the men, naturally."

A third broadside was let loose by Dr. W. P. Read, prominent physician and member of the Elks' Club and the Shrine, who came right out with the flat assertion that the Texas men have the right idea.

"We bachelors must organize, we must arm in our own defense," Dr. Read declared emphatically. "The very fact that a female of the species—and Kipling tells us rightly that she is the more deadly—could penetrate into the sacred walls where this heroic band of men had foregathered, shows the dangers with which we have to contend.

"Some will fall in the contest, but in unity there is strength. I hope that San Francisco bachelors will join in this heroic move started by the Texas brothers and unite for the defense against the beauties of today."

Scottish Drys In Fight Against Beer In Cities; 200 Boroughs Affected

By CHARLES A. SMITH
International News Service Staff Correspondent

GLASCOW, Sept. 17.—"Beer or no beer' 'is to be the burning question in 200 Scottish burghal areas during the next three months, local prohibitionists having started another drive to make Scotland as dry as the Sahara.

This time the "drys" mean to go about the matter thoroughly. Their offensive has opened with the issuance by local town clerks of requisition forms which, under Scottish law, must be signed by ten per cent of the electorate of any ward before a poll can be taken in their area.

"This is to be our biggest fight yet", an official of the prohibitionist's headquarters told International News Service. "Hundreds of saloon licenses are at stake in the present fight, and we want to make at least one-third of Glasgow dry. The fight is also being waged in Hamilton, Coatbridge, Motherwell, Edinburgh, Aberdeen, Dundee, Airdrie, Greenock, Paisley, Clydebank, Port Glasgow, Ayr, Galashiels, Hawick, Selkirk and many other areas.

"When the present drive has ended we are then going to agitate for legislation to prevent men clubbing together in dry areas and buying liquor wholesale."

900 Czech Lunatics Are Poisoned By Rotten Meat

(International News Service)

OBER BERKOWITZ, Czecho-Slovakia, Sept. 17.—Nine hundred inmates and the entire personnel of the state lunatic asylum here have been poisoned by eating diseased veal. Most of the victims were stricken during the night and included most of the staff. Hundreds of the inmates, unable to relieve the pain, attempted to escape from the building, the interior of which was wrecked by their attempts.

No deaths resulted, although many are still ill.

SANITATION STATISTICS

After a brief disclosure on sanitation the hygiene teacher inquired:

"And now children, why does one take a bath?

There was something of a commotion in the room when one small girl replied:

"Because TWO makes the water too dirty."—Youngstown Telegram.

Red-Headed Beauty Contest Winner Simply Detests Men With Red Hair

(International News Service)

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 17. "It would be mighty queer if a girl had not been kissed by the time she was 21." says Miss Elsie Oakes, winner of a red-headed beauty contest recently held here.

Miss Oakes who is 21, with blue eyes and wears her haid bobbed and skirts short, admits however, that her pet detestation is men with red hair. In reply to a questionaire submitted her, she says she prefers men with "black hair, gray eyes, a ready smile and a sense of humor."

She neither smokes nor drinks liquor, coffee or tea, but likes dancing and other forms of exercise. She replied to other questions as follows:

"Should a girl roll her stockings?"

"It makes a person much cooler."

"Should a woman wear a brassiere?"

"Not unless she has too. I wear a brassiere only when my dress is tight."

"Do you walk much?"

"Only when I have to."

"Would you prefer long skirts if they were fashion?"

"My goodness no! I like to have freedom of action for my limbs and short skirts are so much cooler in hot weather. I do not consider short skirts immodest."

"Do you prefer marriage to a career on the stage?"

"Yes, of course, if the proper man came along with the right words it would be hard to say no."

Miss Oakes' measurements are height 5 feet; weight 110 pounds; waist 24 inches; calf 13 inches; ankle 8 inches; hips 32 inches; bust 32 inches.

Youngster's School Hats in delightful styles and in the new colors — channel red, sand, brown, etc. Specially priced tomorrow at only $1.95, at TAYLOR'S MILLINERY.—Adv.

Missouri To Enforce Its Criminal Laws

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Sept. 17.—The much discussed question of law enforcement in Missouri which has already led to many suggestions and movements aimed at more adequate and rapid administration of the statutes has taken another turn. A campaign has been launched by the Law Enforcement association of Kansas City, sponsoring changes in the criminal code to make obtaining of pardons less easy and imposing restrictions on the pardoning power.

Among the other changes which the society favors and will be introduced at measures are the reduction of the time allowed for perfection of appeal from one year to six months for padlocking of resorts for one year, for repeal of the law prohibiting acceptance by trial judges of a plea of guilty until the defendant has consulted an attorney for state prosecution of narcotic violators.

The information also comes in for suggested changes. The form used in Missouri is verbose and complex. The form sought by the society is patterned after that in use in Manitoba, Canada where a brief statement of the case is sufficient.

French Revive Falconry; Honor African Prince

(International News Service)

LUCHON, Sept. 17.—A famous sport of the Middle Ages, falconry, was revived in honor of the visit of the Bey of Tunis. Accompanied by his two sons, the Princes Azzedin and Lamine, the Bey was the guest of honor at a gala celebration held in the park of the Palace Hotel.

The star attraction of the fete was the revival of the ancient sport of kings. Two hooded falcons were presented to the Bey before they were uncovered and flung aloft to pursue a flock of game birds that had been specially released for the occasion.

Ideals are like trees. They grow slowly and offer shade, but can be killed by numerous pests.

People are becoming much more hardy. One lie killed Ananias.
